

79-2

BIBBART

Theological seminary,

PRINCETON, N. J.

SAMUEL AGNEW.

OF PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Letter.

march 35 th. 1858.

Christus Sacræ Scripturæ Nucleus:

OR,

CHRIST

THE

Sum and Substance

Of all the

Holy Scriptures,

INTHE

Old and New Testament.

Written in the German Language, by AUGUSTUS HERMANNUS FRANCK, D. D.
Now render'd into English,

By an Antient Doctor of Physick.

LONDON:

Printed by J. Downing in Bartholomew-Close.
M.DCC.XXXII.

THE

PREFACE.

HEN a Book pleases us, we are naturally curious about the Author: we love to know the Progress, by which his Mind came into such a train of Thought: and his Story often serves to illustrate and confirm his Notions. This has made me inquisitive, concerning the Character of Professor Franck: and having seen some Papers, in which he himself had described the former Part of his Life; I thought the Substance of them might furnish a proper Preface, for the following Translation.

AUGUSTUS Herman Franck was born at Lubeck, on the 12th of March A.D. 1663. his Father Mr. John Franck, was a Counfellor at Law; and his Mother Ann, was Daughter of Mr. David Gloxin fenior, Burgomaster of Lubeck.

A 2

MR.

Mr. John Franck the Father, was Syndick of the Chapter of the Cathedral Church, and of the feveral States of the Principality of Ratzenburgh, at the Time when Augustus was born; but three Years after, he removed with his Family to Gotha, having accepted the Office of Aulic Councellor to his most ferene Highness, Ernestus Pius Duke of Saxe Gotha. He lived but four Years after this removal, and died when this his Son was feven Years old. But before his Death, he had observed in the Child, fuch early Indications of Piety, and particularly a great love of the Holy Scriptures, that he had defigned him for the Church: and his Mother, continuing the same Resolution, had him, together with fome Children of the neighbourhood, instructed by a private Tutor.

IT is grievous to reflect, how early the Conversation of the World is infectious. Even the little Plays of Children left to themselves, are not harmlefs. They wrangle, they cheat, and oppress one another: and those of them, who are naturally the most innocent, find themselves not a Match for their Fellows, till by often fuffering little Frauds or Violence, they are provoked to practife them in their turn, to do as they are done by, and become unjust,

deceit-

deceitful, and mischievous, as it were in their own Desence.

The young Augustus experienced this, as he after acknowledged and lamented: but his own little Deviations proved serviceable, for preventing in a great Measure the like Errors in the vast Number of Children, whose Education has been since committed to his Care by Divine Providence; for it was his Custom always to appoint some sober Person to be present at their Play-Times, to interpose in their Disputes, and moderate their growing Passions with a gentle but unremitted Discipline.

HE had, as was faid before, from his Infancy, difcovered a great Difposition to Piety and Devotion; which as long as his Father lived, had been cultivated with Care, and fenced from the Contagion of bad Examples; but after his Father's Death, he was left more to himself and Companions of his own Age, with whom he contracted evil Habits, and lost much of that Sense of God which had before prevailed in his Heart.

However, about the tenth Year of his Age, it again revived, and he felt (as he himfelf describes it) a Divine Attraction in his Soul, which made him disrelish and despise the common Amusements of Childhood. He then re-membred the Words of Christ, Matt. vi. 6. When thou prayest, enter into thy Closet, and earnestly desired his Mother to allow him fuch a retreat. She granted it, and every Day after, when his Tutor difmiffed him, instead of going to play, he went to his Closet, and kneeling down, with Hand and Heart lifted towards Heaven, he faid his Prayers with great Fervency. He used often to repeat the following Words, which he had never been taught, but were the pure Suggestions of his own Mind, or rather of the Holy Spirit that prayed in him: "Dear God! it is necessary that there should be " various Employments among Men, which have their different Ends; yet " all finally concur to the manifestation of thy Glory. I humbly befeech thee, "that my Employment may be fuch, as may tend folely and immediately " to thy Glory."

HE was not a little assisted in these good Dispositions by his elder Sifter, who had feared God from her Infancy, and was early removed from this World to a bleffed Eternity; she had a great Zeal for the spiritual Improvement of her Brother, and for that End, had engaged him, when he was very young, to read the Holy Scriptures, and John Arndi's Treatife of True Christianity, with with other pious Books. Her edifying Conversation, was a daily Lesson to him, and her good Advice, was so authorized and enforced by her good Example, that it had a great Essect upon him.

HE continued to advance very much in his Studies, fo that after having been one Year at the great School at Gotha, he was publickly elected for the University at the Age of thirteen. He has fince declared, upon mentioning this his uncommon Proficiency, that he has found by a long Experience, that the more assiduous he was in Devotion, the greater Progrefs he made in his Studies; and that when he neglected his Prayers, he could do nothing well at his Book, altho' he exerted himfelf with the greatest Application. It should feem, that his Talents, which were destinated to the Service of Religion, could not improve under any other Influence.

He was in a very good Disposition, when he first went to the publick School at Gotha: He was frequent and servent in Prayer, and particularly, he befought God to grant him the Acquaintance of such Friends there, as had the same Design with himself, to serve God saithfully. But such Friends are rarely found in any part of Life, and more rarely among Boys at School: and he A 4 being being of a friendly, focial Spirit, foon grew familiar and intimate with fuch as he met with: whose bad Examples had an ill Effect upon him, so that he infensibly lost his former Zeal; and got worldly Tasts and Desires; so that his Learning became a subject of Vanity, and his Industry the tool of Ambition.

'Tis the Misfortune of good-natur'd ingenuous Spirits, that they are so easily wrought upon; their Modesty and Complaisance are often Snares to them: Mr. Franck learnt this by himself, and thence used to insist, with great earnest-ness, upon the necessity of arming the Minds of young Persons with repeated Advices of the Corruption of the World. Religion in Youth is almost always a singularity; and he that will maintain it, must dare to be good at the price of being ridiculous.

ALTHO' Mr. Franck was nominated fo early for the University, yet he did not go thither till two Years after, and the Interval was employed under a private Tutor in Academical Studies, which for the eight Years following, he profecuted at the Universities of Erfurt, Keil, Leipsick, and Luneburg, with such Application and Success, that he excelled in almost every Branch of Science, and was, of his Age, one of the most learned Men then living. To the Knowledge of the learned Languages, he had added that of the French, Italian, and English: but his greatest Application had been to the Hebrew Tongue, which he studied under the samous Ezdras Edzard, and in which he perfected himfelf by teaching it to Mr. Weichmansbausen, since Professor of Hebrew at Wittenberg.

In the Year 1685. He commenced Master of Arts at Leipsick, and soon after, he was very instrumental in setting up a Society called Collegium Philo-Biblicum. The Intention of this Society was, to cultivate the Knowledge of the Scriptures in the Original Languages: for which End, many Masters of Arts agreed to meet every Sunday after Divine Service, from 4 till 6 in the Afternoon. In these Assemblies was read a certain Portion of the Old and the New Testament in the Originals, and then a Conference was held, in which they proposed feverally, what occurr'd to them as proper to explain, or illuftrate, or apply what had been read. A great Number of the Scholars attended thefe Affemblies as Auditors: and many of the Professors themselves, honoured them with their Presence. This Society proved a happy Seminary, which produced produced many illustrious Ornaments of the Lutheran Church.

ABOUT this time, there happened an Accident, which feems to have been the occasion of his first becoming acquainted with the mystick or spiritual Writers. The Doctrines of Molinos had been just then censur'd by the Inquisition at Rome, and he condemn'd to a perpetual Imprisonment. The News-Papers, after their Manner, gave fome account of his Tenets: and an extract of his Writings, made by his Adversary Segnerio, was inferted in the Acta Eruditorum Leipsensium. Upon these Materials, one of the Students, without having ever feen any of Molinos his Writings, kept an Act de Quietismo contra Molinofum. The Principles of Molines had been for fome time a common Subject of Conversation, and this Disputation raifed the curiofity of the Publick, fo that there was a general Defire to read the Author himself. A Person of Note defired Mr. Franck, who understood the Italian, to make a Latin Translation of his Writings, which he undertook, with the Approbation and Encouragement of several of the Professors: and after having consulted the Mystic Authors therein referr'd to, and taken pains to make Molinos his Sense as plain as possible, he published in Latin his Spiritual Guide and Daily Communion, with a short Preface, in which he fully declared his own Intention.

But fome time after, the Adversaries of Mr. Franck took this handle to asperse him, as one that had imbibed the Principles of Molinos, and afterwards instilled them into others. To which charge he made the following Apology.

Apology.

First, The reading and translating the Works of Molinos was not the beginning of my Conversion, as I shall relate hereafter more at large.

Secondly, I NEVER faid, either in Publick or in Private, that I could approve or defend all that Author faies.

Thirdly, I rather perfwade others to read the Holy Scripture, and onely fuch Books as build their Doctrine upon the fure Foundation of the Word of God. Tho' I do not deny my Abhorrence for the abfurdity of those, who condemn this Author without understanding, or even reading him: yet charge him with monstrous Opinions, which most probably never came into his Mind. In opposition to such rash Censurers, I have maintained, that many useful and edifying Observations were contained in his Book, which I never should, or could difdisapprove, or condemn. Truth is precious from whatever Hand it comes, and the Scripture commands us to try all Things, and hold fast and adhere to that which is good: Such for Instance, is what he faies of Humility in his third Book, of which I heartily profess my Approbation: Such are the few Admonitions which he gives to the Father Confessors in the fecond Book, which are generally worthy to be observed: Such also, is his Doctrine of Christ, as the only Way, and the only Door, by, and through whom we are to come to God, and in whose Blood we are to be purified, that we may become acceptable in his fight. Again, the Expressions which are inter-fpersed through his Works concerning fpiritual Temptations are grounded upon Experience; whereof a mere animal and worldly-minded Man is not a capable Judge: But those who have tasted of that bitter Cup, will often find them just and edifying. There are many other Passages, which neither I, nor any true Believer can difapprove, because they are grounded upon Scripture, and agreeable to the established Articles of our Church. But if any should find in this Author, something contrary to Scripture, let fuch know, that I never defire to be Partaker of his Error; vet I shall not, however, to gain any Man's favour, condemn what I do not understand, or reject what I find warranted by Scripture, altho' it comes from a Person of a different Perswasion. It is certainly very unjust, to charge him with the Errors of any Book, who approves what is good in it: you may with as much Reafon call him a Heathen, who commends Tully's Offices: Or brand him for a Papist, who takes a good Interpretation of a Scripture 'Text from Estius, Cornelius a Lapide, or other Commentator of that Communion: Or stigmatize him for a Calvinist, who should confess that the Book called Self Deceit, had discovered to him his finful State: or that Southom's golden Fewel had awakened his Conscience, or that he had been edified by any of the fo called Reformed Books. Those who are fo forward to cenfure others, have feldom any Reason to give but their wicked Sufpicion, which rash Judgment, the just Judge will not leave unpunished.

To conclude, I have read and tranflated the Books of Molines, without any Intention of making myfelf a Party in the Dispute: I have approved them no farther, than they are agreeable to Scripture; so that no Person can pretend that he has been offended by any Difcourse of mine upon that Subject: I appeal to all lovers of Truth, and Men of Conscience: And as to my own particular in this Point, my Conscience applauds me before the righteous Judge of the World.

I HAVE transcribed at length, this Apology of Professor Franck for two Reasons: First, Because many serious Perfons have, and may hereafter stand in need of the same Defence against the blind partiality of Sectarian Zeal: And Secondly, Because his acquaintance with those spiritual Writings was soon after followed by his total Conversion, which happened about this time: For hitherto his Studies had been principally directed ad Pompam, as he expresses it; his main Defign had been to get Learning, Preferment, Riches, and an eafy Life; and tho' he had frequent Fits of Serioufness and Devotion, fo that he often began to reform, yet he was stilldrawn away by the Multitude, and his Knowledge of Divinity proved only a dead and fruitless Speculation. I was (faith he) in my Heart a mere animal Man, who had a great deal in his Head, but was still a Stranger to that real Substance and Truth which is in Christ Felus.

But

But at the time abovementioned. which was in the twenty fourth Year of his Age, God was pleafed to touch his Heart more effectually, and make him fenfible, that a mere fpeculative Knowledge of Divinity as a Science, was by no means a fufficient Qualification for the Ministry: And that he should impose upon the World, if he undertook the Office of Preaching, before he had himfelf practifed the evangelical Doctrines: And hereupon, he befought the Lord with great earnestness, to work in him a total Conversion. The Effect of this Prayer, was a greater Sense of his de-pravity and worldly mindedness, and his utter Incapacity to deliver himself by his own Endeavours. Hence he fell into great Perplexities and Agonies of Mind: he felt more and more his own wretchedness: and as his Distress encreased, so did his Desires of Deliverance.

A PROVIDENTIAL Accident at the fame time concurr'd to the fetting him loofe from the World: For the Patron of an Exhibition which he received, advised him to go from Leipsick, to the University of Luneburg, to hear the Divinity Lectures of the famous Superintendent Sandhagen: This at once broke off all Engagements of Company and old Acquaintance. At Luneburg, he Boarded in a private Family; but spent the greatest Part of his time in his Chamber, where he gave himfelf continually to Prayer and Meditation.

Some time after his Arrival, he was defired to Preach at St. Fobn's Church, and had a confiderable time allowed him to prepare his Discourse, the Text he chose was the 31 Verse of the 20th Chapter of St. 70hn, These are written, that we might believe that Jesus is the Christ the Son of God: and that believing, ve might have Life through his Name. From these Words, he proposed to shew the Properties of a true and living Faith, as distinguished from that which is a mere human Imagination or Prefumption. As he was meditating upon this Subject, he reflected that he himself was destitute of the Faith he would describe; this put a Stop to his Study, and turned all his Thoughts upon himfelf. He fell into great agonies of Spirit, and continued for feveral Days inconfolable, till at length it pleased the Lord to lift up the Light of his Countenance upon him, and to fill him with that Faith, for which he was rightly disposed by a due Sense of his Want of it.

Two Days after he Preached the Sermon, which he had promifed, upon the Text abovementioned: and could truly apply to himself those Words of the Apostle, 2 Cor. iv. 13. Having the same Spirit of Faith, according as it is written, I believed, and therefore have I spoken: we also believe, and therefore Speak. " This (faid he) is the time, from which I date my real Conver-" fion; for ever fince, I have always found it easy to deny all Ungodliness and worldly Lusts, and to live fober-" ly, righteously, and godly in this prefent World. Ever fince I have kept close with God, and have accounted CC as nothing all Promotions and Preferments in this World, and the Grandeurs, Riches, Ease, and Pleasures " thereof. And whereas I had but too much idolized Learning, I now perceive that a Grain of Faith far ex-" ceeds all humane Sciences; and that 23 all Attainments at the Feet of Ga-" maliel, are to be valued like Dung, in comparison of the Excellency of the Knowledge of Fesus Christ our Lord." Some of that Knowledge, he has endeavoured to communicate in the following Treatife; wherein the Divine Glory of Jesus Christ, is vindicated with such and fo many Arguments, that as nothing thing more need, so little more can, be faid upon that Subject. The pious Reader will be particularly pleased and edified, by the Author's large Comment upon the beginning of the Gospel by St. Fohn, wherein the Generation of the Word is described, and his necessarily eternal Existence, demonstrated in the clearest and strongest Lights; for it is shewed undeniably, that the Word and Wisdom of God are the same: from whence may be drawn as a certain Confequence, that to suppose God without his Word or Wisdom, is to make him a dumb Idol, which is equally absurd and blasphemous.

But to reassume our account of the Author. I have observed in the Lives of holy Men, that tho' they have all the Virtues in some certain Degree, yet commonly each of them excels in some particular Virtue, which constitutes his particular Character. The great Virtue of Faith, seems to have been the distinguishing Characteristick of Professor Franck, as the Reader may have remarked in his Conversion. This Divine Quality prevailed in him afterwards, to a degree that feems miraculous, as will appear by many Instances, in the History of the Orphan-house at Glauca near Hall which is a University in Saxony, but fubject fubject to the King of Prussia, by whose Appointment, Mr. Franck was here made Professor of Divinity, and at the same time Pastor of the Parish of Glauca, which is in the Suburbs.

THIS Establishment of this Hospital, as the Faith from whence it fprung, may be compared to the Grain of Mustard-feed, mentioned in the Gospel: Its Beginning was exceeding fmall and contemptible, but its Progrefs was furprifingly great, and fo drew the Attention of the Publick, that in the Year 1700. Frederic the First, Father of the prefent King of Prussia, gave a Commission to four Privy Counfellors, that they should examine, and bring him full Information concerning it. They, after taking an exact Survey of all the Particulars relating thereto, commanded the Professor Franck, to give them in Writing a full Account of that Affair, viz. by what Means the Hospital was erected and maintained; and to what Uses it was employed. He did fo, and the Royal Commission being much talked of, a general Curiofity was raifed; and the Professor was importuned by many Perfons, to publish the Substance of what he had laid before the Commissioners. To fatisfy these, and at the same time to confute many Calumnies and Mifrepresen-2 2 presentations that had been spread abroad; he printed an Historical Account of the whole Affair (as it had been laid before his Prussian Majesty) by the Title of Pictas Hallensis: the Substance of which is as follows.

In those Parts, the Poor have no Settlement upon Parishes; but it is an ancient Custom in the City and Suburbs of Hall, to appoint a particular Day every Week, whereon the Poor assemble at the Doors of such charitable Persons as are disposed to relieve them.

A RENDEZVOUS of Beggars is a Spectacle, which in the generality of Beholders, moves fome fuperficial Sentiments of Pity, with a Mixture of Ridicule and Contempt. The Professor faw them with other Eyes: he was intimately touched with Compassion for all their Wants, but especially for their gross Ignorance, and want of Religion. Our common Beggars are, generally fpeaking, the Dregs of Mankind, as well in their Vices, as their Poverty: and their Children, almost fatally engaged in the fame Wretchedness, are bred only to make a trafic of their Mifery: they are heathenish and brutal, and even lost to all Sense of Shame, that last Defence of Virtue. Such Distress in Fellow-Creatures, cannot but touch the Heart of a good Man, but it is difficult to know how to fuccour it. Prefent Relief may ferve to protract their wretched Lives, but the only effectual Service that can be done them is, if possible, to reclaim them from their profligate Courses.

of

This was what the Professor had very much at Heart, and to make fome Esfay towards it, one Thursday (which was the Day of their Meeting before his Door) he called them all into the House, and having placed the grown Perfons on one fide, and the Children on the other, he in a familiar and engaging Manner asked the latter, viz. the Children, what they understood of the Principles of the Christian Religion, as taught in Luther's Catechism. The elder Persons were not examined, but only attended to what was faid: and after the Professor had spent about a Quarter of an Hour in teaching and explaining the Catechifm, concluding with a fhort Prayer, he distributed his Alms as usual: and told them, that for the future, both spiritual and temporal Provision was defigned for them, and should be administred after this Manner, at their Weekly Meetings at his House. This was about the Beginning of the Year 1694.

By this practice, the Professor grew more nearly acquainted with the Temper and Manners of this fort of People: and as he was used to consider all Things in their relation to God and another World, he was principally folicitous about their Instruction: But this he found a very hard Task, and, as he expresses it, he scarce knew where to begin the Cultivation of fo barren a Soil: His chief Hopes were of the Children, and therefore he refolved to pay for their Schooling: But besides this Expence, he had feveral poor Houfekeepers to fupport, and his own little Fund foon fell short: So he bought an Alms-Box, and fent it about every Week among the Students, and others that were charitably difpofed: By this Means he collected about the Sum of two Shillings.

It is necessary here to inform the Reader, that in that Part of Germany, the value of Money is very different from what it is in England. One Shilling there will go as far as six here: and such Allowance must be made in the Sums hereafter specified.

The Alms-Box above mentioned, was handed about for fome Weeks; but as none were applied to but fuch as were charitably disposed, the Collections proved so small, as not to answer the Trouble; so that Method was laid aside. What followed upon this, shall be related in the Author's own Words. " I fixed (fays he) a Box in my own Parlour, with these Words written over it, John iii. 17. Whoso hath this World's 66 good, and feeth his Brother have need, and shutteth up his Bowels of Compaf-fion from him, how dwelleth the Love of God in him? And under it, 2 Cor. ix. 7. Every Man according as he purposeth in his Heart, so let him give, 23 not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God 33 loveth a chearful Giver. This was 33 intended for a tacit Admonition to all ÇÇ that came in, to open their Hearts towards the Poor. The Box was put up in the Beginning of the Year 1695. "And thus I was taken up a great while, with contriving effectual Me-"thods to provide for the Poor, and " each of them hath been bleffed in its " Degree. One Day before I fixed " the aforefaid Box for the Poor in my " House, I took the Bible, and as it " were by Accident, did light on thefe " Words: 2 Cor. ix. 8. God is able to make all Grace abound towards you, that ye always having all sufficiency in cc all. Things, may abound to every good CC Work. This Sentence made a deep CC Impression on my Mind, causing me 66 to think: How is God able to make 66 this? I should be glad to help the Poor, 2 4 had I wherewithal; whereas now I am forced to send many away empty and cc unrelieved! Some Hours after, I re-CC ceived a Letter from a Friend, who CC heavily complained that he, and all CC his Family, were like to perish with cc Want; faying he would borrow no 66 more, but if any one would for God's 66 fake make him an Object of his Cha-CC rity, he should ever retain a grateful CC Remembrance of it. This minded CC me afresh of what I had read a little CC while before, and made still a deeper CC Impression on me, attended with Sighs 66 and Aspirations. After some debates €€ in my Mind, I thought on a Project, €€ how to relieve effectually this poor 66 Man in his prefent Want, and yet 65 in a Christian manner, and without cc giving the least trouble to any Person 23 whatfoever. This then I fpeedily CC put in Execution, and the faid Fami-CC ly was fo fuccessful, as to get within 60 the compass of one Year, about (a) an CC Hundred and Fifty Crowns by this 60 Means: And fo their falling into ex-66 treme Poverty was happily prevented. This proved a sufficient Demonstration, how God is able to make us a-CC bound to every good Work; which I CC could not forbear here to mention, becaufe

" because it helps to discover, as well the outward Cause, which our Undertaking took its Rise from, as the frame of my Mind, which the Lord upheld for carrying on the Work.* THE Children, whose teaching the Profesior paid for, were negligent, or neglected at the School: fome of them stayed often away, and in general, they made no Improvement: fo that he was very defirous to have a School of his own, where they might be taught under his Inspection. And while he had this design at Heart, a certain Person put into the Box set up in his House, to the value of Eighteen Shillings and Six-pence English, this was about Easter 1695. When he found this Sum, he faid in full affurance of Faith: "This is now a considerable Fund, worthy to be laid out in some important " Undertaking; wherefore I will even " take this for the Foundation of a Cha-" rity-School. The fame Day, he laid out eight Shillings in Books for the Children to read in: A Room before his Study Door was fitted up for the Charity School: and a poor Student was hired for one Shilling a Week, to teach the Children two Hours a Day. Seven and twenty Books were distributed to as many Children, but only four of thefe * Piera: Hallenfis, p. 11. §. 5, 6. Ed. 1705.

these returned again to the School: the rest ran away with their new Books, and the Professor heard no more of them. This, instead of discouraging him, convinced him so much the more, of the Necessity there was of endeavouring to reclaim such young Vagrants. So he bought more Books, and got more Scholars; and that he might not again lose both

In this School, he had put up another Alms-Box, with this Infcription over it; For defraying the Charges of Schooling, Books, and other Necessaries for poor Children, Anno 1695. And under it, He that hath pity upon the Poor, lendeth unto the Lord: and that which he hath given, shall be paid him again.

together, he made them leave the Books

A BOUT Whitfontide, till which time, (as the Professor had before computed) his little Stock lasted; when it was now just spent, some Friends, who came to visit him, pleased with this Essay of Charity, contributed some Crowns to the Support of it.

at the School.

AFTER Whitfontide, some of the Inhabitants seeing how carefully the poor Children were taught, desired that they might send their Children to the same Master, paying him for his Trouble: so he agreed to teach sive Hours a Day,

and

and his Salary was encreased to two Shillings and fix Pence a Week.

ALMS were now distributed two or three times a Week to the Children, that they might be engaged to come more constantly to School, and be kept in better Order. And as this little Beginning came to be known abroad, feveral Perfons fent in Money and Cloathing for the Children, thereby to hire them, as it were, to receive Infruction. The Profesior already found in part that Promise verified, that God would make him abound to every good Work: fince befides maintaining his School, he had wherewithal to affift poor Houfekeepers; for he disposed of what Providence fent, as fast as it came, without follicitude for Futurity.

Before the end of this Summer, a Perfon of Quality fent to the Professor five hundred Crowns, upon Condition, that some Part of it should be disposed of to poor Students in the University. This greatly encouraged him, and he presently enquired after the more necessitous among the Students, to twenty of whom he gave a weekly Allowance. He looked upon this as a Call of Providence, to make indigent Scholars a Part of his Care, which he continued to do, as long as he lived, making an Esta-

xxviii The PREFACE.

Establishment for them in his Hospital, as will be hereafter related.

Soon after, another Person of Quality sent a hundred Crowns for the Poor, and a Friend gave twenty towards the School: "So that, as he saith himself," God mightily supported what was begun, and his Bounty streamed down more plentifully, to shew us, that he was ready to do still greater Things, if we could but believe.

THE Number of the poor Children, and those of the Inhabitants, encreased to such a degree, that in the beginning of the Winter, he was obliged to hire a second Room: and then he separated the Children of the Inhabitants from those of the Poor, appointing each a peculiar Mafter.

But as the spiritual Welfare of the poor Children, had been the first and principal View of the Professor, in the Care he took of them; he found that, after all his Pains, this was little advanced, because the Good they got at School, was lost at Home. This made him resolve to single out some Children, and venture upon their Maintenance, as well as their Education; and this sirst disposed him to concert Measures for an Hospital, before he knew of any Fund for its Maintenance.

WHEN

WHEN he discovered his Project to fome Friends, one of them fettled five hundred Crowns, the Interest of which was appointed for the Maintenance of one Orphan; four were prefented to the Professor, for him to make his Choice. He ventured (as he speaks) in the Name of God, to take them all four. In less than a Fortnight, he received at different Times five more, and boarded them with Perfons that had a good Sense of Religion.

THE Divine Providence eminently concurred with this pious Enterprize: for foon after, above one thousand four hundred Crowns were fent from different Hands. The Professor thus supplied, and encouraged outwardly, and led and fupported inwardly, by fuch fublime Degrees of Faith, as nothing but experience like his can give us worthy Notions of, bought, fitted up, and furnished a House to serve as an Hospital, for the reception of the Orphans under his Care. Their Number was increased to twelve, when they were removed into this House, from the private Families where they had been Boarded.
In this little Hospital, every Child was laid in a Bed by himfelf; they were well cloathed, and fed and taught: they were kept in great Order; and a general

ATABLE

OF THE

CONTENTS.

100
S	ECT. HO is the Sum and Substance
	I. of the whole Sacred Writings. Page 1
	I. of the whole Sacred Writings, Page 1 Sect. II. What our Duty is in this Important Affair, 2
S	ECT. III. With what Mind, and with what Intention, this Knowledge is to be fought, ibid.
S	ECT. IV. That this Wisdom is of the highest Estimation,
V	ECT. V. In what School this Wisdom is to be learnt,
C	FOR VI Is this Cabal on an among the largest
D.	ECT. VI. In this School, no one perfectly learns all Things, ibid.
0	ECT. VII. He that has learned any Thing in this School, tho' it be never so small, ought not altogether to conceal it,
5	ECT. VIII. Who must supply Strength for performing this Part,
S	ECT. IX. What ought to be our Scope in reading the Holy Scriptures, ibid.
S	ECT. X. The Means of attaining to this End, 7

b 2

SECT.

XXXVi	The	C	0	N	干	E	N	71	S.
W# C# T# 4 T	'w TIA	_	-	Pr - 2	- alle	-	* *	200

SECT. XI. That this is not to be obtained Prayers alone, but that Meditation is also	0 quisite, SECT. XII. What Means may be used, if N	leditation does not succeed according to our Wi	sh,
	9
SECT. XIII. Also what to be done, if many P. ces seem difficult and obscure,	10-
SECT. XIV. By what Degrees, an entrance made to the reading of the Holy Scriptures,	I 2
SECT. XV. That great Benefit may be hop for, from comparing the Testimonies of Prophets, with those of Christ and his Ap	13
SECT. XVI. That fingular Profit may be 15
SECT. XVII. That we ought to give strict A tention to all the Words of Christ and 16
SECT. XVIII. That great Diligence is requir in this Meditation on the Holy Scripture
SECT. XIX. That we ought always to perfeve	id.
· T · 7 · 7 · 7 · 7 · 7 · 7 · 7 · 7 · 7	17
SECT. XX. After a diligent and frequent Per fal of the New Testament, Christ will	18 clearly discerned in the Old, SECT. XXI. That the Old Testament reflect Light upon the New,	19
SECT. XXII. That this may be illustrated
Example, Sect. XXIII. The Words of St. John are reci	20 ted, on which the Meditations are framed,

The CONTENTS. xxxvii

The FIRST MEDITATION.

Of	the I	Divine	Simplici.	y which	St. John
U	fes in	the B	eginning	of his	St. John Gospel.

SECT. XXI	V. That	t thefe	are 1	not t	be fu	blime
Words, w!	bich St.	Paul ac	count.	s as	alien	from the Divine			: 1 i .			23

SECT. XXV. That great Simplicity may be obferved in St. John's Words, 26

SECT. XXVI. What is to be thought of too many learned Men, who often wrest these Words (of St. John) from their natural Simplicity, to a manifestly wrong Signification, SECT. XXVII. That there are known Examples of Rationalists, having been effectually struck and convinced by this Simplicity of the Words of St. John,

SECT. XXVIII. That the Mind of St. John was fo humble and honest, that we may from thence conclude his Words proceeded from the greatest Simplicity,

SECT. XXIX. Why this Simplicity of St. John is a little more largely proposed to Consideration,

SECT. XXX. A Prayer to Christ, for the True Knowledge of the Simplicity and Perspicuty of the Holy Scriptures, 35

xxxviii The CONTENTS.

The SECOND MEDITATION.

In which the Beginning of St. John's Gospel is compared with the Beginning of the Book of Genefis.

SECT. XXXI. That St. John, in the Beginning of his Gospel, doth refer to the Beginning of Genesis,

SECT. XXXII. A Prayer to be joined with this comparing of Moses and John, 40

The THIRD MEDITATION.

In which the Beginning of St. John's Gofpel is compared with other Places of Scripture, of the Old and New Testament.

SECT. XXXIII. That thefe Words of St. John may be also explained by other Places of the Old and New Testament,

41

SECT. XXXIV. Other Places of Scripture tending to illustrate this Matter, 44

SECT. XXXV. What Benefit may be hoped for from fuch Meditations and Comparisons, 58

Shot. XXXVI. A Prayer for the opening the Eyes of our Minds in this important Concern,

The FOURTH MEDITATION.

Of the fingular Emphasis, and strong Significancy of the Words and Expressions of St. John, in the Beginning of his Gospel.

Sect.

The	C	0	N	T	E	N	T	S.	XXXXX
-----	---	---	---	---	---	---	---	----	-------

SECT. XXXVII. That many Things remain fill bid in the emphatical Expressions which St. John uses, SECT. XXXVIII. That fo great Depths, unfathomable plainly to Reafon, lie bid in that one Word nor , [or the Word] as ought to encrease our Humiliation, SECT. XXXIX. What Things are further to be considered in these emphatical Words of St. John, SECT. XL. What peculiar Account may be given of the Words κατέλαβεν, παρέλαβον, and έλαβον, or comprehending and receiving, SECT. XLI. Why in treating here of the Eternal Word, there is mention made of John the Baptist, 74 SECT. XLII. That there is also a peculiar Emphasis in the Words & λόγ & εσκήνωσεν εν ήμων, The Word dwelt among us, 78 SECT. XLIII. Why the Evangelist returns afresh to speak of John the Baptist, and what is to be understood by ninears, He cried, SECT. XLIV. In what the Testimony of John the Baptist consists, SECT. XLV. What is to be observed concerning Grace for Grace, and comparing of the Law and Grace and Truth one with another, 86 SECT. XLVI. How great Sense is comprised in the 18th Verse, where there is so notable mention made of the only begotten Son, who is in the Bosom of the Father, and bath declared him. SECT. XLVII. What Prayers the Consideration on all these Things should draw from our Hearts. 91. The

xl The CONTENTS.

The FIFTH MEDITATION.

Wherein fix Arguments, proving the true Divinity of Christ, which occur in the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, are diligently examined.

SECT. XLVIII The First Argument,	93
SECT. XLIX. The Second Argument,	98
SECT. L. The Third Argument,	109
SECT. LI. The Fourth Argument,	120
SECT. LII. The Fifth Argument,	129
SECT. LIII. The Sixth Argument,	142

Now this Argument comprises fifteen important Points.

1. That all the Holy Scriptures inculcate upon Men this Faith in Christ.

2. That Christ fends not Men to any other, but calls them to Himfelf.

3. That the Apostles have required the same

Faith in Christ our Lord.

4. That this whole Faith confifts of fuch Particulars, as are not to be attributed to any created Being.

5. That Faith is to be given to Christ, not as a Minister, but as the Lord of our Salvation.

6. That we are commanded to live and die to Christ, is likewise an Evidence of his Divinity.
7. What is signified by those Expressions.

8. That our Duty to renounce all Things for Christ's Sake, gives Testimony also of his Divine Glory.

9. That Christ is to be loved above all Things, is also a Testimony of his Divinity.

The CONTENTS. xli

10. The Obligation of putting our Trust in Christ, as in God himself, is an Indication likewise of his Divine Glory.

11. That we are commanded to give our Hearts unto Christ, is another Argument to confirm this Affertion.

12. A farther Confirmation bereof is, that we are to serve Christ in Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost.

13. That the Honour of religious Worship to be performed to Christ, is also an Attestation of his Divine Glory.

14. Our being baptized in the Name of Christ, is also a Demonstration of his Divine Glory.

15. Christ's bestowing eternal Life, is another Proof of his Divine Glory.

SECT. LIV. What further use may be made of the fix preceeding Arguments, 173

SECT. LV. What ought to be considered of by Persons who are manifestly given up to contrary Opinions, and are become Champions for them,

SECT. LVI. What ought to be thought of fuch, who deny the Godhead of Christ, and yet mightily pretend to good Moral Doctrine, and integrity of Life,

SECT. LVII. That all Morality defitute of the Foundation of a living Faith, is unprofitable and insufficient; what Advice is to be given to those who depart from this Foundation of true Morality,

SECT. LVIII. What Prayers and Praises should from these Considerations be excited in our Minds,

198

xlii The CONTENTS.

The SIXTH MEDITATION.

Of the Mystery of the Incarnation.

SECT. LIX. That 'tis to be considered, who Christ was before his Incarnation, and who He now is, after he was made Man, 200

The SEVENTH MEDITATION.

Of the Benefit we enjoy by Jefus Christ.

Sect. LX. That God has embraced us in his Son with an eternal Love, and that from hence all manner of Good is derived to us, 205

The EIGHTH MEDITATION.

Concerning the truly divine Order wherein we are made Partakers of all the Benefits that accrue to us by Christ Jesus.

SECT. LXI. In what Manner and in what Order we are to use the Benefits of Salvation, obtained by Christ for us, 212

The NINTH MEDITATION.

How we may be instructed, from the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, to know Christ, as the Sum and Substance of the other Writings of St. John, and of all the Holy Scriptures.

SECT,

The CONTENTS. xliii

Sect. LXII. That from the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, we may also learn after what Manner, in his other Writings, and throughout the whole Scripture, Christ is to be known,

217

SECT. LXIII. What besides this Instance, more at large explained, may farther conduce to the Knowledge of Christ, as the Sum and Substance of the Holy Scriptures, 223

SECT. LXIV. That a diligent Consideration of the Names and Appellations of Christ, affords also great Instruction.

SECT. LXV. That 'tis not fufficient for us to know all these Things of Christ, but that besides this Knowledge, there is still more required of us,

SECT. LXVI. In what Things, and especially in what Manner, Christ Mystical is to be fought,

260

SECT. LXVII. The true and fafest Way of following and possessing Christ, 262

SECT. LXVIII. What Course is to be taken, when Christ long fought after is not found by thee, 264

SECT. LXIX. How all this fo difficult a Work ought to be recommended to God by Prayers,

272

7 2

Christus

-do-A Secretarian section of the second section of 1-1

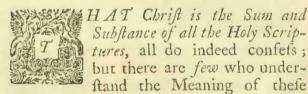

Christus Sacræ Scripturæ Nucleus:

OR,

CHRIST the Sum and Substance of all the HOLY SCRIPTURES, &c.

SECT. I.

Who is the Sum and Substance of the whole Sacred Writings.

Words; fewer labour much to find out this Substance, and know in what manner to make their Inquiry; the fewest of all, are those who advance so far in it, as truly to eat of this Kernel, or Substance, and use it for the Nourishment and Support of their inward Man.

1

SECT. II.

What our Duty is in this important Affair.

SINCE therefore This is of all others our greatest Concern, 'tis fit the Reader of the Holy Scriptures should in the first Place be admonished, not to stick in the Rind of their external History, Letter, and Words; but that he ought to seek Christ himself, as the Kernel (or Substance) of the Holy Scriptures, and to seek Him in such a manner that he may certainly find Him, and satisfy his Soul with Him.

SECT. III.

With what Mind, and with what Intention, this Knowledge is to be fought.

THIS is (אמת כטחות ובהתם חבמה)
Truth in the inward Parts, and Wifdom in the hidden Part*, which is not acquired by loading the Memory only with the various Interpretations and Opinions of learned Men, nor the most acute Researches of a natural Understanding: Nor does it confift in bare Knowledge; but is rather first founded in the most ardent Desire, and faithful follicitude of refcuing one's Soul from Destruction. It creates a Change of the Heart into the divine Nature and + Temper; and declares its high and beavenly Dignity by its divine Light, Operation, and real Virtue and Efficacy; great Peace, continual Joy, purity of Heart, fweet Union with God, Communion in and with God, and the spiritual and heavenly Exercise of Love, (whereby whatfoever Good redounds to the Soul from God, diffuses itself to all others without Distinction) by all these, I say, it declares its high and divine Dignity.

SECT. IV.

That this Wisdom is of the highest Estimation.

THIS Wisdom far surpasseth all human Wisdom; as Life is preferable to Death, Light to Darkness, Substance to a Shadow. For in this Wisdom alone is Truth, Light, and Life. The most celebrated Arts of all learned Men, compar'd with This, are Smoak. Hence the Scripture faith, * Let not the wife Man glory in his Wisdom.

† John i. 12, 13. 2 Cor. iii. 18. 2 Pet. i. 4.

SECT. V.

In what School this Wisdom is to be learned.

of the Holy Spirit. Unless God himself perform the Office of a Teacher, not even the first Foundation of it can be laid. For Christ says, † No Man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw him: And again, it is written in the Prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every Man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me.

SECT. VI.

In this School no one perfectly learns all Things.

I N this School, no Mortal perfectly and fufficiently learns all Things: But 'tis a Thing very pleafing to God, when we recite to one another what we have learned, as diligent and attentive Scholars. Since he is fo merciful as to vouchfafe his Bleffing to this Exercife, and to edify and ftrengthen strengthen one Person by another, tho' it be not lawful for any Man to call himself Master: * for One is our Master.

* Fer. ix. 23. 1 Cor. i. 31. + Fohn vi. 44, 45.

SECT. VII.

He that has learned any thing in this School, tho' it be never so small, ought not altogether to conceal it.

AS to my felf, I reckon I am but a Novice, and one of the least Disciples in this School; and that I have tasted but fome little Drop of this vast Ocean of Wisdom, which is in Jesus Christ, and have greater Cause than + Job, to say; How little a Portion (שמץ רבך) bave we beard of bim: Yet, with Simplicity of Mind, I adventure to rehearfe my Lesson, and impart to others according to my Knowledge, as far as it can be done, in few Words, in what manner they ought to feek, find, and tafte Christ, as the Kernel (or Sum and Substance) of the Holy Scriptures; and to nourish, satiate, and fustain their Soul with him, unto Eternal Life.

B3 SECT.

* Matt. xxiii. 10.

SECT. VIII.

Who must supply Strength for performing this Part.

MAY God, through his infinite Grace and Mercy, blefs my Endeavours, and by them bring many into the Way, by which they may have Life, and that they may have it more abundantly *.

SECT. IX.

What ought to be our Scope in reading the Holy Scriptures.

WHOSOEVER therefore thou are that defirest to come to the true Knowledge of Christ, who is the Sum and Substance of the Holy Scriptures, and to be made a Partaker of him, let it be recommended to you above all Things, to consider for what Reason you do read the Holy Scriptures; or what End you propose to your self in designing to peruse the whole sacred Writings; what it is you seek or look for by it; for every thing is to be referred to its true and full Scope or Intention; otherwise the true and full Fruit thereof cannot be expected. In reading the Holy ly Scriptures, the whole Intention of the Mind must be levelled at this, and no other Scope whatever, That (1) we may come to Christ, and (2) by Christ, to eternal Salvation *.

SECT. X.

The Means of attaining to this End.

THAT you may well and happily attain this End, by Means agreeable to the Divine Ordinance, and approved of God, you must not set about it, trusting in your own Strength, Wisdom, and Understanding; or imagine, that by diligent Reading, Meditation and Enquiry, you will be able to fearch it out; or that then you have compaffed your End, when you have acquired some external Knowledge of Christ, his Person, his Natures, Offices, States, and all the Degrees of his Exinanition and Exaltation. But you must humble your felf before God, like a little Child, and begin all your reading of the Holy Scriptures, with a fubmillive Acknowledgment of your own Infufficiency, and with ferious and most ardent Prayers and Sighs to God; nor ought you ever to defift from fuch continual Humiliation of your felf, though having made fome Pro-B 4 grefs

<sup>* 2</sup> Tim iii. 15. Ads x. 43. John xx. 31

gress therein, you may find great Knowledge in the Holy Scriptures. But if you became and remained truly humble, and innocent, like a very little Child hanging at his Mother's Breasts, furely the pure Milk of the Gospel would, without Hindrance, flow into you, and would replenish your Heart, more than it might your Memory. Concerning this Wisdom of Babes, See Matt. xi. v. 25, 26, 27.

SECT. XI.

That this is not to be obtained by Prayers alone, but that Meditation is alforequisite.

NEVERTHELESS the Things now fpoken, are not to be so understood, as if you were not to read the Holy Scriptures, nor to meditate on what you read. Meditation is of admirable Use, being tinged, as it were, with Prayer, and exercised by the guidance of the Holy Spirit. By Degrees you will learn, howfoever difficult it may feem at first; 1. To attend to the genuine Scope of any entire Text. 2. To weigh rightly the Antecedents and the Confequents. 3. To confider distinctly the Circumstances, viz. Who? What? Where? By what Affistance? Why? How? When? 4. To compare one Sentence with another.

ther, the Old, with the New Testament, Moses with the Prophets and the Psalms, &c. to explain some Things by others, the difficult Texts by the more easy ones. 5. To receive the Words of the Men of God, in a Divine Sense, with which they were imbued, (which they have declared more clearly and fully in some Places than in others) not according to their external Sound, nor in a carnal Sense, as the World is accustomed to do. 6. To collect one Truth out of another. And 7. To contemplate with Pleasure, the sweet Har-mony and Connexion of Divine Truths; as there is a Handle given in what follows to fuch falutary Meditations.

SECT. XII.

What Means may be used, if Meditation does not succeed according to our Wish.

NOR ought you to be too anxious when you begin your Meditations on the Holy Scriptures; for if you join ardent Prayers and a holy Defire of knowing Christ, to your reading of them, the matter will thereupon grow better, you will unawares be conducted by God himfelf into the most pleasant and sweet Meditation of his eternal Truth, and he will by little and little, discover to you the inexhausted Profundities and Treasures of Wisdom and Knowledge, that are hid in Christ Jesus*. And for this purpose, a Treatise published by me, and called, A short and clear Instruction for the better Reading the Holy Scriptures with Ediscation, may be of Service to you. And also my Introduction to the Reading the Holy Scriptures, published in the German Tongue †.

SECT. XIII.

Also what to be done, if many Places feem difficult and obscure.

NOR are you to wonder, if at first in reading the Holy Scriptures, many things seem to you obscure, and less intelligible, and that it is necessary for you to read the same Chapters again and again, before you find any thing that can, in your own Opinion, assist you in the Knowledge of Christ. Labour not anxiously to understand things that are too distinct for you, but willingly let them pass, until you have your Senses more exercised in the Divine Mysteries. In the mean time you will always discover some-thing that may lead you forwards to the Knowledge of Christ. The sew Things which you find to be easy, you may prudently turn to your own Benefit, and may use them to the establishing and strengthening your felf in the Love of Christ: Thus difficult Places will, by degrees, become obvious to you. If any Fruit (as fays the Reverend Dr. Spener on this Subject, in his Book of the Doctrine of Faith, p. 495.) hang higher than you can reach, you must be content to feed on that which is lower. Perhaps God also keeps secret in your Heart, this or that Passage, which at present you do not perceive or understand, but will afterwards be made intelligible to you, if, like Mary, * you diligently ponder it in your Heart; while you faithfully obey all the profitable Counfel that is given you, the Divine Light will quickly shine forth unto you, and Christ, as the Sum of the Holy Scripture, will disperse the thick Cloud that is on your Mind, and will illustrate all its Chapters, Verses, and Words, that you may discover That in them, which you could not before by any means be perswaded of.

* Col. ii. 3. † In this Introduction, there is succinctly shown the Scope of the Books of the New Testament, and lately published in Latin, with the Scope of the Books of the Old Testament.

SECT.

* John xili. 7.

SECT. XIV.

By what Degrees an Entrance is made to the Reading of the Holy Scriptures.

BUT that you may have the fafest and furest Instruction, how you are to proceed by Degrees, and fo the fittest and best Help may be administred to your Weakness, and to your Senses, as yet but little exercised in the Word of God; it is meet, if you defire to feek rightly, and to find Christ in the Holy Scriptures, that you begin with fuch Things as are most clear and easy in this Point. Now the New Testament, in what it teaches concerning Christ the Saviour of the World, is much more explicit than the old, nay, without Controversy, it is the true Key of the Old Testament; while, I. He is therein made present to us, who is promised in the Old Testament, and there prefigured by Types and Shadows; and 2. Whilst the Evangelists and Apostles do hardly any thing elfe, but (as B. Luther (peaks) compel and fend us to the Old Testament in Search of Christ. Here then it is supposed, that the whole Bible, or all the Writings of the Old and New Testament, have been once at least read over, and the Course of Things, described in both Testaments, summarily understood by this Perusal; but afterwards, when the more folid, and more proper Knowledge of Divine Truth comes to be difcust by a nicer and fuller Enquiry, from the Foundation now laid, the most convenient Method for understanding the Do-Etrine, is chiefly, and in the first Place, to begin with the Writings of the New Testament, to meditate upon them with the greatest Industry, and to render them familiar to you.

SECT. XV.

That great Benefit may be hoped for from comparing the Testimonies of the Prophets, with those of Christ and his Apostles.

IN the reading of the New Covenant, this ought to be always the chief, nay, the only Defire of your Soul, that you may come to the faving and lively Knowledge of Jesus Christ. But that you may arrive at this, it is not only necessary, that you have your Mind and Heart pioully and devoutly fixt on the Person, Words and Works, as also on the Passion of Christ, but that you diligently examine also the Words alledged ledged in the New Testament out of the Old, as Testimonies concerning Christ; that you turn to them in the Book of the Old Testament; frequently read over the antecedent and following Texts in Moses, the Prophets, and the Pialms, where the cited Testimonies are adduced, and most humbly pray to God, and earnestly befeech him, that he would open your Understanding to perceive and know, how Christ and his Apostles did interpret the Old Testament. Which Pains if you shall not grudge to take, (fince to a Mind defirous of the true Knowledge of Chrift, it is rather true Pleasure and Joy, than Labour) you will unawares tread in the fafest and most certain Way of coming to true Wisdom. For you will procure Christ himself and his Apostles, to be your Teachers and Instructors, and by them you will, like a Child, be brought into Discipline, you will be instructed, you will be, as it were, led by the Hand to know rightly, how you ought to feek and find Christ, as the Sum and Substance of all the Scriptures, for the quieting and faving of your Soul.

SECT. XVI.

That fingular Profit may be expected from fuch Comparisons.

WHEN you have, for fome time, frequented this School of Christ and of his Apostles, and being introduced by these Masters into the Old Testament, that is, Moses, the Prophets, and the Psalms, and shall have well learnt, like a diligent and attentive Scholar, what Places are chiefly alledged by them, for the Instruction and Conviction of Men, concerning the Person of the Messiah, his Office, and Benefits, that Jesus is he of whom Moses and the Prophets have written, to wit, the Son of God, and the true Saviour of the World; then you ought to mark those Places for Fundamentals, or in them to lay a Foundation of a fure and faving Knowledge of Christ. Which Foundation being rightly laid in the School of Christ and his Apoftles, you will, in a short time, better apprehend all their Discourses. For you will perceive, in their very Words, and usual Ways of speaking, that they every where have Respect to the Old Testament, and do, as it were, fearch into its inmost Vitals, through the Conduct of the Spirit of Wifdom, fo that even one little Word (as Luther speaks) shall look through all SECT. the Old Testament.

SECT. XVII.

That we ought to give strict Attention to all the Words of Christ and his Apostles.

WHEREFORE it is not only most necessary to lay very carefully the abovementioned Foundation, from the Places quoted out of the Old Testament, by Christ and his Apostles, but you must accustom your felf to attend to, and confider every Word which they have spoken, and examine diligently whence it is taken, and what particular Emphasis it hath; nay, you must continually accustom your self, by the Help of the Scriptures of the New Testament, to converse with Christ and his Apostles, as your best Friends, and by meditating on their Words and Discourses, to enter upon every Day, as it were a familiar Conference with them.

S E C T. XVIII.

That great Diligence is required in this Meditation on the Holy Scriptures.

AFTER this manner David hath treated the Words of the Law, as is to be be feen in the 119th Pfalm. Hence he could fay, * Mine Eyes prevent the Nightwatches, that I might meditate on thy Word. How much more does it behove us carefully to ponder the Words of the New Covenant, which declare unto us fo great Salvation? and if God so blessed the Meditation of David, can we think he will deny us his Grace? Oh, that the Things we have spoken of, were performed with a Mind, humble, docile, and defirous of divine Grace, with the Bleffing of God always earneftly implor'd! we should then be good Proficients; digging thus, we should penetrate deep, lay a firm Foundation, and acquire true Wisdom.

SECT. XIX.

That we ought always to persevere in Diligence and Humility.

FOR he that watcheth for Wifdom, (6 appearate, whom the Study of Wisdom hardly fuffers to fleep, but takes away his Rest) Shall quickly be without Care +. But he that is contumacious and refractory, and behaves not himself in this School, with Lowliness and Humility, but quickly loaths the heavenly Manna of the Words of

* Pfalm cxix. 148. † Wifdom vi. 6.

of Christ, the Apostles, and Evangelists; that refuses to examine all Things with a calm Spirit, nor cares to proceed gradually, but presently assumes a haughty Spirit, as those learned Men, who are wise according to the Flesh, are wont to do, such an one will never arrive to any firmness and certainty, nor be made a Partaker of Christ, the very Substance of the Holy Scriptures, to the Delight of his Soul.

It behoves you therefore to observe well the Counsel that has been given you, if indeed you seriously desire to seek and so to find Christ in the Scriptures, that not by unprofitable Science, but by the lively Efficacy of a full and fruitful Knowledge, you may experience him as a true Preserver and Saviour of your Soul.

SECT. XX.

After a diligent and frequent Perufal of the New Testament, Christ will be clearly discerned in the Old.

WHEN you have thus rightly learnt to know the Key of the Old Testament, and are taught by Christ and his Apostles, how you ought to use this Key to Advantage; then, and not before, you will proceed in proper Order, to the Reading, Meditation, and more accurate Confideration of the Old Testament; you take as it were a Key with you, as often as you go to the Old Testament; you devoutly compare the Old with the New, the Shadow with the Substance, the Types with the Antitype, Prophecies with their Completion. Thus you will understand for what Reason St. Augustin said, * The Old Testament has no true Relish, if Christ be not understood in it. On the contrary, you will be fensible there is much Joy, Comfort and Delight to be found in the Writings of the Old Testament, (especially in reading those Places which were before wearisome, and almost irksome to you) when you perceive Christ so sweetly depainted there.

di-

SECT. XXI.

That the Old Testament restects Light upon the New.

THE more you are exercised in meditating on the New, fo much the easier and quicker will be your Progress in the Old Testament. And as before you were introduced into the Sense of the Old Teflament, by Means of the New, fo now C. 2 MI-

* In his ninth Tract on St. John

Moses, the Prophets, and the Psalms, will, in their Turn, assist you in acquiring so much a more solid and accurate Understanding of the New Testament. The perpetual Harmony and Agreement also between the New and the Old Testament, will cause in you a (TAMPOCOPSIAT) great Fulness of Faith, or will certainly very much consirm and encrease the Faith you have.

SECT. XXII.

That this may be illustrated by Example.

SINCE all Things are better conceived and understood by Example, than by bare Instruction, we will apply the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, for the Illustration of what we have faid. For it cannot be denied, but that this particular Scripture is to be reckoned among the most admirable, and therefore is wont to be laid as a Foundation in all the Doctrine concerning Jesius Christ. Add to this, that it remits us very much to the Old Testament, and for the most part is esteemed hard to be understood. Indeed it is not my Intention at this Time, to lay before you the universal Scope of the Spirit in this Place, the Breadth, Length, Heighth and Depth of it, fince this is neither in any

was

any Man's Power to perform, (because all the Riches of Divine Wisdom and Knowledge are hid in it) nor does the View of this plain Instruction require a Deduction of the Mysteries contained in it, which yet might be made through the Affistance of Divine Grace.

In the mean time, fince my Defign is to render the Reader's Meditations on the Holy Scriptures more easy, and especially his Enquiries concerning Christ himself in them, it will be necessary to form divers Meditations from this Subject, viz. the Beginning of the Gospel of St. John, which will be nine.

SECT. XXIII.

The Words of St. John are recited, on which the Meditations are framed.

HIS Words are these, ver. 1. In the Beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. 2. The same was in the Beginning with God. 3. All things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made, that was made. 4. In him was Life, and the Life was the Light of Men. 5. And the Light shineth in Darkness, and the Darkness comprehended it not. 6. There was a Man sent from God, whose Name was John. 7. The same came for a Witness, to bear Witness of the Light, that all Men through him might believe. 9. He was the true Light which lightneth every Man that cometh into the World. 10. He was in the World, and the World was made by him, and the World knew him not. 11. He came unto his own, and his own received bim not. 12. But as many as received bim, to them gave be Power to become the Sons of God, even to them that believe on his Name, 13. Which were born, not of Blood, nor of the Will of the Flesh, nor of the Will of Man, but of God. 14. And the Word was made Flesh, and dwelt among us (and we beheld his Glory, the Glory as of the only Begotten of the Father) full of Grace and Truth. 15. John bare Witness of him, and cried, faying, This was be of whom I spake, He that cometh after me, was before me (or was preferred before me) for he was before me. 16. And of his Fulness have we all received, and Grace for Grace. 17. For the Law was given by Moses, but Grace and Truth came by Jesus Christ. 18. No Man bath seen God at any Time, the only begotten Son, which is in the Bosom of the Father, he bath declared bin.

Concerning these Words, now follows the first Meditation.

OF the Divine Simplicity which St. John uses in the Beginning of his Gofpel.

SECT. XXIV.

That these are not the sublime Words which St. Paul accounts as alien from the Divine Wisdom.

WHAT St. Paul writes, 1 Cor. ii. 1, 2, 4, 5. holds not good of him alone, but is the true Propriety of all the Apostles of the Lamb. I, Brethren, fays he, when I came to you, came not with Excellency of Speech, or of Wisdom, declaring unto you the Testimony of God. For I determined not to know any thing among you, fave Jesus Christ, and him crucified. And my Speech and my Preaching was not with enticing Words of Man's Wisdom, but in Demonstratism of the Spirit, and of Power. That your Faith should not stand in the Wisdom of Men, but in the Power of God. If any one therefore think otherwise concerning this Beginning of St. John's Gospel, he knows not the Mind of St. John, who, C 4 lying lying in the Bosom of Jesus, perfectly learned the true Wisdom, and purest Simplicity of Children. But that he may feem to use a sublime kind of Speech, is to be attributed partly to the Sublimity of the Things which he declares, and to the Efficacy and Illumination of the Holy Spirit, whereof he had been made Partaker; partly to the Perverseness of the (Yuxing) natural Man, unable to judge truly of spiritual Things. The natural Man, when he hears of Simplicity, looks upon it as no better than Ignorance and Foolishness; whereas indeed the divine Simplicity infinitely surpasses the greatest Wisdom of Men. In this Simplicity, the spiritual Man confiders only the Matter itself, and is no way follicitous about the Loftiness of Words, and the artificial Ornaments of Speech, which the eloquent of the World are wont to demand. He feeks a certain and firm Foundation of Wisdom, in which he may find true Rest for his Soul; which Foundation when he has obtained, and rests securely upon it, the most fimple and common Words, whereby a thing is so express'd, as to be best understood by all, are to him the most grateful and agreeable. Thus ought we to think of the Beginning of St. John's Gospel. Here you have not the exalted Words of Man's Wisdom, nor a pompous and elaelaborate Stile, but the greatest and clearest Simplicity, which derogates not at all from the Majesty and Sublimeness of the things themselves,; nay, the more sublime the things are which he proposes, the more simple were the Words which he chose to express them by. For St. John was a Teacher of the universal Church, who ought fo to order his Ministry for the Interest of the Gospel, that simple and ignorant Men, as well as the acute and intelligent, might enjoy the Benefit of it. And indeed it is the just Appointment of God, that to this very Day the Learned and the Wife should admire the Wisdom of those, who were with Jesus, being ignorant and unlearned Men; as heretofore the Rulers and Elders, and Scribes, and Annas the High Priest, and Caiphas, and as many as were of the Kindred of the High Priest, seeing the Boldness of Peter and John, and perceiving that they were unlearned and ignorant Men, marvelled at them*. Thus those Things are understood to be true which are written: I will destroy the Wisdom of the Wise, and will bring to nothing the Understanding of the Prudent. Where is the Wife? Where is the Scribe? Where is the Disputer of this World? Hath

* Acts iv. 5, 9, 13.

26 Christ the Sum and Substance

Hath not God made foolish the Wisdom of this World *?

SECT. XXV.

That great Simplicity may be observed in St. John's Words.

IF we consider the very Words of St. John, what I pray do we find in them of the Sublime? Nay, does he utter a fingle Word, wherein there is not the greatest Simplicity? He speaks of Christ the Son of God, he calls him the Word, attests he was in the Beginning, and that he was with God, his most beloved Father, before the World was made. And fince he fo attributes Eternity to him, as a Divine Property, and nevertheless affirms of him that he was with God; from whence perhaps it might be collected, that this would clash with the Unity of God, he prefently obviates this finister Interpretation of his Words, by subjoining, that this Word was God himself, and of the same Effence with him from the Beginning. Nay, his manner of Speech was fo very pure and genuine, that he repeats what the Wife of this World may not think needful to be repeated: The fame, viz. (this Word) faith he, was in the Beginning

<sup>* 1</sup> Cor. i. 1 9, 20. Isaiab xxix. 14. ch. xxxiii. 13.

ning with God. However, this Repetition is not unnecessary. For St. John* throughly understood how great Majesty lay hid in this eternal and incomprehensible Union of the Essence and Will of the Father and the Son; and fince by the illumination of the Holy Spirit, he had before his Eyes the Glory which the Son had with the Father before the World was. He thus expresses the fame thing in the most plain and natural Words: This Word was in the Beginning with God. There cannot possibly be more vulgar, plain, and simple Words than these are; but the things contained and involved in them cannot be confidered with Admiration, but by a meek and calm Spirit, which the Holy Ghoft hath vouchfafed to illuminate; but by reason of their Profoundness, can never be (throughly) understood by any mortal Man. Now let any one also consider the other Words of St. John, provided he bring with him an bonest Mind, he cannot well judge otherwise of them, but that they are all plain and perspicuous; for the understanding of which, no one stands in need of the Arts of the learned Men of this World, but 'tis necessary only that a Man should receive these Things so clearly and plainly laid before his Eyes, with Faith and a fincere Mind, that he feek feek for Joy and Comfort from them, and lovingly and thankfully in Spirit and Truth join himself with the most kind and most loving Son of God, as with eternal Life, and the true Light, who did therefore unite himself with Humanity, that he might bring Men into the everlasting and most bleffed Fellowship of an incorruptible Life, and of his glorious Light, that they might receive from his Fulness, Grace for Grace. A Concern, which, to the Grief of all good People, the learned Men of the World do exceedingly neglect, when they strain all the Strength only of their natural Wit, (yet effect nothing by it) to attain to the true Sense of St. John's Words. It is a fingular Mercy of God, if they do not fwerve even from the external Truth, fo evident before their Eyes, but maintain from thence the Eternal Divinity, and the true Humanity of Christ, together with the Benefits obtained for us by his Incarnation. For where they act thus, they do not at least deprive others of the only Foundation of their Safety: but they themselves will reap no Benefit therefrom, but will one Day find, by fad Experience, that their Darkness did not comprehend the Light, because they would not obey him, who would have called them out of Darkness into his marvellous Light *. I am that Light of the World, fays the eternal Word of God; He that followeth me, shall not walk in Darkness, but shall bave the Light of Life*. Wherefore, to the attaining this Light of Life, diligent Search, acute Disputation, literal Science, and external Erudition, avail nothing; but 'tis necessary that you follow the Light of the World (Jesus Christ) with Simplicity of Mind.

* Joh: xvii. 5.

S E C T. XXVI.

What is to be thought of too many learned Men, who often wrest these Words (of St. John) from their natural Simplicity, to a manifestly wrong Signification.

I T is meet we should tremble for Fear, and stand amazed, when we behold the most grievous Judgments of God, viz. How he confounds the Understanding of the Learned of this World, whilst many Persons, not indeed at all destitute of a good natural Sagacity and Understanding, are so offended at the great Simplicity of the Holy Scriptures, that they have found out divers ways of inverting the Sense of clear Words, and use their utmost Endeavours to deny their plain Meaning, draw them to a foreign Sense, or accommodate them to the Taft of their corrupt Reason, altho' the Words themselves be so manifestly perspicuous, as even to glare in their Eyes. The Example of those Men, who look upon these Words of St. John as divinely inspir'd, and nevertheless impugn the eternal Divinity and Majesty of our Lord Fefus Christ, ought to render us cautious and circumspect, that we do not pervert the Holy Writings to our own Destruction; on the contrary, that we strive with the greater Earnestness to receive the plain Truths of God with plain and honest Hearts, and earneftly pray to him for the true Sense thereof, that in his Light we may fee Light.

SECT. XXVII.

That there are known Examples of Rationalists having been effectually struck and convinced by this Simplicity of the Words of St. John.

SOMETIMES the great Simplicity of Words breaks through all the Bars and Obstacles of corrupt Reason, and earthly Wisdom, so that it takes away from Men all Contradictions, or at least holds it as it were down, by a fuperior Force. Thus Theophilus Spizelius, in his Scrutiny of Atheism, has recorded of a certain * Man fallen into Atheism, or at least an idle Neglect and Contempt of a Deity; that upon reading only the former Words of St. John's Gospel, which he light upon by Chance, or rather by the merciful Guidance of God's Providence, reflected with great Compunction on the miserable and dan-

* This was Franciscus Junius, a most noted Divine among the Reformed, who (in his Life, premifed before his Theological Works printed at Geneva, 1705, in fol. p. 10.) relates at large, that when he was a young Man, he fell under a most grievous Calamity, viz. Atheism, by the Boldness of others, and his own Imprudence, and was so far gone in it, that his Mind was become hardened and infenfible. But how he got out of it, he tells us p. 11. in these Words: I happened to open that Book called the New Testament, which was freely offered to the World from God: The Thing that immediately presented itself to my View, whilst I was busied about another Matter, was that most august Chapter of St. John the Evangelist and Apostle: In the Beginning was the Word, &c. I read part of the Chapter, and, during the Time, was so inwardly agitated and affected, as presently to perceive, that the Divinity of the Argument, and the Majesty and Authority of the Writing, did far excel all the lofty Strains of human Eloquence; my Body trembled, my Mind was aftonished, and all that Day I was so disquieted, that I hardly knew what I was. O Lord my God, Thou didit remember me, according to thy infinite Mercy, and didft receive the lost Sheep into thy Flock. From that time, when it had thus pleased God, by the Influence of his Holy Spirit, to firike so powerfully upon me, I began to read and treat other Subjects with greater Coldness and Indifference, but to think oftner, and to be more earnestly conversant about pious Matters. Compare herewith the History of Atheism, written by Mr. Jenkin Thomas Philipps, cap. xi. §. z. where these Words of Junius are also alledged.

dangerous Condition of his Soul, and turned himself truly to the eternal and living God. Glory be to the infinite (Φιλανθρωπία) or Love of God our Saviour, who leaves not himself unattested, even to those who seem most alienated from him.

AND I may add, that this Relation of Junius is also copiously recited, in an excellent and useful Book of the late pious and learned Dr. Josiah Woodward, called Fair Warnings to a careless World, very worthy to be read by all that have any Curiosity to know the Sentiments of great Men, relating to Things of the greatest Importance.

SECT. XXVIII.

That the Mind of St. John was so humble and honest, that we may from thence conclude his Words proceeded from the greatest Simplicity.

BUT if any would know the great Humility, the fweet Simplicity, and Child-like undifguised Sincerity, in the Words of St. John, it is necessary that he implore and receive God's Grace and Mercy, that he may look into the submissive, humble and and gentle Mind of the Disciple of our Lord, and from thence judge of his whole Discourse. Surely the Breast of this Disciple was fo replenished with the unfeigned Love of the Son of God, that his Spirit feemed intent on nothing elfe, than how he should most deeply imprint on hir Mind, the Glory, the Majesty, and the Fulness of Divine Grace and Truth, that was in the only begotten Son from his Father; and by the Benefit of this most bleffed Knowledge, should be more and more united to him. Therefore as this most ardent Love, which St. John had for him, who had loved him from the Beginning unto the End*, led him into a more profund Contemplation of his Glory, and caused him to forget, as it were, every thing elfe, for the dear Love he bore to him alone; fo he had nothing nearer, nothing dearer to him, than how he should declare his Glory unto all Mankind. How therefore could this most flagrant Love of his towards our Saviour, permit him to use any sublime Words (above our Capacity) or render the Thing itself difficult and obscure? But this Love rather fuggested to him the Use of the plainest, and most intelligible Words, that so every one might understand him; and unless Men would peevishly resist the Operation of the Holy Spirit, they might obtain the fame most precious Faith, for the Deliverance of their Souls from the Kingdom of Darkness, and the Translation of them into the Kingdom of the Son of God.

* John xiii. 1.

SECT. XXIX.

Why this Simplicity of St. John is a little more largely proposed to Consideration.

BUT we have therefore entred upon this Meditation concerning the Simplicity of St. John's Words, because Things are almost come to that pass, that learned as well as unlearned Men, do as it were startle at them, and take them for fublime Words, which are hard to be understood, and clouded with such Obscurity and Darkness, that only the most excellent and most subtle Wits should be exercifed in the Interpretation of them. Certainly this Error carries with it no small Detriment, and therefore nothing is more requifite, than that we should recommend to humble Minds the great Simplicity of the Divine Word, (tho' there is such a Veil over the Eyes of the Learned, that they will not acknowledge it.) Ho! * cries

* Haiah Iv. 1, 2, 3.

Wildom, every one that thirseth, come ye to the Waters, and be that bath no Money, come ye, buy and eat, yea, come, buy Wine and Milk without Money, and without Price. Wherefore do ye (pend Money for that which is not Bread? and your Labour for that which fatisfieth not? Hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your Soul delight itself in Fatness. Incline your Ear, and come unto me, hear and your Soul shall live, and I will make an everlasting Covenant with you, even the sure Mercies of David.

SECT. XXX.

A Prayer to Christ for the true Knowledge of the Simplicity and Perspicuity of the Holy Scriptures.

O Lord, open Thou our Eyes, that we may discern the most pure Simplicity of thy Word, least, whilst vainly boasting of its Clearness, we may, in reality, find it cloudy and obscure. Grant that we may rightly attend to thy Word, as to a Light shining in a dark Place, (where not thy Word, but the Place is dark) yea, do Thou Thyself shine in our Hearts, shine in them as the true Day, arife in us like the Mor-D 2 ning ning Star, that we may, in thy Light, fee the serene Light of thy Words, which are Spirit and Life. Do Thou incline our Ears to hear, and take away the Veil from our Hearts, that we may, like Thine own little Sheep, hear Thy Voice, and the Voice of Thy Servants, and may follow Thee. Destroy all the Arts of Men, which pervert Thy Word, and hinder us from coming to a clearer Knowledge of Thee. But restore the Simplicity of Thy old faithful Servants, who did with great Humility of Mind acknowledge the Wifdom of God, hidden in a Mystery; and did therein, with fo strong and firm a Faith, receive Thee as the Lord of Glory, that they esteemed it matter of great Joy, when they had an Opportunity of glorifying Thee by their Death. Grant, O sweetest Saviour, that we also may be so taught of God, to come unto Thee, (which is the one only and true Knowledge) that we may rightly and favingly understand Thy Word.

The Second Meditation.

I N which the Beginning of St. John's Gospel is compared with the Beginning of the Book of Genesis.

SECT. XXXI.

That St. John, in the Beginning of his Gofpel, doth refer to the Beginning of Genefis.

PRAY what can be more evident than that St. John, in the Beginning of his Gospel, had his whole Mind intent upon the Beginning of the first Book of Moses? Moses, in describing Eternity, when nothing was yet made, and Time was not begun, faid, In the Beginning. St. John, in like manner, lays hold of this Word, and begins his Gospel with it; as if he would fay, what then was in the Beginning, of which Moses speaks? In the Beginning, fays he, was the Word. For when there was nothing as yet made, to whom, or with whom God could fpeak, it is immediately faid: And God faid; wherefore as Moses places the word, said, next to God, (as a word which is in the Mind, is nearest to the Man) so St. John likewise says, the Word was with God, ver. 1. But fince Man (fuch is the Blindness of his Mind) knows nothing but of the human and imperfect word, and therefore easily forms such an Idea to himself concerning the Word of God, as he does, concerning the word of a Man; therefore St. John interprets the Words of Moses, saying, that Word was God, that is, you must not think either that this Word was not God, or that there must needs be two Gods; for that Word was of the same Essence with God, and so was itself in the Beginning, and from all Eternity, by an indiffoluble Effence, with God. Moreover, as Mofes also testifies through that whole Chapter, that all Things were created by the no dicere, or Word of God, so John also speaks, in like manner: All Things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made that was made. And as Moses faid, And the Spirit of God moved upon the Face of the Waters, so the Spirit in St. John testifies, that this enlivening and fertilifing Motion or Incubation of the Divine Spirit, or all Life and universal Origin of Life, is in the Word; as Mojes also affirms, that all created living Things were produced by the no dicere, or Word of God. When Moses speaks of the Light, which was made by God's faying, And * that God faw this Light was good; St. John testifies that the true Light, and the Origin of all Light, is no other but that effential Word of God, with whom, if that created Light be compared, it will be only a Shadow, an outward Figure and Representation. When Moses says, the Earth was without Form and void, and Darkness was upon the Face of the Deep: but that God created the Light, and divided the Light from the Darkness; calling the Light Day, and the Darkness Night: St. John writes thus, The Light shineth in Darkness, but the Darkness comprebended it not, even as the Night does not comprehend the Day. And because St. John's Concern was fo much about the new Creation, whose Image and Figure the first Creation was, he had before his Eyes the 7th verse of the 2d chap. of Gen. where it is faid, The Lord God breathed into Man's Nostrils the Breath of Life, and Man became a living Soul. Therefore faith St. John, In the Word was Life, and the Life was the Light of Men. That was the true Light which lighteth every Man that cometh into the World. From thefe few Things it may be seen, That the same Word of God, which spake by Moses, does likewise interpret Moses by St. John. But by by this short comparing of Moses and St. John, the whole is far from being unfolded; but these Collations comprise a great deal more; for the Words are plain, and agree so exactly, that every one is able to see and understand they do so; but the Mysteries lying hid in them, are prosound, nor can they be throughly exhausted.

* Let there be Light.

SECT. XXXII.

A Prayer to be joined with this comparing of Moses and John.

GRANT to us, O Lord Jefus, most mercifully that same Spirit of Thine, which equally spake and used the same Language in the Old and New Testament; may it be with us, and abide with us for ever, that by this divine Aid, we may attain the true Sense of thy Word. Amen.

The Third Meditation.

IN which the Beginning of St. John's Gospel is compared with other Places of Scripture, of the Old and New Testament.

SECT. XXXIII.

That these Words of St. John may be also explained by other Places of the Old and New Testament.

THESE Words of St. John may first and chiefly be compared with Prov. viii. where the Wisdom of God speaks thus, ver. 22, &c. "The Lord possessed me in " the Beginning of his Way, before his "Works of old. I was fet up from everlasting, from the Beginning, or " ever the Earth was. When there were " no Depths, I was brought forth, when " there were no Fountains abounding " with Water. Before the Mountains " were fettled, before the Hills, was I " brought forth. While as yet he had " not made the Earth, nor the Fields, " nor the highest Part of the Dust of " the World. When he prepared the " Heavens, I was there; when he fet a " Compass upon the Face of the Deep: "When he gave to the Sea his Decree, " that the Waters should not pass his "Commandment, when he appointed " the Foundations of the Earth: Then " I was by him, as one brought up with " him: and I was daily his Delight, re-" joicing always before him. Rejoicing " in the habitable Part of his Earth, and " my Delights were with the Sons of "Men. Now therefore hearken unto " me, O ye Children, for bleffed are they " that keep my Ways. Hear Instruction, " and be wife, and refuse it not. Blef-" fed is the Man that heareth me, watch-" ing daily at my Gates, waiting at the " Posts of my Doors. For whose findeth " me, findeth Life, and shall obtain Fa-" vour of the Lord". These Words, B. John Arndius (with many others) has compared with the Words of St. John, after this manner, as St. John fays: In the Beginning was the Word: fo the Wifdom of God fays: The Lord possessed me in the Beginning of his Way. I was set up from everlasting, from the Beginning, or ever the Earth was. 2. As St. John fays: And this Word was with God: fo the Wisdom of God says in this Place: The Lord possessed me in the Beginning of his Way, before any Time began, when there were no Depths, I was brought forth, when when there were no Fountains abounding with Water, before the Mountains were fettled, when he established the Clouds above. 3. As St. John says, All Things were made by him: so says the Wisdom of God: When he laid the Foundations of the Earth, then I was the Framer thereof with him. 4. As St. John fays: In him was Life: so here Wisdom says: He that findeth me, findeth Life. 5. As St. John says: The Word was made Flesh, and dwelt among us: so here says the Wisdom of God: I rejoiced in the habitable Part of the Earth, and my Delights were with the Sons of Men. 6. Again, As St. John fays: And we beheld his Glory, the Glory, I fay, as of the only Begotten of the Father: fo here fays the Wifdom of God: He that findeth me, shall obtain Favour of the Lord. 7. He whom Solomon calls, the eternal Wisdom, St. John calls the eternal Word of the Father; for the Word, by which all Things were made, is the eternal Wifdom of God, and eternal Wisdom is the Word: and both speak with one Mouth and Spirit, and most sweetly and mutually confer together, as Pfalm lxxxv. te-stifies, that Kindness and Faith are met together, that is, Truth and Mercy. For Truth here meets with Mercy, viz. the Truth of the Promises of the Old Testament, meets with Mercy, or that Mercy, which which God has manifested to us by the Incarnation of his Son; both do, as it were, mutually meet in Christ; therefore St. John declares, that Christ is full of Grace and Truth.

SECT. XXXIV.

Other Places of Scripture tending to illustrate this Matter.

BESIDES this remarkable Place itfelf, every one of St. John's Words might be easily compared with peculiar Places of the Holy Scriptures, and illustrated from them. Like as St. John faith: In the Beginning [was the Word] so Micah faith, chap. v. ver. 2. whose goings forth have been from of old [from the Beginning] from everlasting. Isaiab thus introduces him, chap. xliv. ver. 6. Thus faith the Lord, the King of Israel, and his Redeemer, the Lord of Hosts, I am the first, and I am the last, and besides me there is no God; which Words may also be compared with Isaiah xli. 4. chap. xlviii. 12. Rev. i. 17. chap. xxii. 13. and Pfalm cii. ver. 24, 25, 26. 27, 28. Thus it is spoken of him; I faid, O my God, take me not away in the midst of my Days: thy Years are throughout all Generations. Of old hast thou laid the Foundation of the the Earth: and the Heavens are the Work of thy Hands. They shall perish, but thou thalt endure: yea, all of them shall wax old like a Garment; as a Vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed. But thou art the same, and thy Years shall have no End. The Children of thy Servants shall continue, and their Seed shall be eftablished before thee. With which Words may likewise be compared Heb. i. 11, 12. In which Place, not only the Eternity of the Son of God, but also the Omnipotence, ascribed to him from the Creation of Heaven and Earth, are both confirmed and clearly explain'd; which Things St. John also says: All things were made by bim, and without bim was not any thing made that was made. And further, He was in the World, and the World was made by him; which St. Paul very emphatically and fully thus expresses: Who is the Image of the invisible God, the Firstborn of every Creature. For by him were all things created that are in Heaven, and that are in Earth, visible and invisible, whether they be Thrones, or Dominions, or Principalities, or Powers; all Things were created by him, and for him. And he is before all Things, and by him all Things confift *. When the Son of God is by St. Tohn

* Col. i. 15, 16, 17.

John called the Word, it is confonant to Pfalm xxxiii. 6. By the Word of the Lord were the Heavens made; and all the Host of them by the Breath of his Mouth. With which Place may also be compared 1 John i. 1. v. 7. Apoc. i. 2. chap. xix. 13. Heb. iv. 12, 13. In the Epist. to the Heb. chap. i. 3. he is stiled, The express Image of bis Person, (me o'nosársus) in the same Sense wherein the Word of God is here taken. But he is also therefore called the Word of God, because all Revelation is made in and by the Son. Hereto belong the Words of Hosea, chap. xii. 10. sayin which Christ, the Angel, with whom Jacob acted as a Prince, who is the Lord God of Hosts, the Lord is his Memorial, ver. 5. faith, I have spoken by the Prophets, and I have multiplied Visions, and used Similitudes.

When he is called by St. John, chap. i. 18. & &, which is [in the Bosom of the Father;] that was, ver. 1, 2, 9, 10. and that cometh, ver. 9. (which is to be referred to the antecedent Word Light.) All these Things are comprehended in Apoc. i. ver. 4, 8. where it is said: Who is, and who was, and who is to come. When St. John says: In him was Life, and the Life was the Light of Men; in like manner, ner, Psalm xxxvi. 9. Life and Light are joined together; with thee is the Fountain of Life, in thy Light shall we see Light. Who is that Fountain or Origin of Life? And wherefore is this Origin of Life faid to be with God? Is it not the Word, which is with God, and which is the Life, so indeed, as that Life is the Light of Men? therefore David said, In thy Light we see Light. Thus likewise in other Places he joins together Light and Life, and from thence fetches most effectual and greatest Comfort. The * Lord is my Light and my Salvation, whom shall I fear? The Lord is the Strength of my Life, of whom shall I be afraid? Our Saviour himself joins them both together: + I am the Light of the World; be that followeth me, shall not walk in Darkness, but shall have the Light of Life. Moreover our Saviour is said to be the Life and the Light #. And that we may understand, what the faithful Children of God in the Jewish Church have observed, that the Prophets prophefied of a certain, fingular, and eminent Light, which was more than a barely illuminated Man, (tho' fuch an illuminated Man also is usually called Light, because the Divine Light is in him, and others still immersed in the Darkness of Sinners, are enlightened by Means of that Light) St. John stiles him not merely Light, but with a peculiar Emphasis, the Light of Men, that is, with which no other Light can be compared, and which diffuses its Splendor over all Mankind; nay, he here makes mention of that very Man, who he knew was called by Christ himself, a burning and a shining Light *. For altho' John the Baptist was in no wise a false, but altogether a true Light, forasmuch as being internally kindled by a divine Fire, he gave forth a Lustre truly divine; yet in this Place, he utterly (as it were) rejects John the Baptist, and says, He was not that Light, but was fent, that he might bear Witness of that Light; as if he should fay, altho' John was the greatest of those that are born of Women, and was To great a Minister of God, that from thence all Men took Occasion to esteem him for the Messiah or Christ; yet there is no Account at all to be made of that Light, when compared with Christ, fince in this Place the Enquiry is of the Ori-gin of all Light, essential Light, eternal Light, the Light of Life, from which John the Baptist received both his Light and Life. The Faithful are also called by Christ himself and his Apostles, the Light

* Acts xiii. 47. Luke i. 79. Pfalm xxvii. 1. † John viii. 12. ‡ John xiv. 6. Luke ii. 32. Ijaiab xlix. 6.

* John v. 35.

Light of the World *; Light in the Lord+; Yea, Shining as Lights in the World I. Like Lights in the Firmament of Heaven, which God created the fourth Day, to give Light upon the Earth ||. But the Holy Scriptures call Christ the Sun, as Malachi ** on this Subject prophesies; Unto you that fear my Name, shall the Sun of Righteousness arise, with Healing in his Wings. Therefore, to this Sun is afcribed all Illumination; as St. Paul ++ thus fummarily comprehends the Prophecies of the Prophets concerning this great Light: Wherefore he faith, Awake thou that fleepest, and arise from the Dead, and Christ shall give thee Light. To this Light, he ascribes his own, and the Illumination of others; which also overspread the Face of Moses ## with a typical Brightness: to which also are to be referred, what Job fays, Ch. iv. 18. He gave Light to his Angels; (bath shined in their Hearts, 2 Cor. iv. 6.) otherwise, they are liable to be darkned, like the Moon, when it borrows not its Light from the Sun. Moreover, John testifies of Christ, that He came unto his own. If we compare This with the Old Testament, we shall easily see what is to be understood by his own; m' E

* Matt. v. 14. † Epbef. v. 8. $ Phil. ii. 15. tt Ephef. v. 14. ‡‡ Exod. xxxiv. 30. 2 Cor. iii. 7.

ina. For the Lord fays by Moses, * I will fet my Tabernacle amongst you, (the Sons of Israel) and my Soul shall not ab-bor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my People. And in another Place + the Lord fays, If ye will obey my Voice indeed, and keep my Covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar Treasure unto me, above all People: for all the Earth is mine. And ye shall be unto me a Kingdom of Priests, and an holy Nation. From this Comparison, it manifestly appears, who it was that spake to the Children of Ifrael at that time; and who called them his People, and his Propriety; and who He is, whose Voice they ought to obey 1. That is, it appears that St. John knew by the Holy Spirit, that this was Christ, the Son of the bleffed God; as he who made the whole World, and fo had Dominion over all People: But when the World, in its Darkness, did not, and would not comprehend him, Darkness and Ignorance overspreading the Nations of the Earth; that he selected one People out of all the rest, the Children of Ifrael, to be his own peculiar People; to the End that Light should so shine and glitter among them, that other People also might come to this Light, and be made Partakers

* Lev. xxvi. 11, 12. † Exod. xix. 5, 6 ‡ Exod. xxiii. 21, 22.

kers of the Splendor of it. That therefore Mojes and the Prophets bore witness of him, as of the true Light. Yea, that for this Reason, he at length came himfelf to this his peculiar People, that He might no longer speak to them by his Prophets, but offer his own Voice to be heard by Them, and try whether they would acknowledge him for that Perfon, whom their Fathers expected should come; and so by obeying his Voice truly, and not in Appearance only, (the fame which Mojes had inculcated upon Them *) They might become his People, his Pe-culium, and proper Sheep; to wit, the true Ifrael of God. When, † moreover, John testifies of the Son of God, that as many as received him, to them gave be Power to become the Sons of God. The Old Testament, in like manner, affirms this: For it is faid in Isaiab, I One shall fay, I am the Lord's; and another shall call himself by the Name of Jacob: and another shall subscribe with his Hand, unto the Lord, and strname himself by the Name of Ifrael. And in the | Pjalms, From the Womb of the Morning, thou haft the Dew of thy Youth : By which Words, this holy Offspring, this People of Melchifedeck, both in relation to their Mul-E 2 titude,

* Deut. xviii, Fg. † John x. 4, 14, 26, 27, 28. 1 Pet-ii. 9. Gal. vi. 16. ‡ Ifa. xliv. 5. || Pfal. cx. 3.

titude, and to their Divine Original (even as Manna) is * described. To which I/aiab agrees, faying, + Shall I bring to the Birth, and not cause to bring forth, saith the Lord? Shall I cause to bring forth, and shut the Womb? saith thy God: Which Words afford Light also to the Divine Birth, spoken of John i. 14. where that Evangelist attests of the Word, that it dwelt among us; or, that by his taking of Flesh, He did as it were pitch a Tabernacle among us for himself. The same was denoted in the Old Testament, when it was thus faid of the Tabernacle; I Then a Cloud covered the Tent of the Congregation, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle. And Moses was not able to enter into the Tent of the Congregation, because the Cloud abode thereon, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle. And when the Cloud was taken up from over the Tabernacle, the Children of Israel went onward in all their fourneys: But if the Cloud were not taken up, then they journey'd not till the Day that it was taken up. For the Cloud of the Lord was upon the Tabernacle by Day, and Fire was on it by Night, in the fight of all the House of Israel, throughout all their Journeys. The || Children of Israel

* Exod. xvi. 13, 14. ‡ Exod. xl. 34-38.

† Isa. lxvi. 9. 11 Numb. ii. 2-25.

were to pitch their Tents towards the East, the South, the West, and the North: But all these Tents of the Children of Ifrael were placed over against the Tent of the Congregation. But the Levites, Numb. viii. 6, &c. had their Tents round about the Tabernacle of Testimony, and the Lord inhabited the Tent of the Congregation in the midst of them, that he might fanctify them. The Words of Baruch * agree also with the Words of John; Afterward he [Wisdom] did shew himself upon Earth, and conversed with Men: With which Words compare the whole xxivth Chapter of Ecclef. When John fays, We beheld his Glory; this puts us well in mind of Moses's Prayer to the Lord, Exod. xxxiii. 18, 19. I befeech Thee, shew me thy Glory. To whom the Lord anfwers, I will make (כל טוכי) all my Goodness pass before Thee; and I will proclaim the Name of the Lord before Thee. And Exod. xxxiv. 5, 6. this Word of the Lord was fulfilled; for the Lord descended in a Cloud, and stood with him there, and proclaimed the Name of the Lord. And the Lord (whom the Lord himself had called All bis Goodness, which he had promifed he would make to pass before Mojes, chap. xxxiii. 19.) passed by before him, and proclaimed, The Lord, the E 3 Lord

* Chap. iii. 37.

Lord God, merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abundant in Goodness and Truth. To this Proclamation of the Lord, Mojes boldly appealed, Numb. xiv. when the People had grievously offended God. And now, fays he, ver. 17, 18. I befeech thee, let the Power of my Lord be great, according as thou hast spoken; say-ing, The Lord is long-suffering, and of great Mercy, forgiving Iniquity and Transgreffion, and by no means clearing the Guilty, visiting the Iniquity of the Fathers upon the Children, unto the third and fourth Generation. Pardon, I befeech thee (he adds, ver. 19. because he had acknowledged Mercy and Forgiveness of Sins in the Lord, as he had been taught by the Lord himself, who was manifested to him) the Iniquity of this People, according to the greatness of thy Mercy, and as thou hast forgiven this People from Egypt, even until now. The Lord also heard these Prayers made to him, in the Name of the Lord, (that is, Chrift) faying; I have pardon'd according to thy Word, ver. 20. David, who endeavour'd to know from Mojes the Lord and Christ, who, according to the Promise of God, should * be one Time born a Man, of his Seed; did not pretermit this Testimony, deliver'd by God concerning his Son: and rightly confider'd, that it was not fo much Moles, Mofes, as the Lord, who there spake: The Lord, fays he, * made known his Ways to Moses, his Acts to the Children of Israel. The Lord is merciful and gracious, flow to Anger, and plenteous in Mercy +. But as Moses, when the Lord made his Glory, that is Christ, to pass before his Face, did chiefly acknowledge his Grace and Truth, or his Faithfulness; so John also testifies, that himself, and the other Disciples and Believers, had seen the Glory of the Word Incarnate, as it were the Glory of the only begotten Son of the Father, full of Grace and Truth. And thus also David, by the Holy Spirit, perceived the Manifestation of the Son of God in the Flesh; wherefore he thus begins the lxxxixth Pfalm: I will fing of the Mercies of the Lord for ever; with my Mouth will I make known thy Faithfulness to all Generations. For I have faid, Mercy shall be built up for ever: thy Faithfulness shalt thou establish in the very Heavens. But that it may be understood, that the Pfalmist speaks of no other but the Meffiah, who was promifed to him by the Lord; he presently subjoins a Divine Anfwer: I have made a Covenant with my Chosen; I have sworn unto David my Servant. Thy Seed will I establish for ever, E 4 and build up thy Throne to all Generations. Selah. And ver. 24. he reiterates the Mention of Truth and Grace; by which Words, the Glory of the Messiah is briefly comprehended. But my Faithfulness and my Mercy shall be with him, and in my Name shall his Horn be exalted. In the cxviith Pfalm, David praises Christ, as the Confolation of all Nations, from the same Foundation of the Revelation made unto Moses: O praise the Lord, all ye Nations, praise bim all ye People; for bis merciful Kindness is great towards us, and the Truth of the Lord endureth for ever. Concerning this Grace and Truth, David in many other Places, and with him also the Prophets, fang. But when John fays, The Law was given by Moses, but Grace and Truth came by Jesus Christ; he there-by remits us to Deut. xviii. where Moses brings to the Remembrance of the People of Israel, what they defired of the Lord their God in Horeb, in the Day of the Congregation, faying, Let me not hear again the Voice of the Lord my God; neither let me fee this great Fire any more, that I die not. And he remits us to what the Lord answer'd to Moses: They have well spoken that which they have spoken. I will raise them up a Prophet from among their Brethren, like unto thee; and will put my Words in his Mouth, and he shall Speak speak unto them all that I shall command him. These Words John explains to us, whilst he opposes, and testifies of Mojes and Christ together; Moses, as indeed a great Prophet of God, delivering the Law to the Children of Ifrael; but fuch a Law, as was an intolerable Yoke unto Men intangled in Sin, and which, when it also threatned a Curse to the Violators of it, was to them a dreadful Voice; therefore God promised them another Prophet, in whom he would discover and make known his Love, Grace, Favour, and his eternal Faithfulness and Truth unto Men; that Men might be led to the Knowledge of his ineffable Love, and by the Benefit of this Knowledge, might be brought to the true Love of God and their Neighbour, which is the fulfilling of the Law. John calls Christ, the only begotten Son, who is in the Bosom of the Father; by this Appellation, he has a respect to Him, whom Solomon the King brings in speaking thus: Then * I was by Him, as one brought up with Him: and I was daily his Delight, rejoicing always before Him: as the Words properly found in the Hebrew; and as I observed before, when I compared them with the Words of John.

* Pfalm ciii. 7, 8. † Pfalm lxxxvi. 5. Pfalm cxlv. 8.

SECT.

* Prov. viii. 30.

SECT. XXXV.

What Benefit may be hoped for from fuch Meditations and Comparisons.

ALL we have hitherto offer'd, in comparing the Words of St. John with other Places of Holy Writ, may be looked upon as a weak and faint Instruction, such as every one should make the first Subject of his Meditations on St. John's Words. For if the Reader will perfift in the Way now chalk'd out to him, he will eafily find himself to be led from one Scripture to another; and the Consideration of Divine Truths fo perfectly agreeing together, will yield the more Pleasure and Delight, Certainty, Efficacy, and Conviction, the longer he shall persevere in such Meditation. Nevertheless, even in these Exercifes, Divine Grace is the great Thing to be relied on, which for this End is furnish'd from above, and therefore always to be fought for to Almighty God.

SECT. XXXVI.

A Prayer for the opening the Eyes of our Minds in this important Concern.

" O LORD, grant that the Treasures " of Wisdom and Knowledge, which are " hid in Christ Jesus, may be laid open " unto us; and altho' our Understanding " in this Life be weak and imperfect, yet " do Thou, as an indulgent Father, vouch-" fafe to strengthen and confirm our Faith. " by the Manifestation of thy Truth, more " and more. But especially we beseech " Thee most effectually to convince our " Minds, that all thy Servants, whom " Thou hast appointed to be the common " Teachers of the World, do bear Testi-" mony with one Mouth and one Spirit, " concerning Jesus Christ, and his great " Majesty, Grace, and Truth towards us. "We are named by his Name, and yet, " O fad Confideration! that we know fo " little of his Glory. For if this were " more clearly understood by us, we should " certainly with greater Confidence, and more joyful Minds, receive from his " fulness Grace for Grace. Grant, there-" fore, to us, a pure and ardent Love of " thy Word, and banish from our Minds

" all Contempt of It, that by the written "Word, which was spoken by the Pro"phets, and inspired by the Holy Ghost, "we may be brought to the lively Knowledge, and faithful embracing of the Eternal and Substantial Word. Do Thou, O Lord, incline our Hearts, that, through the Counsel of Wisdom, we may heedfully attend to the most sure and sound Words of thy Prophets, as to a Light shining in a dark Place, until the Day dawn, and the Day-star arise in our Hearts!

The Fourth Meditation.

Of the fingular Emphasis, and strong Significancy of the Words and Expressions of St. John, in the Beginning of his Gospel.

S E C T. XXXVII.

That many Things remain still hid in the emphatical Expressions which St. John uses.

THIS Meditation will confift only of fome of the Words, and Expressions of St. John, and thereby an Occasion will be given given to the pious Reader, of considering with greater Exactness and Devotion, as well the Words we now touch upon, as all his other Expressions. In the Beginning was the Word, w, fays John, erat, feu existebat, was, or did exist; not exist, was made, as it is said ver. 14. The Word was made Flesh, exivero; but was truly in the Beginning, before all Time, and when nothing was but Eternity. Moreover, in this he differ'd from all created Things, that as foon as the Beginning of any Thing could be faid to be, he then existed; and therefore was not made, but was without Beginning. This Word in, erat, was, St. John repeats thrice in the first Verse, and again ver. 2. then twice ver. 4. again ver. 9. and again ver. 10. and 15. and every where the great Emphasis of this Word is to be confider'd. The Word, in Greek i λόγΘ, is of various Significations, even in profane Authors; for it not only fignifies a Word spoken with the Mouth, but likewise a Word ready to be uttered; nay, that yet rests in the Mind, altho' not vocally deliver'd. A right and just Conclufion also is denominated x620; nor does it less denote the Faculty itself of Reason and Understanding. It fignifies also a Reckoning, an Account of Receipts and Payments: more especially the Cause of every Thing, on which, as on its Foundation.

dation, every Thing rests, is expressed by this Word. But Plato has us'd it in a more fublime Sense than the other Pagans, for which Reason he is believed to have heard of Moses, or rather, to have read Moses's Writings, or at least to have borrowed some of his Notions from the Wisdom of the antient Hebrews. But one having well confider'd the great and divine Emphasis of this Word, truly declared, This learned Plato was ignorant of; quick-fighted Aristotle did not see; eloquent Cicero has not expressed. But, on the contrary, St. John, who, without doubt, in the Beginning of this his Gospel, wonderfully accords with the Wisdom of his Ancestors, may rightly be said to have more Understanding than all his Teachers *. The Word Now indeed is of Greek Derivation, but it has respect to the genuine common Language of the Sons and Servants of God; that is, to the Language of the Hely Spirit, in whose School alone, its sublime and divine Sense is to be learnt, and will hereafter be understood, in its extensive Signification, in the Ferusalem that is above. All our weak Discourses here concerning it, hardly touch its Shadow. We have heard before, that John used the Word (דיאמר) dixit, He said, in imitation of Moses. We must confess, that that by following the common Rules, which learned Men use for interpreting the Holy Scriptures, we could not have attained the sublime and hidden Signification of even that one Word; which to Reason, destitute of divine Light, might feem to be of very little moment. So great is the Difference between thefe Things, when a Man instructed in human and philosophical Learning, comes to interpret the Holy Scriptures, and when God opens a Man's Eyes, and the Spirit of Truth, according to the Promise of Christ, leads him into all Truth. But if John, in this one Word beholds Christ, the eternal and substantial Word of God; if he sees the Son in the Bosom of the Father, that eternal Wildom, and effential Image of the living God, the Origin and Principle of all created Things, the Source of Life and Light, the Fountain from whence all Prophecies were derived; if he there beholds the ineffable Union of that Essence and Love, in which the Father and the Son have existed from all Eternity: if thro' this one Word he looks into the Eternal Generation of the Son from the Father; How great Depths must there needs be in all the rest of the Holy Writings? How clear must the Mirrors be, which represent to us the eternal wonderful Things of God? How imperfect, how foreign, foreign, how remote from the hidden Wisdom of God, must needs be all our reading and searching of the Sacred Scriptures, without the Guidance of the Holy Spirit? O Lord, open Thou our Eyes, that we may behold wondrous Things out of thy Word.

* Pfalm cxix. 99.

S E C T. XXXVIII.

That so great Depths, unfathomable plainly to Reason, lie hid in that one Word hop, [or the Word] as ought to increase our Humiliation.

WE, indeed, with good Reason, blush to produce our incongruous Thoughts concerning fo profound Mysteries, when we understand so little of the Purport but of a fingle Word; yet it will be pleafing to God, if the Knowledge which a Man hath in these Matters, be communicated with an honest Mind, and faithfully applied to the Edification of himself and others. This we certainly know, that the Language of the Holy Spirit ought never to be carpt at and cenfur'd by human Reason. Perhaps a Man not illuminated, would have wish'd St. John had us'd some other Word, which were plainer to him, and easier to be understood: But John, through through the Instinct of the Holy Spirit, utterly refuses to use any other Word in this Place, which he therefore does thrice in one and the same Verse; nor does he change it for another Word, after the manner of the Orators of this Age: and when afterwards, in the 14th Verse, he would express the Incarnation of the Son of God, he again industriously brings forth this his first and most dear Word, to shew that it was his Care and his Delight to use it; nor would he substitute any other in its Place, tho' other Words were not wanting to him. Moreover, in the preceeding Third Meditation we have heard, that He did immediately, in the Beginning of his First Epistle, and again chap. v.7. refer his Readers to this very Word. And what is chiefly to be observed, St. John would be known and diftinguished from others, by this very Thing, as by a fingular Character, that he testifies every where, and proclaims the Word of God *. The strict Meaning of the Word North, may still be better understood from his whole Discourse. If we hear the German Word (2002t, Word) we understand nothing by it, but what comes forth of the Mouth; but the Greek Word, as it is taken from the Hebrew מאמר does likewife fignify the Word pronouncing, or the actual actual and active Word: And thus by this Word is denoted, not only the eternal Generation of the Son from the Father; but also the Life that is in him, the Almighty Power which gave a Being to all Things, and the Splender of his eternal and effential Light, as John more particularly declares in what follows. "O Lord, grant that we may know what "Benefits we have in Christ; for this "will render us truly Pious, and make us joyful before Thee!

* Rec. i. d.

SECT. XXXIX.

What Things are further to be confider'd in these emphatical Words of St. John.

AND the Word was God.] These Words are transposed in the Greek Text, [12] Beds in a way God, And God was the Word] as is wont to be done on purpose, that some Word may be placed in the Beginning of a Sentence, which we especially, and before all, desire to express. Whence also, in pronouncing a Word of this fort, we are wont to raise our Voice, that whosoever hears, may easily understand our Intention chiefly is to have That Word rightly apprehended. But if the Words were placed in their natural Order in which which St. John would doubtless have put them, if that had not been his chief Defign; they would have been thus render'd in the Latin, Illud Verbum erat Deus: which Version also the Greek Article before the Word xóy, but not before bede, requires: For here his principal Aim was, to affert true Divinity to this Eternal Word.

All Things were made by Him.] John has a peculiar Emphasis (or Meaning) in the Word exists; [were made]. For in this fame third Verse he repeats it again, as also ver. 6, 10, 14, 17. Every one may obferve, that John has a particular regard for this Word; and that therefore, as often as we find it used by him, we should endeavour by all means to discover the true Sense and Import of it. He says indeed first; All Things were made by the Word, and without Him was not any Thing made that was made. The Word exerts is in the Greek Bible, where ייהי is read in the Hebrew; which the Latin renders fiebat factum est, [was made] and it often occurs in the History of the Creation. So deeply does John fearch into Moses, and effectually teaches, That where the Word אמר dixit [He faid] is used, 'tis to be observ'd that x670, the very substantial Word of God, Christ ought to be acknowledged by it; and where fiebat, factum est [was made] is used, there is to be understood, the Work of the Omnipotence of Christ; for all Things were made by the Word of God, and therefore the Word ought to be acknowledged as the Author and Original of all Things. In the 6th Verse he says, έγένετο ἀνθρώπ Φ, [there was a Man and whilft he here plainly uses the same Word which he did before, when he had faid all Things were made by Him, by this he indicates, that John the Baptist was also made by Him. In like manner we ought to apply the Meaning of the same Word in other Places of Scripture. Absque eo factum est nihil, quod factum est, Without Him was not any Thing made that was made.] In the Greek it has this Emphasis; without Him is iv, was not any Thing [or the least Thing] made, that was made. By which Expresfion St. John, doubtless with regard to the profound Abyss of Divine Wisdom, but now mention'd, looks back to the first Creation; where God being about to produce fomething, is alledg'd dixisse, to have faid. Hence, when every Day's Work was finish'd, it is written, and God faid; and it was fo; or, thus it was made: That so John, by this way of speaking, might most earnestly set before our Eyes, and confirm the Majesty of the Word. For let it be faid, either dixit [He faid], or fuit [it was], or factum est [it was made], Christ is there always, as we now afferted, and indeed as is shewn by the To see Ev: Christ, I fay, is to be acknowledg'd without any Exception; all Things and every Thing must acknowledge that one Word for their Creator: that fo it might be rightly faid, as it is in Pf. xxxiii. 9. הוא אמר ויהי Ipjo dicente est quicquid est, ipso præcipiente, existit. For he spake, and it was done; be commanded, and it stood fast. St. Paul * teaches us more largely, how we ought to know the Meaning, and expound the hidden Sense of those Particles, in ipso vita erat, & vita erat lux illa hominum; [In Him was Life, and the Life was the Light of Men. In the Greek, in auto (win in, x) i ζωὶ ñν τὸ φῶς τῶν ἀνθρώπων. John does not in the first Polition of the word (with prefix the Article # [the] but in the fecond Place he adds the Article, to make the Sentence more emphatical. And the Light shineth in Darkness. Et lux ista in tenebris lucet. John fays, gairet [ shineth] not egarn [did shine : For it is to be observ'd, that in his whole Discourse, he fitly distinguisheth the Times, or knows when he ought to speak in the past, and when in the present Tense: Which if we carefully attend to, we shall much better understand not only F 3 this, this, but many other Places, which otherwife, perhaps, we should overlook, as meeting nothing in them, in our Opinion, worthy our Remark. In this Place, John would speak thus: " This Light is the " Eternal Light, and shines without any " Intermission, nor does it any way per-" mit its Splendor to be obstructed by " Darkness, otherwise the Darkness might " become more prevalent than the Light " itself." Concerning this Subject, David speaks; * If I Jay, Surely the Darkness shall cover me: even the Night shall be light about me. Yea, the Darkness bideth not from Thee, but the Night Shineth as the Day: the Darkness and the Light are both alike to Thee. And St. James the Apostle thus; + Do not err, my beloved Brethren: Every good Gift, and every perfeet Gift, is from above, and cometh down from the Father of Lights, with whom is no Variableness, neither Shadow of turning. He therefore faying that the Light shineth, speaks in the present Tense; that the eternal Splendor of that Light, which no Darkness can hinder, may be understood, and diftinguish'd from all created Light.

* Col. i. 15, 16, 17.

SECT.

* Pfu'm exxxix. 11, 12. + James i. 16, 17.

SECT. XI.

What peculiar Account may be given of the Words, warenager, mapenagor, and Enasov, or comprehending and receiving.

AND the Darkness comprehended it not, ver. 5.] This is fignificantly expreffed in the Greek, if is onotice 'ATTO' & ratha-Bev. And the Darkness discover'd it not. " He that is in Darkness, and walketh in " Darkness, and knows not whither he " goes, because Darkness hath blinded his " Eyes," thinks indeed, that he comprehends fomething; but it is-a false Light which he comprehends, not dun ous, that true Light: Nor does he find true Life in the Light which he seems to himself to comprehend. Therefore St. Paul writes concerning the Gentiles *, As baving the Understanding darkned, being alienated from the Life of God, thro' the Ignorance that is in them, because of the Blindness of their Heart. For wherever the Divine Light is wanting, there also the Divine Life fails. Therefore concerning fuch, St. Paul testifies+; that they pleafe themselves in a voluntary Humility, and worshipping of An-F 4 gels, gels, intruding into those Things which they have not seen; vainly pufft up by their fleshly Mind. And indeed, they are fo far from comprehending the true Light, that they do not know or perceive their own Blindness and Darkness, as may be seen in John ix. 39,40, 41. They comprehended it not: in Greek, rathabov, [difcern'd or difcoverd]. Of this St. Paul speaks, Phil. iii. 12, 13. Besides, this Word κατίλαβεν, [comprehended] ver. 5. there are two other Words, ver. 11, 12. each of which has its proper Emphasis in the Greek, which we can't fufficiently perceive in the German, or the Latin Verlion: These are the two Words, παρέλαβον, v. 11. and ἔλαβον, v. 12. which fignify received. The Word Jesλαμβάνων fignifies, to receive in fuch a manner, as Citizens do their Lord and King into his Kingdom and City, who taking an Oath of Allegiance to him, joyfully wish him a long Life, and all manner of Prosperity; or else, when it is spoken of Christ, it denotes the receiving of Him, with finging the true Hosanna in that Spirit, with which the Prophets utter'd it. As the Prophets also put into the Mouth, and as it were into the Heart of the Daughter of Zion, how fhe ought to rejoice and be glad at the Advent of her King; and with what Acclamations the ought to receive Him. Thus

* Epb. iv. 18.

Thus the whole People of Israel ought to have received Christ; and this is that of which St. John complains, faying, the Darkness comprehended not this Light of Life. Indeed our Saviour vouchsafed to separate the Israelites from all other People, to be even as his own Possession; and altho' they killed his Prophets and Servants whom he had fent to them, nevertheless, so great was his Mercy towards them, that he came himself to them, as to his own peculiar People: but they who boasted themselves to be his People, would not so much as acknowledge him; and instead of Hosanna, they cried out, Crucify him; and in fuch fort did they receive the Lord of Glory, that they fasten'd him to a Cross. The Evangelist goes on, ver. 12. But as many as received Him: Here begins the Separation of Light and Darkness, as at the Beginning, in the first Creation, naturally, so bere, in the new Creation, spiritually. "Orn Ninaspor, that is, as many (altho' they were exceeding few of this People) as received Him for the greatest Gift of Divine Grace, from the Hand of God; yea, in whomfoever he found fuch an honest Mind, as not to reject him from being fent by the Father, altho' they received him with great Weakness, and not with that Joy and Chearfulness which the Majesty of his Person, and the great-greatness of that Salvation requir'd, which he brought along with him; yet he approved of them, where he was receiv'd by them without Falshood and Dissembling: he spared them, as a Father is wont to spare his Children; he helped their Infirmity; he did not frown upon them; but by doing them good, and manifesting his Glory, he kindled and strengthen'd their Faith towards him, and fo gave them this Power that they should be made the Sons of God. Hereby we shall observe the pleasing manner of St. John's using these three Words, κατέλαβον, παρέλαβου, Exagor; and from thence learn, that there is no juvenile sporting, when the Spirit of God thus makes use of certain Words, but a Thing of the greatest moment; that the Men of God spake not only spiritual Things, but utter'd them also in the very Words of the Holy Spirit; and not so in their own Words, as if it matter'd not much, whether we knew their emphatical Meaning or not.

SECT. XLI.

Why in treating here of the Eternal Word, there is mention made of John the Baptist.

THERE was a Man fent from God, whose Name was John, ver. 6. In the Greek Greek it is thus: Exert andpoint, &c. the Emphasis of the first Word, that it is not faid he, but iziven, was shewn before. The following Word, andpoint, has no less an Emphasis. For when he here speaks of the Glory of the Word, and has called him the Creator and the Light of Men; by those very Words he declares that John the Baptist was not Christ, for whom many in his time would have taken him; but a meer Man, whose Light therefore Christ no less was, than that of other Men. The fame emphatical Signification is to be found in the Beginning of St. Paul's Epistle to the Galatians: Paul an Apostle, not of Men, neither by Man, but by Jesus Christ and God the Father, who raised him from the Dead: And ver. 11, 12. I certify you, Brethren, that the Gospel which was preached of me, is not after Man. For I neither received it of Man, neither was I taught it, but by the Revelation of Jefus Christ. These Expressions no way derogate from the true Humanity of Christ, but only effectually demonstrate that he was not a meer Man; as St. John, the Apostles, and others also the greatest Servants of God, were in this Regard meer Men. The same came for a Witness, to bear witness of that Light, ver. 7. Here again we must take notice of the great Care of St. John the Evangelist, that he thus exprelly makes the whole Office of John the Baptist, to confist in his bearing Testimony concerning Christ; by which he would be meant to fay nothing elfe, but that the same Office was incumbent on John, (viz. the principal Parts of it) which Moses and all the Prophets, by whom God had ever spoken to Men, did difcharge, viz. that they should testify of Christ. Christ says concerning all the Scriptures of the Old Testament, They are They which testify of me *. And St. John the Evangelist, names himself to be a Witness of Jesus Christ, as also Christ himself affirms of all his Apostles, ‡ that They should bear witness of Him. But especially in this Place it is to be observ'd, from this very Testimony, how great a Difference there is between the Dignity and Majesty of Christ, and the Person and Office of John the Baptist. For whereas it was now said; He came for a Witness, viz. to bear witness of the Light, it is pre-fently more clearly explain'd: He was not that Light, but was fent to bear witness of that Light. The holy Love of John the Evangelist in these Words is much to be consider'd, as from which it most evidently appears, with what profound Reverence he contemplated the Glory

Glory of our Lord Jefus Christ; and how his Soul was moved, not only to shew forth that Glory in the most effectual and powerful manner, but also to prevent most carefully their thinking so meanly of the Messiah, whom Israel then expected, as to take John the Baptist, or any other Man, for Him, whose Employment he regarded no farther, than that Men should, by virtue of their Testimony, be brought to believe in the Word of Life, the true Light of the World, and the Lord of Glory. For it is altogether to be imputed to the holy Affection of John the Evangelist, that Verses 6, 7, 8. are inserted in the rest of his Discourse, the better to remove from every one's Mind, any Objection concerning the Authority of John the Baptist. For if we consider the Text aright, there is such a Coherence in his Discourse, that the 5th and 9th Verses are to be connected and join'd together; fo the 15th Verse is put between the 14th and 16th by the Evangelist; which two Verses. as to the Matter, entirely agree, and fo is to be placed in a Parenthelis, as well as the other three: And fince by reason hereof, mention is twice made of the Testimony of John the Baptist, the Evangelist begins at length to relate the Matter more fully, and as Circumstances require. This, as he fays ver. 19. is the Record of John, E3 C.

&c. which I have twice alledg'd in what went before. But as many as received Him (ver. 12.) to them gave he Power to become the Sons of God. These Words explain the following, ver. 16. And of his Fulness have all we received, and Grace for Grace. For the two Words Enason and "Swist, [they received] and [he gave] deferve to be well confider'd together; because the Order of these Words, thro' the Divine Wisdom and Love, is most delightful. God gives, Faith receives; and if Faith receives, God always gives anew. And thus there is continual Interchange of Love and Faith, of giving and receiving, and this is what is called Grace for Grace.

SECT. XLII.

That there is also a peculiar Emphafis in the Words & xiy & consistency in hair, The Word dwelt among us.

THE Word was made Flesh, and dwelt among us, (John i. 14.) That this dwelling among us, refers to the Tabernacle, or Tent of the Congregation in the Old Testament; or rather, that this Tabernacle has, as a Type, respect to Christ, is manifest from the Comparison above made of this Text with the Old Testament. The Signification also of the Greek word

Bornivon, has the same Reference, being in Latin, Tabernaculum posuit, he pitch'd his Tabernacle. And 'tis very worthy our notice, that the Greek word has the very fame Letters with the Hebrew, משכן or ישכו; That it should be as it were easy even for Children to understand, that the Signification of this Word is to be look'd for in the Type of the Old Covenant. Altho', moreover, the Words of John in the German Translation are not ill render'd, Er wohnete unter uns, i. e. babitavit inter nos, He inhabited among us; foralmuch as this Consideration, that he was the true Habitation of the Glory of God among Men, and especially among his most beloved Disciples, admirably agrees both with the Type of the Old Teftament, and with his humble Conversation in the Flesh: yet this ought not at all to derogate from the Emphasis and proper Signification of the Greek word, by which it may be truly inferr'd from the Mind of St. John himself, that He does also inhabit in us, and there manifests his Glory, Life and Light, with his Grace and Truth to us. The Apostle Paul, in his Epistle to the Ephesians *, expounds the Structure of the Tabernacle and Temple, shewing they had their Completion in Christ. But how does he speak of Christ's

* Chap. ii, iii.

Christ's dwelling among us? Is it so only that Christ dwells among us in the manner, as heretofore the Tabernacle in a Type? Does he not rather tell us, that Christ may dwell in our Hearts by Faith *. Likewise St. John himself applies this dwelling of Christ among us to that true Communion in the Spirit, which we ought to have with the bleffed Son of God, faying: + That which we have feen and heard, declare we unto you, that ye also may have Fellowship with us; and truly our Fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son fefus Christ. He dwelt among us, full of Grace and Truth; and of his Fulness have all we receiv'd, and Grace for Grace, ver. 14, 16. The Words, according to the Greek Text, are fo properly conjoin'd, and in the Matter itself so strictly linked together, that their Connexion cannot be separated by the other intervening Words in those two Verses. But that St. John interpoles fo many Words, ought not to feem strange and incongruous to us. Nor is the same unufual in common Conversation, especially where little regard is had to Art in the placing of Words, but only that the Thing itself may be express'd with the fame Concern that lies in the Mind. And thus in this Place, together with the Confideration fideration of the Thing propounded, we ought to attend to the Mind of John the Evangelist, who was so filled with humble Veneration, a lively Faith, and a most flagrant Love to his Lord and Master, that he could not speak of him after a meer historical manner, but always declared that most tender and delightful Sense of Him with which his own Mind was imbu'd, that fo he might the more fweetly allure others who should read his Gospel, to the fame most blessed Communion with the only begotten Son of God. How great an Emphasis there is in the two Words Grace and Truth, cannot be explained in few Words; fince from the foregoing Meditation it is plain, that all Things which were foretold of the new Covenant, are contain'd in those two Words. Therefore we refer the Reader for a fuller Understanding of them, to a particular Treatise publish'd by me in the German Tongue, called Grace and Truth.

* Eph. iii. 17. † Epist. I. chap. i. 3.

SECT. XLIII.

Why the Evangelist returns afresh to Speak of John the Baptist, and what is to be understood by wines, He cried.

JOHN bare witness of Him, and cri-ed, saying: This is He of whom I spake,

He that cometh after me, is preferred before me; for he was before me, ver. 15. Every Thing in these Words is emphatical. In what went before, viz. ver. 7, and 8. he had made mention thrice of the Testimony of John the Baptist, he doth it now a fourth time, and adds emphatically, if niness, clamavit, [He cried] that he might express not only his own, but the Love of John also towards the Lord, and declare that John did not bear witness coldly, but used great Earnestness, Zeal, and a wonderful Chearfulness and Freedom of Mind, in giving his Testimony; and that he publish'd it after such manner, that no one might hereafter plead Ignorance of it; yea, that he shew'd effectually that he was appointed to be the Voice, the Publisher, and the Fore-runner of the Meffiab; for that he had life up his Voice like a Trumpet, and proclaim'd the Melliah aloud, in the Hearing of the Jews. But the Evangelist does not stop here, but adds also the Words which John the Baptist spake. Whence it is eafily understood, that the very Words of John the Baptist were very dear and acceptable unto the Evangelist. For in this very Chapter he again repeats those Words, ver. 27, and 30. and again explains them in the very Words of John, Joh. iii. 28, &c. But what Occasion was there for the the Evangelist to alledge these Words in this Place, when he intended afterwardsto relate the whole Matter, and to recount more largely both the Words, and the Occasion of using them? This was the Reason; because hitherto having witneffed the true Godhead and Incarnation of the Messiah, both which were briefly comprehended in the Testimony of John, he thought it necessary to alledge this Testimony of the Baptist for an Argument, and as it were a short Compendium of those Things which he had hitherto spoken of Christ: Which was enough for him to infert in this Place, and so to finish' his begun Discourse, reserving still to himself a more large Account of the Testimony of John, which was of so great moment.

SECT. XLIV.

In what the Testimony of John the Baptist consists.

WHEN John says, ver. 30. This is be; hereby he shews, that he is about to publish somewhat very surprizing, which at first may seem strange and wonderful; or in which fuch Things may be found, as feem not to cohere and to agree well together. And John frequent-G 2

ly us'd the same Paradoxical Manner in speaking of Christ. For he did not then first use that Expression when he saw Christ coming towards him, and pointing at him, faid: Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the Sins of the World; This is He, &c. as you may read, v.29, 30. But the same Words, This is He, who cometh after me, and who was before me; He had us'd the Day before, to them who were fent to him from Jerusalem. Whence 'tis the less to be doubted, but that he often before faid those Things to the People, and principally to his Disciples. For his ('fohn's) Testimony was then so publickly known at Jerusalem, that the Jews were mov'd thereby to fend Priests and Levites to him for farther Information. But he spake nothing new to them, and only professed what he had before very boldly and freely declar'd to the People, and to his own Disciples. In which 'tis fweet to observe, that the Evangelist, out of all the Testimonies given by John the Baptist concerning Christ, chooses this which was spoken by the Baptist, when with his own Eyes he beheld Christ, the Lamb of God: by which, he was particularly defirous to declare, that, as a Fore-runner formerly in his Mother's Womb he leap'd for Joy, when the Lord came to visit him in the Womb of his Virgin

Virgin Mother; fo now this his 'yoy was as it were renewed, and even compleated, when * he faw Jesus come towards him; whereby he was fo inflam'd, that he cried out with greater Earnestness than ever before, and congratulated Him as the true Bridegroom, and raised the Attention of all his Disciples and of all the People about Him, that now they should behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the Sin of the World: that then he cried aloud, that all might hear Him; This is He, viz. 6 eppeules, He that was to come, nor befides Him shall you expect any other: That thereby he might remove all Doubts from Mens Minds, and that they should all of Themselves believe it that this is He, of whom Moses and the Prophets wrote, and to whom his whole Function belonged. But when the Discourse he was wont to have of the Messiah was known, and publish'd among his Disciples, and to all the People, he hereby marked out Christ to them, and withal gave Testimony, first of his true Humanity, and the Administration of his Office in this his State of Humiliation, according as he had faid; this is He, who cometh after me: Then alfo of his Eternal Divinity, when he affirms of Him who was to come after him, G 3 that that he was before him, and then subjoins that he was before him. Which Words, in this Place, do not only denote his Prerogative of Dignity (as what John the Baptist expressly declares in another manner, when ver. 27. he professes himself not worthy to unloose the Latchet of his Shoes, and still more largely and plainly, chap. iii. ver. 27—36.) but of Time also.

* John III. 29.

SECT. XLV.

What is to be observed concerning Grace for Grace, and comparing of the Law, and Grace and Truth, one with another.

AN D of his Fulness have all we reteived, and Grace for Grace, ver. 16. The Greek Particle & [and] fet before when in where, [Grace for Grace] has something more emphatical than the Translator hath express'd in our Mother Language (German). The Sense of the Words [and of his Fulness have all we received] may be explain'd thus, i. e. "Whatsoever Good we have, it is not from ourselves, but as he is full of Grace and Truth, so hath he imparted somewhat to every one of us; that out of his infinite Fulmess, without any Diminution to Him" felf, we all have received fomething, " and indeed (or, yea and) Grace for " Grace." We have before shewn the Signification of these Words, Grace for Grace. It is faid moreover, (ver. 17.) for the Law was given by Moses, but Grace and Truth came by Jesus Christ. Here, in the Words 2568n, data est [was given] and erero, prastita seu facta est, [was performed, or derived lies a fingular Emphasis. The Law was not made, but given by Mofes, as by the Hand of a Mediator *: But Grace and Truth were not only given by, but proceeded from Jefus Christ; fince by his Suffering and Dying for us, He hath recover'd the Grace lost by Adam's Fall, and applies it to our Hearts by his Spirit, and thereby renews and restores in Them the divine Image in Righteousness, and in Holiness of Truth. It would be too much to afcribe to Moses the Word exist, the making of the Law, (for the Law was not made by him) and it would be much too little to apply to Christ the Word & Sidn, the giving of the Law. For this Man was counted worthy of more Glory than Mojes, inafmuch as he who hath builded the House, hath more Honour than the House. For every House is builded by some Man, but he that built all Things is God. (N.B. God was that Word. G 4

* Gal. iii. 19

Word. All Things were made by Him.) And Moses verily was faithful in all his House as a Servant, for a Testimony of those Things which were to be spoken after; but Christ as a Son over his own House: which Place in the Hebrews * greatly illustrates St. John's Words.

SECT. XLVI.

How great Sense is comprised in the 18th Verse, where there is so notable mention made of the only begotten Son, who is in the Bosom of the Father, and hath declared Him.

THE only begotten Son. John had before called Christ xbyw, the Word, and in the 14th Verse propers, the only begotten, now adds the word sis, and calls Him the only begotten Son; which Word he afterwards frequently uses in his Gospel. But as he had before said concerning the Word; The Word was with God: so he now subjoins, who is in the Bosom of the Father. These last Words were before compared with Proverbs viii. from whence may be understood, the great Importance of them. Now it is farther to be observed what John says here, & Ly, [who exists] who was from from Eternity, and is, and shall be. So Christ faith, * No Man bath ascended up to Heaven, but He that came down from Heaven, even the Son of Man, (8 av, truly existing) which is in Heaven. And again, Verily, verily, I fay unto you, Before Abraham was (or was born) I am +. He does not fav, I was, or eyevoung, I was made, but I am; that he might thereby declare not only his Existence, or his Being before Abraham, but his eternal and immutable Essence also. Pfalm cii. 27. expresses this by אתח הוא, Thou art the fame: with which compare Heb. i. 12. and xiii. 8. It may be yet farther noted, that in the Greek it is not faid, in The xonto, but is the κόλπν, within the Bosom, comparing the Particle is with what he had expressed by the Particle is, with, in the 1st and 2d Verses (of John i.) This Expression may be thus interpreted: The Father and the Son are fo closely united together, that this Union has not only been from Eternity, but will also endure to Eternity; and the Son is always with, and in the Father, in an indissoluble Essence of the Godhead; so that even the Incarnation of the Son cannot destroy this Union. He hath declared him to us, ver. 18. ('Exers) He it is, and no other. For by this most emphatical Word, he would transfer our Heart.

* Chap. iii. 3, 4, 5, 6.

* John iii. 13. † John viii. 58.

Heart, Mind, Soul, and all our Thoughts upon the Son. Egnonours, declared: this not only fignifies, as the German Version has it, Er hat es berkundigt, nuntiavit, declar'd; but as it is render'd in Latin, expofuit, deprompsit, set abroad in view, brought forth; He, as a Store-keeper, (viz. from the Bosom of the Father, from the most profound and most secret Divinity) expounded and brought to Light, Things which otherwise had remained hidden and obscure. By this word, declared, he also Thews why Christ is called 1690, (the Word) viz. not only because he is the Image of the Father, as Speech is the Image of the Mind; nor therefore only, because from the Beginning God spake by Him to the Prophets: but for this Reafon also, because 'tis he himself who makes known, and manifests to us the Mind of God, and fets before us, and grafts into our Hearts that Grace and Truth which himself procured for us. There is a fourth Reason why He is called the Word, viz. because He is our Advocate, and Intercesfor with the Father *. In the Greek, ver. 18. the Word mar, nobis, to us, is wanting; it is only faid, 'Eturiour, be declared: which Omission of a Word used in other Places, and often not without Emphasis, ought not to be thought in vain, or unadvised. SECT.

SECT. XLVII.

What Prayers the Consideration on all these Things should draw from our Hearts.

" O LORD, the Saviour of the whole " World, Praife, Honour and Glory be " to thy Name, that Thou hast laid up " fo many and fo great Treasures of Wis-" dom and Knowledge in the Words of " thy Witnesses, that They may be as in-" exhauftable Fountains, whose profound " Sense no Man can throughly search out. " That Water, which Thou gavest them, " is made in them a Well of Water, " fpringing up into everlasting Life. They " bring out of their Treasures Things " new and old, as being instructed by " Thee, the true Master, for the Kingdom of Heaven. Thou art the Word, which fpoke in Them, and which still fpeaks to us by Them at all Times. In hearing Them we hear Thee. How therefore can even the least Word that was " inspired by Thee into them, want a Di-" vine Emphasis? But if we receive it " as thy Word, so that this Word of Life " be mix'd in our Hearts with Faith, " Thou art then always He, who with us, " in us, yea and by us, still speakest, and " workest

" workest effectually. Thou takest away " the Veil from before our Eyes and Hearts, that we may be able to behold, " and know the Glory of the Face of Moles, " viz. Thy felf, who art the End and Fulfilling of the Law. O Lord, fince Thou " haft thus given the Words of Wifdom " unto thy Servants, that they should not " only be thy Witnesses to the End of the World; but also especially for the " fake of Posterity, and thereby for our " fake, should put in Writing the Words " which thou deliveredst to Them; grant therefore for thine own fake, that Ho-" nour to thy own Word, that, like a great "Sea of Wisdom, it may spread itself thro' the whole World, and that every " one may run to this Fountain, with " great Defire, with humbleness of Mind, " with Joy and Thanksgiving, may draw " out of it, find in it true Wifdom, and " may know Thee, as the Eternal Word " of God, the Eternal Life, the Eternal " and true Light, and may for ever be " enliven'd and enlighten'd by Thee. a Amen.

The FIFTH MEDITATION.

Wherein Six Arguments, proving the true Divinity of Christ, which occur in the Beginning of St. 'John's Gospel, are diligently examin'd.

S E C T. XLVIII. The First Argument.

" HE, to whom Eternity is so ascribed, " as to have no Beginning, is together with " the Father, the true and effential God. " But fuch an Eternity is afcribed unto " Christ: therefore Christ together with " the Father is the true and effential God." The major Proposition is true beyond all doubt; it being against common Reason to attribute to any Being that Eternity which is without Beginning, and yet not acknowledge It to be the true God. Wherefore no Man of Sense will require a Proof of this Proposition. But this is to be demonstrated, that That Eternity which is without any Beginning, belongs to Christ, and then it follows of itself, that Christ is the true and effential God. But this is affirm'd by the Evangelist in plain and clear Words: For he fays concerning the same Christ, who walked about among Men

Men on the Earth, being made visible to Men in the Flesh, that He is the Word, viz. which was in the Beginning, or thenexisted, when the Beginning of any Thing could be said to be. The Emphasis of the Words of John (especially of the Word in, was, signifying, that that Word had no Beginning, but did really exist before the Beginning of Time, beyond which there is nothing but Etermity) I fay, this Emphasis, together with the Places of Scripture wherewith it has been compar'd, is to be remembred here from the preceeding Sections. We only add the Words of St. Augustine in Epist. LXVI. It is not faid, as in the Beginning, God made Heaven and Earth, so in the Beginning he made the Word; but, in the Beginning was the Word. In this Place, John was wholly intent, to set before our Eyes the Glory of the Son of God from the very Beginning of Genesis, that He might at once give us a Key, how we ought rightly to feek and to find Christ, as the Substance of the Writings of Moses and all the Prophets, from the genuine Foundation of the fecret Depths of God's Wisdom. Otherwife fome other Form of speaking might have expressed the Eternity of the Son of God, as he uses in other Places; when for Example, It Epistle i. 2. he calls Him, that Eternal Life which was with the Father.

ther, (as he also calls Him In Epist. v. 20. Eternal Life) whereby he explains the very Words which he uses in this Place, by. an Expression of like Import: for he here fays, In the Beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. But in his Epistle it is: that Eternal Life (which in the preceeding Verfe, as well as in his Gospel, he had called the Word) was with the Father. What can be clearer than that St. John shews it is the same Thing with him, whether he says, He was in the Beginning, or else fays, He is eternal; for He is the best Interpreter of his own Words? Hence it is unreasonable to object, why does he not write expresly, The Word was from Eternity; then the Thing would be plain, and need no farther Proof. For it must be considered, that St. John's Design here is to explain the Words of Moses, for which we ought to be thankful: and fince the Thing has been deliver'd thus by Mojes, he follows Moses's Words, and seems to be delighted with the Expression, as appears by his frequent using thereof. And he is not only studious in interpreting. Moles, but also refers us to the Testimony of Moses concerning Christ; wherefore he does industriously keep to his Words, as the most proper for him to use in writing his Gospel, especially against the Errors rors of Ebion and Cerinthus. Moreover, the Eternity of Christ is by these Words fo plainly fet before our Eyes, that whofoever will calmly consider them, can have no Doubt in his Mind concerning them. But because the Heart of St. John was full of this Matter, he explains his own Words largely, as he had explain'd the Words of Moses. Why therefore should we not acquiesce in what he sufficiently fignifies, that the Words, He was in the Beginning, and He is Eternal, have the very same Sense and Meaning? Nor are there wanting in the Holy Scriptures, other Testimonies of the like Nature, which can fully fatisfy thy Defire, or most clearly, as thou couldft wish, set forth the Eternity of Christ, so as thou mayst have no longer any room for evading the Testimonies for Christ's Eternity, from which his true and essential Divinity must be acknowledg'd without any Contradiction. For whatcan be more evident, than that Micab the Prophet, foretelling that Christ should be born at Betblehem, declares Him to be the Person, whose rising or goings forth (מוצאחיו exitus) bave been from of old, (from the Beginning) from everlasting *. Which way of Expression is much more prevalent, than if he had only faid, that Christ was from Eternity. But

But what elfe does Micab fay, but that He, who at the Time appointed by God, should be born at Betblebem, was not then first to have his Beginning, but that He was without any Beginning; which can be attributed to none but the true, the living, and eternal God. If any one be not fatisfied with this clear Testimony, there are not wanting in the Scriptures many others to convince him. But he that will not give his Assent to the plain Word of God; and tho' the strongest Proofs be laid before him, labours still to call them into question, and to put another Sense into the Word of God, than that which the Spirit of God has supplied us with, and (as it were) imprinted upon us, (fo that we have no occasion to interpret It by our own, but are able to do it by the very Words of the Spirit of God). How can he possibly be convinced? fince he makes God a Liar, because he believeth not the Record that God gave of his Son. And this is the Record that God hath given to us, Eternal Life, and this Life is in his Son *.

H

SECT.

SECT. XLIX.

The Second Argument.

" HE whom the Holy Scripture itself " calls God, and that without any Limi-" tation, and confequently without any " Difference (as to Essence and divine " Property) from Him who made Hea-" ven and Earth, or from Him whom " we adore as the true, eternal, and liv-" ing God, He is the true and living God: " But Christ is thus called God in the " Holy Scripture, therefore He is the " true, effential and living God." The major Proposition wants no Proof. For if any one should object, that many in the fame Holy Scriptures are called Gods, who are not the only, true, and living God, and the Creator of Heaven and Earth; the Word of God is described after so sublime a manner, in the major Proposition, that this Objection deserves no regard here. But as to the minor Proposition, that lies plainly before our Eyes in the very Beginning of St. John's Gospel: For there the Discourse is manifestly of no other Perfon, but of the Word that was made Flesh, or of Jesus Christ, concerning whom John wrote his Gospel. Here therefore He is not only by him called the Word which was in the Beginning, and was with God; but he fays also in the clearest and plainest Words, fuch as every one may understand, 66ds δο δ λόγ, Deus erat illud Verbum, God was the Word. It was observed by us in the former Meditation, that thefe Words, if they were plac'd in their natural Order, ought to be render'd, the Word was God. That this Acceptation of the Words cannot feem improper to one that has but fmall Knowledge of the Greek Tongue, among other Things, appears from hence, that a certain Person, who translated the New Testament into the German Tongue, and not a little perverts those Places which speak of Christ, translates the Word xby on not Verbum, [the Word] but Rede, fermo, [Speech] and yet thus expresses the Greek Words, according to their natural Position: Die Rede war ein Sott, i. e. Sermo erat Deus aliquis, Speech was a (certain) God. By which indeed the Interpreter confesses, that the Words ought fo to be taken according to their natural Order, that God may be the Predicate, or that which John would here say and affirm concerning the Word, viz. that He is God; yet nevertheless he perverts the Text, when he thus translates it into the German, Die Rede war ein Gott, Sermo erat Deus anquis, Speech was a (certain) God: without H 2 doubt doubt for this End, that the Readers of this Version might think, that Christ indeed is God, but not the true and essential God. But now no Man can offer the least Colour from the Greek Text, to make it only probable, that it ought to be thus interpreted; the Speech, or the Word, was a (certain) God. For when 'tis faid before, Verbum illud erat apud Deum, the Word was with God; and it immediately follows, Et illud Verbum erat beds, Deus, and the Word was God; it being prefently added, Hoc Verbum in Principio erat apud Deum, this Word was in the Beginning with God: it plainly enough appears, that the word beds, God, put in the first and third Place, ought altogether to be understood of the true and essential God; but in the middle Place, where it is faid, the Word was God, after the fame manner, and with the same Term, and the Name beds is affigued to the Word without any Limitation, (especially when the Nature of the Predicate Ocos, God, placed emphatically before the Subject & x620. the Word, requires no Article before it:) Certainly we should do violence to the whole Context, if here, where the Word is called God, we should not understand it also concerning the true and effential God: This is an Example, what miferable Shifts corrupt Reason finds it necessary to use; when once departed from the clear Word of God, it finds the Letter opposite to it, and notwithstanding desires to defend an erroneous Opinion once formed. Thus in his Translation, the first Artifice was to put the word Rede, Speech, instead of Bozt, Word; and when that would not fuffice, he has another way of wresting the Text, to make his Opinion prevail. Certainly an honest and upright Mind, ignorant of those Artifices, could never fall into such Imaginations upon reading St. John's Words. Wherefore we have subjoin'd that Instance for an Admonition, that the Falshood of those Things, which are wont to be brought against the Divine Glory and Majesty of our Lord Jesus Christ, may be the better known and avoided. For to attain the Knowledge of Christ's Godhead, there is no need of far-fetcht Interpretations; the plain Word of God is before you, which tis fit you should believe, and adhere to with Simplicity of Mind. But to pervert plain Words, recourse must be had to human Arts, and a laborious Exercise of Wit. Concerning the abovemention'd Version of the Text, the Word was God, 'tis to be noted, that there is nothing new or strange in that Expression: For so have the Dutch, the English, the French, the Bobemians, translated these Words in their H 3 Bibles, Bibles, and Pifcator has fo render'd them in his German Translation. From whence it may at least be understood, that this Acceptation of the Words appeared to be the plainest and most proper of all to the best Interpreters. And that this is the true Acceptation, may appear from the Intention of St. John by them, viz. that the Word was, before the Beginning of any Thing, or it was from Eternity; so as no Time can be affign'd when he began to exist. But if you inquire, where then was the Word, if thus fet beyond Time and Place, and any Conception that Man can form of created Beings? It is anfwer'd, He was from Eternity with God, and before or in the Presence of God, as the most beloved Son his Delight and Joy is in the Presence of his Father *. If you further ask, Was the Word of another Effence from God? was he any way in respect of his Essence different from God? It is answer'd, No. That same Word was God. If you still urge, Was there then no Difference between the Word and God? It is answer'd, None at all, in regard of Essence, but the Word was in the Beginning with God, as it was faid in the first Verse, and again repeated (in the second) that you may observe there is no Difference in the Godhead in point of Effence; and yet nevertheless that there is fuch a Difference, that the Father and the Word should not be confounded, but that in regard of Effence they are One, and in regard of Personality they are Two: which Distinction holds also as to the Holy Spirit: wherefore St. John might truly fay, that They are Three; and that thefe Three are One. Why therefore, O Man, dost thou go about to wrest those Words, which the Scriptures make plain and confonant? But if any one induced by the least Co-. lour of Reason, scruples to acquiesce in a clear Version generally received by such Numbers of intelligent People, and is not fatisfied with what is alledged before concerning it, let him know, that this is no Derogation at all to the Truth itself. Let the Version be retained as it stands in our German Bibles, und Gott war das Wort, i.e. & Deus erat Verbum; and God was the Word: Taking it in this manner, pray what is wanting to a Demonstration of the true and effential Godbead of our Saviour? John fays, the Word was with God. Some may have concluded perhaps from these Words, that because the Word was with God, it was therefore not God, but fome other Thing beside God: John therefore answers, Gott war selbst das Wort, i.e. ipfe Deus erat illud Verbum, God bimfelf was the Word. And when it may be H 4 retort-retorted; Are They then in no respect Two; and is all Difference (even Personal) taken from Them? St. John for that Reason repeats what he had said, and faith; Toro the fame (i.e. Noy the Word; by which Term at the very Time he expresses some Personal Difference) was in the Beginning with God. Which way soever therefore our Antagonist turns himfelf, he will not at all advantage his Caufe; for the Words of St. John are so clear, so convincing and piercing, that they cannot possibly be so far wrested, but that the fimple and plain Mind of John, must needs be acknowledged by him who will not choose to be blind, with his Eyes open. They most effectually confute Arius, as well as Sabellius; the first, in his oppugning the true Divinity of Christ; and the other, in taking away the Distinction of Persons in the Godhead. But when we speak of the Difference of Persons, this is not to be understood in a gross manner, and fuch as is fuitable to created Beings: for corrupt Reason easily finks so low, as to form to itself such a Personality in the Mind, that may also involve a Difference of the Effence. The Words of St. John directly oppose this gross and false Conception of the Personality, and all Things are therein delivered in a most plain and fimple manner, in which every one one may fafely acquiefce; nor is there Reason why any one should be offended with the word Perfonality, fo it be not hurried by corrupt Reafon into a perverse Sense. Since therefore the Words of John are fo clear, and attribute the same Divinity to the Word, or the Son, as belongs to the Father, nothing more can be required to the former Proof of the minor Proposition of the second Syllogism, than that every one should be referred to the Words of John, without adding a sin-gle word to them. But it was thought convenient to produce fome Arguments for their fake, who will not be content with plain Words. And if there be any who will not yet be fatisfied, nor admit the Things which St. John affirms in express Words, but will still require some other Demonstration of the true and esfential Divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ: In order to gratify such a one farther, we shall quote the In Epistle of John, chap. v. ver. 20. in which John interprets himfelf, faying, We know that the Son of God is come, and bath given us an Understanding, that we may know Him that is true: and we are in Him that is true, even in his Son Jesus Christ. This (379) is the true God, and Eternal Life. Of whom is the Discourse here? Is it not of Jesus Christ? who is that true One, in whom we arc?

are? Is it not Jesus Christ? Here therefore this Jesus is said to be the true God; whereby John declares, how He would have it be understood, that in this same Verse he calls Him & annlivor, Him that is true, furely in fuch a Sense, as that He is the true God. And who, I pray, is it, that in the Holy Scriptures is called Eternal Life? Is not this the Name that belongs to the Son of God? and is every where given Him. Does not John himself, It Epist. i. 2. call Him that Eternal Life, which was with the Father? Does not he tell us, Chap. v. 11, 12. of the same Epiftle, that Eternal Life is in the Son; that be that hath the Son, bath Life; and he that hath not the Son, hath not Life? And behold, he not only affirms of this same Jesus Christ, that He is Life Eternal, but fays, ver. 20. This is the true God, and Eternal Life; and adds, Little Children, keep your selves from Idols: That he might thereby every way attest, that the true and effential Divinity of the Son of God, ought to be acknowledged by us. For if John, as is well to be observ'd, had fo great a Care of the Churches, as to admonish Them to beware of Idols, how could he prevail upon himself to give the greatest Occasion of all for Idolatry? But he would certainly have given it, had he declared those Things of any Created Being, ing, which he has spoken concerning Christ, in his Gospel, his Epistles, and Revelation. Moreover, those Things should be well confider'd, which are written, John xiv. 8, 9, 10, 11. Philip faith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us. Fefus faith unto him, He that bath feen me, bath feen the Father; believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me. Now what else in effect does Christ fay here, but that He and the Father are One? Can it be thought the Inquiry in this Place was about the Unity of Will and Affection? No, by no means. For how can you find this Sense in the Words of Philip, and how could the Answer of our Lord suit with the Request of Philip, if he would thereby have declared nothing to him more, but that He and the Father were fo united by Consent of Will and Affection, as two Friends are united together, or as every Believer is joined with God, by an Union of Will. Wherefore this is the obvious Meaning of John's Words, that the Son is of the same Divine and Individual Effence with the Father. St. Paul also calls our Lord Jesus Christ, God over All, bleffed for ever *. What other lofty Names are in many Places of Scripture attributed to Christ, agreeing to the one, true and effential God, and that He

He is particularly called Jehovah, that is, the Effential God, subfifting by Himself, may be feen hereafter in the INDEX of the Divine Names or Titles of Christ; in which, nevertheless, for Brevity's fake, there are but few of them enumerated: whereas it could be easily shewn, that Moses, the Prophets and the Psalms, are full of clear Testimonies of the Divinity of Christ. May it please God to open the Hearts of many to attend diligently to this important Affair. But from what hath been faid, it is abundantly manifest, that the Conclusion above made remains firm, viz. That Jesus Christ is the true, the effential, and living God; because it appears clearer than Meridian Light, not only from the plain Words of John, (which way foever they are placed and turn'd) but also from the universal Testimony of all the Holy Writings. Why therefore doth blind and wretched Reason take such Pains to depreciate and deny the Lord, by whom are all Things, and we by Him *? May we not hence conclude, how fearful and dangerous it is for any one to go about to read the Holy Scriptures but as an humble and meek Disciple, whose Part it is, without Contradiction, to believe the Things which the Scripture delivers us in clear and perspicuous Words. But tho'

of all the Holy Scriptures. 109

the two Arguments now alledg'd, are abundantly sufficient to convince and satisfy the Mind, concerning the true and essential Divinity of Christ; yet there still remain, in the Beginning of this Gospel, many more of no less Conviction to the Heart, which now follow.

SECT. L.

The Third Argument.

" HE, by whom all Things were made, " and without whom nothing was made, " that was made, is equally with the Fa-" ther the only true and Almighty God. " But Christ is He, by whom all Things " were made, and without whom nothing " was made that was made: Therefore " Christ is the only true and Almighty God." No Man hath any Reason to doubt of the Truth of the major Proposition; for every one can eafily understand, that He, by whom all Things (that are out of God, or may be faid to be created) were created, cannot poffibly be any other, than the true, effential, and Almighty God. But perhaps Reason will seek for a Subterfuge in the word By, and fay, that He who Himself created All Things, must indeed be the only true and Almighty God; but that He by whom all Things were created, must be said to have first received Power and Efficacy from One Higher than Himfelf, by the Advantage whereof afterwards, and so not from his own Power and Vertue, nor from Divine Omnipotence properly fo called, created all Things: Therefore that He cannot be called the True and Almighty God, by whom, as by an Organ and Instrument, all Things were made; but that the True and Almighty God made use of Him as an Instrument, and so created all Things by Him. That this Objection may be the more folidly answer'd, the major Proposition might thus have been formed, with fo much the greater Emphasis: " To whom the Creation of " Heaven and Earth, yea, the Creation of " all Things that are in Heaven and Earth, " without Exception of any Thing crea-" ted, is ascribed, not so only as effected " by Him, but as to the Creator Himself; " and indeed in fuch a way, that it could " not be affigned to any other after a more " fublime manner: He is the only True, " Omnipotent, and Effential God." Every one fees, that This cannot be faid of an Angel, nor of any Thing else, that may be used as an Instrument; but 'tis manifestly clear, that This is affirmed of Christ in the Holy Scriptures. Therefore as St. John fays, all Things were made by the Word, and without Him was not any Thing Thing made, that was made; so St. Paul declares these Things more at large: * By Him were all Things created, that are in Heaven, and that are in Earth, visible and invisible; whether they be Thrones, or Dominions, or Principalities, or Powers: all Things were created by Him, and for Him. And He is before all Things, and by Him all Things confift. Note here in the first Place, for hence it may throughly be understood, that such Things as these cannot be spoken of a meer Instrument, nor of an Angel, nor of any other Thing which is not God Himself. For He, by whom not only all Things, but for whom all visible Things were created, nay, who is before all Things, and by whom, or in whom all Things do confift, (or are preferv'd in their Being) He, I fay, can by no means be created, but must Himself be the essential God: and this is Christ himself. Note then, that as St. Paul fays by whom also (in the oblique Case) he made the Worlds + (res aiwvas, secula, the Ages, whatfoever is in any manner circumscribed by Time:) So he prefently after affirms of Him, (in the Nominative Case) that He, as the Brightness of his Glory, and the express Image of his Person, upholdeth all Things by the Word of his Power; fo that nothing can subfift, unless unless it be supported by his powerful Word; which certainly is not the proper Work of any created Being, but of the living God alone: For he does not here fay by whom, but who (the Son, there spoken of) upholds all Things by the Word of his Power. And if you still defire farther Proofs, turn your Eyes immediately to the following Quotations, and observe, that the Holy Spirit does not so tie himfelf to the Use of the Particle by, but attributes unto Christ the Work of Creation fimply, in the Nominative Cafe, speaking of the Son thus: Ev Kiew, * Thou, Lord, in the Beginning (or of old) hast laid the Foundation of the Earth, and the Heavens are the Work of thy Hands. They shall perish, but thou shalt endure (but thou remainest) and they all shall wax old like a Garment, and as a Vesture thou shalt change them, and they shall be changed. But thou art the same, and thy Years shall have no End. Therefore is not He, who laid the Foundation of the Earth, and whose Handy-work the Heavens are, who shall change the Heavens themselves, and who always remains the same; the Eternal, the Living and Almighty God, with whom is no Variableness +? Now it is evident beyond all Controversy, that these Things are spoken of Christ, for the Epistle

* Pfalm cii. 25, Ge. † James i. 17.

Epistle to the Hebrews avers it in express Words; and it is acknowledg'd by All, that the ciid Pfalm is to be understood of the Messiah. If any one shall object, that these Things are spoken of the New Creation; he should know, that neither the nd ust' deads, in the Beginning, nor this Change or Transmutation of Heaven and Earth, nor the Things that go before, can fuit with fuch a Suggestion. But if Christ be He that laid the Foundation of the Earth, &c. what, I pray, can be more evident, than that Christ himself is the true, essential and Almighty God? May we not fay to Him; * O Jehovah, thou art our Father: we are the Clay, and thou our Potter, and we all are the Work of thy Hand? Cannot we perceive that it is Christ, of whom it is faid, + Thy Maker is thy Husband, (the Lord of Hosts is his Name) and thy Redeemer, the Holy One of Ifrael, the God of the whole Earth, shall He be called? Behold! thus the Prophetick Spirit speaks of Chrift, and instructs us how we ought to celebrate and refound the Glory of the Son of God, with a Name and Titles worthy of Him. For who, I befeech you, is the Husband of the Church? Is not Christ so denominated in the very Institution of Matrimony? Does not not St. Paul say, * This is a great Mystery: but I speak concerning Christ and the Church. And I have espoused you to one Husband, that I may prefent you as a chaste Virgin to Christ +? It is manifest that That Man does not understand the whole Oeconomy of God in the Old and New Testament, nor has he perceiv'd the Mystery of Christ in the Scriptures, who denies, that Isaiah doth comfort and encourage the Church, by representing Christ to her as her Husband, who is likewife her Maker, and not only as her Hufband, but also her Redeemer, אל עלה which is the proper Work and Office of Christ, and shadowed in the Law by Types. Compare also here Isa. lxii. 5. but he calls this Person, from the Work of Creation, the God of the whole Earth; yea, he affirms that this their Redeemer, the Holy One of Ifrael, should be called the God of the whole Earth, whose Name he had called יהוה febovah, the effential God, the God of Hosts. And the Holy Scriptures are full of the like Expressions, wherein the Messiab is set before us as Creator; but there is not fo much as one Text in all the Sacred Writings, in which Christ himself is said to be a Thing created, or that He was made by God. Ferome has most fully vindicated, by rightly tran-translating one Word of the authentick Hebrew Text, that Place in Prov. viii. 22. which Arius hath very much abused. For whereas Arius out of some Copies of the Version of the LXX Interpreters, reads it thus; Kiel Ennoi us apriv odiv airs. i. e. Jehovah creavit me initium viarum fuarum, i. e. The Lord created me the Beginning of his Ways: Jerome has to this most rightly opposed the Hebrew word (to which the Translation ought to have been entirely agreeable) which Hebrew word does not at all fignify creavit me, created me, sed possedit me, but possessed me; by which Interpretation he has also answer'd that Place in Eccluf. xxiv. 9. 110 78 dars ar' apas 'eunsé us : Ante seculum à Principio creavit me, i. e. He created me from the Beginning before the World; inafmuch as this was taken from the wrong Version of the Hebrew word just mention'd. [Note, the English Translation runs thus: Prov. viii. 22. The Lord possessed me in the Beginning of his Way, before his Works of old.] If a Man's Mind be so enlighten'd by the Lord, that he comes to understand the Prophecies concerning the Messiah, or the Scriptures which speak of Him, he will then easily know, that the cth Pfalm is nothing else but an Acclamation of the Prophetick Spirit, which relates to the the Messiah; saying, Make a joyful Noise unto the Lord, all ye Lands: serve the Lord with Gladness, and come before his Presence with Singing. Know ye that the Lord he is God, it is He that bath made us, and not we our selves; we are his People, and the Sheep of his Pafture. He will then also easily understand that Moses sang not of any other Person: Pfal. xc. 2, 3. Before the Mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the Earth and the World: even from everlasting to everlasting thou art God. Thou turnest Man to Destruction, and sayest, Return ye Children of Men. Is it not the Voice of the bleffed Son of God, which the Dead in their Graves are one Day to hear, and come forth? And if there be any one, to whom thefe especially, or any other the like Places of Scripture may not feem fo clear and perspicuous, as to be convinced immediately from them of the Omnipotence and Divine Glory of Jejus Christ; he ought not from hence to conclude, that others may not have a greater Conviction of Mind from them, but he ought humbly to pray to God for a better Understanding of his Word: so He will in due time open his Eyes more and more, that he may be able to find every where in Moses and the Prophets, the clearest Tesrimonies timonies concerning the Omnipotence and Majesty of Christ; as St. John in the Beginning of his Gospel, already considered by us, furnishes an Example of this Matter from the first Chapter of Genesis, where certainly another Person, who by his own Reason, void of Divine Light, should attempt this, will not be able to discover from thence the Eternal Divinity and Omnipotence of Christ. In the mean time, it is the Duty of every one to be contented with those plain and open Testimonies which we have produced above, and most carefully to beware that he deny not any Thing to Christ, which the Holy Spirit adjudges by clear and evident Words to belong to Him. Therefore although from this manifest Proof of the minor Propofition, the Conclusion stands firm and uncontroulable, that Christ, being the Maker of Heaven and Earth, is the True and Almighty God; yet still this Scruple, which fome may perhaps have, is to be more folidly removed. It is asked, but why does John use the Particle Ad, by; or why does he fay, all Things were made by Him, and not rather, He made all Things? And for what Reason does the Scripture also elsewhere in this very Matter use this Particle by? To which it is answer'd, that this was not done in any wife to derogate from the Majesty of Christ. I 3

* Ijai. lxiv. 8. † Ifai. liv. 5.

Christ, whereto corrupt Reason most shamefully bends; forasmuch as without any Controversy it is written of Almighty God, * Of Him, and through Him, (or, by Him, of wire, per eum) and to Him, are all Things; to whom be Glory for ever. Amen. In like manner it is written; + It became Him, for whom are all Things, and by whom are all Things, in bringing many Sons unto Glory, to make the Captain of their Salvation perfect through Sufferings: Not to mention now any more Places of Scripture. But the Holy Scriptures do the rather use this Particle, that we may thereby acknowledge the Glory of Christ: as also the Scope of this Particle by is manifest from Col. i. 16-20. This is most evidently seen in St. John: For after he had assigned Eternity to Christ, and had declared Him Equal to the Father in his Divinity, as being of the same Essence with Him, he ascribes also the fame Omnipotence to Him, which is due to the Father, and makes not the Particle per, by, to derogate more from his Divine Majesty, than the Particle apud, with, which he uses in the 1st and 2d Verfes of his Gospel. Nay, when he had already in express Words assigned to the Son Eternity, and the true and essential Divinity, he knew well, that the Senfe of the the 3d Verse could not be understood of any other than the divine Omnipotence. But by reason of the Mystery of the Father and the Son, * who are of the same Essence, but distinct in their Personality, he uses in this Place the Particle we's, with, as well as that of sa, by, and makes Christ himself to be his own Interpreter, + saying to the Jews; My Father worketh bi-therto, and I work. But to the Jews, who easily perceived from this Saying, that he did not call God his Father after a common way of speaking, but that He made himself equal with God; He said moreover, Verily, verily, I fay unto you, the Son can do nothing of himself, but what be seeth the Father do; for what Things loever be doth, these also doth the Son likewife. By which Words indeed Christ honoureth his Father, but teaches at the fame time, ver. 23. that all Men should honour the Son, even as they bonour the Father. He that bonoureth not the Son, (understand, even as he honoureth the Father) bonoureth not the Father which bath fent bim. Likewise in St. Paul's Epistles, when the Particle Ad, by, is used concerning the Son, it is so clearly fignified by other Words, and fo fublime a Sense is given to it, that any one may eafily perceive he does nothing else, but propose the Order of the divine Operations, and declare, that all Manifestation of the Father, both in the Kingdom of Nature and Grace, is made by the Son, and in the Son, as the eternal Word of God. And as long as this is not understood from the Word of God, so long also it is not understood as it ought to be, what Christ is, and what is obtained by Him.

* Col. ii. 2.

SECT. LI.

The Fourth Argument.

" THE first Principle or Cause " Original of Life is the true and effen-" tial God: The Word, as by which all " living Things were created, is the first " Principle or Cause Original of Life; therefore the Word is the true and es-" fential God." Or, " He by whom all " created Things do live, and who gives " Life to all created Things, must be God: " The Word gives Life to all Creatures; "Therefore the Word must be God." By this twofold way of Reafoning, the Reverend John Arndius forms his Conclufion from the Words of St. John. No one could doubt of the major Proposition, who would but a little confider it. indeed a Man's Reason cannot conceive, how to be the first Original or Principle of Life, or to be Him by whom all created Beings do live, and who gives Life to all created Things, can be affigned to any other than the living God. Whence God is not only wont to be called in the Holy Scriptures the living God *, but the Origin and Fountain of Life is also attributed to him alone, as David fays; # With thee, (Try we's # Bed, with God, Joh. i. 2.) is the Fountain of Life. By which Fountain of Life, no other indeed but Christ is in this Place to be understood. But if any one should not be perswaded of this, yet he cannot deny but that the Fountain and Beginning of Life is to be ascribed to God alone, all other Beings, which cannot be faid to be God, being excluded: With which Place ought to be compared fer. ii. 13. where it is faid, They have for Jaken me, the Fountain of living Waters; which it is manifest can't be understood of any other, but of the living God. As to what now belongs to the minor Proposition, we are plainly enough taught in the New Testament, where we ought to feek this Fountain of Life, or Source of living Waters. For thus Christ says to the Wo-man of Samaria, John iv. 10. If thou knewest the Gift of God, and who it is that that faith to thee, Give me to drink, thou wouldest have asked of him, and be would have given thee living Water: and ver. 14. Whosever drinketh of the Water that I shall give him, shall never thirst; but the Water that I shall give him, shall be in him a Well of Water springing up into everlast-ing Life. This is what John saith: In Him was Life, (Joh. i. 4.) If any one would fo understand these Words, as if nothing else were meant by them, but what is wont to be faid of any other living Thing, to wit, that there is Life in it, it is most evident, this was not the Thing that John was concern'd about: For what had he faid worthy the mentioning? How would this agree with what he had faid before? How with what follows, where this Life is called the Light of Men, (Joh. i. 4. latter part): Wherefore by this Expression, [that in Him (i.e. in Christ) Life is faid to be] fomething more fublime must necessarily be denoted, to wit, the very Origin of Life, which cannot be in any created Thing, but is in Chrift, as the true and essential God. But if some would still interpret these Things no farther than that therefore only there is Life in Christ, because He hath taught other Men the Way of Life, every one must perceive that fuch an Interpretation is very far from reaching the Intention of St. John, fince neither neither this fo agrees with the preceeding and following Words, that it should be taken for their adequate Meaning. And might not the same Thing have been said in this Sense of John the Baptist? But fince this remarkable Predicate is plainly in the Text denied to John the Baptist, but is given to Christ, tho' John, by the Testimony of Christ himself, was the greatest that were born of Women; certainly 'tis evident, that by this the Text instructs us, that Christ is more than a meer Man; that the Principle of Life is to be fought for in Him, and cannot be looked for in any created Thing. Truly these, and other the like Interpretations, are so managed, that it is easy for every one that confiders them without prejudicate Opinions to know, that the fublime Declarations which are here made of Chrift, are by fuch Interpretations extremely, and as far as can be done by corrupt Reason, industriously extenuated. Therefore let the Matter be confider'd as it plainly appears in the Text with its Connexion, and it will be easily and without Trouble perceiv'd, (1.) That these Words, In him was Life, flow from the antecedent Words. Now in the former Words, the Eternity of the Son, his true and effential Divinity, and his Omnipotence, are by John in plain Words set before our Eyes,

* Dent. v. 33. Job. vi. 57. 1 Sam. xvii. 26. 2 Kings xix. 4, 16. Pfal. xlii. 3. Job. i. 2. ± Pfal. xxxvi. 9.

(of all which we have already discoursed) from Thence therefore now properly follows what St. John here affirms concerning the Word, to wit, that in Him was Life, as in the Eternal, Essential, and Almighty God, together with the Father. But especially this latter Assertion, (in Him was Life) is most closely conjoined with his Omnipotence, which shews itself in the Creation of all Things. And hence (2.) it clearly follows, that St. John's Meaning was this: As all Things were made by the Word, and without Him was nothing made that was made; so neither was Life made or produced in any created Thing without the Word of God, in whom the Fountain and Origin of Life in fuch a manner is, as out of Him to transfuse itself into Things created, and thereby to impart Life to them: Which if we diligently confider, we shall eafily perceive (3.) This also to lie hid in the Words of John; that the Son of God, in his eternal Generation from the Father, in which he has his Divine Essence, had Life also from Eternity, as he himself fays; Joh. v. 26. As the Father bath Life in Himfelf, so bath he given to the Son to bave Life in Himself. Therefore this Fountain of Life, the Word of God, which hath imparted Life to his Creatures, is an eternal Fountain flowing out of the eternal eternal Generation from the Father. On which Subject the Reverend Dr. Spener hath discoursed with great Solidity, in his Sermon concerning the eternal Generation of the Son of God. Wherefore (4.) this also is contained in the Words of John: that this Life, which flowed from this eternal Fountain into Things created, does also preserve the Things that are created; as for that Reason St. Paul says, * by Him all Things confift: and + He upholdeth all Things by the Word of his Power: And from the same Foundation, ‡ Thou hidest thy Face, they (the Things created) are troubled; thou takest away their Breath, they die, and return to their Duft. Thou sendest forth thy Spirit, they are created: and thou renewest the Face of the Earth. Hence also the Son of Sirach introduces this Word of God speaking in this manner: | I came out of the Mouth of the most High, and covered the Earth as a Cloud. I dwelt in high Places, and my Throne is in a cloudy Pillar. I alone compassed the Circuit of Heaven, and walked in the Bottom of the Deep; in the Waves of the Sea, and in all the Earth. The Reverend John Arndius, in his Evangelical Postill, writes excellently on this Subject: " All " Things are full of God, and they live, " are,

* Col. i. 17. ‡ Pfal. civ. 29, 30.

† Heb. i. 3. Il Eccluf. xxiv. 3-9.

" are, and are moved in God, more than " in themselves. For as He hath by his " Word ordered and created all Things in " their Nature and Essence, so hath He " not withdrawn his Word and Virtue " out of them, as a Shoemaker does the " Last out of the Shoe he has made, but " hath left his Word in all Things, that " He may preserve and govern all Things, " impart to, and fustain them in their Nature and Effence; that thereby they may live, move, and encrease. We, and all created Things, are like a Sha-" dow, that receives its Motion from the " Body, or the Tree it relates to. The " Tree being in motion, the Shadow alfo " moves; in God we live, and move, and " have our Being, Acts xvii. 28. Where-" fore the Word of God, is the Spirit, " the Virtue and the Hand, in all living "Things, or it is the very Efficacy of " Life. Take away the Word, their Life " is gone, and they must of Necessity perish, Pjalm civ. 29, 30. Here there is need of a fublime Understanding, to know how all Things live in the Word, " by the Word, and from the Word, as St. " Paul tells the Romans, Chap. xi. 36. For " of Him, and through Him, and to Him " are all Things." And the same Author, Lib. IV. c. 6. concerning True Christianity, fays thus: " This Virtue and enlive-" ning

" ning Power of God, is that Word, by " which all Things were created. By the Word of the Lord, the Heavens were created, and all the Host of them by the Breath of his Mouth, Pf. xxxiii. 6. This Word which God spake, did not vanish away, " and was not a meer Sound only; but was the Life of all created Beings, remaining with them, and is that Power which " preserveth all Things; according to that " of St. Paul, Heb. i. 3. The Lord uphold-" eth all Things by the Word of his Power. " For as the Shadow depends upon the "Tree, so does our Life depend upon " God." Herein confifts the Foundation of all true Wisdom; so that whatsoever obtains the Name of Wisdom, is counterfeit and vain, unless it has Christ for its Foundation, as the Principle of all Life, and by whom all Things confift. Wherefore St. Paul having laid this Foundation in his Epistle to the Colospans, ch. i. ver. 15, 16, 17. admonishes them thus, chap. ii. 8. Beware left any Man spoil you through Philosophy and vain Deceit, after the Tradition of Men, after the Rudiments of the World, and not after Christ: and he subjoins the Cause; for in Him dwelleth all the Fulness of the Godhead bodily: and ye are complete in Him. Of so great moment is it, that in Christ Life is said to have been, to be, and always will be; and that that without Him all Things are dead: from which Doctrine, we must of necesfity come to the Knowledge of his fupernatural Glory. But as our natural Life has its Origin from the eternal Word of God, and is preserved by It alone, so (5.) the fame Word is also the Fountain and Beginning of spiritual Life: For we are all by the Fall of Adam liable to Death, as St. Paul expresly teaches, both in his Epistle to the Ephesians, chap. ii. and in that to the Colossians, chap. ii. Therefore Christ is not only the Way, by which we escape to Life, nor only the Truth in which we reach to it, but He is also the Life itself; or Life is so in Him, as John speaks, that He raises and revives from spiritual Death (Ephef. ii. 1.) yea, that He not only bestows Life, but also is Life itself, and remains in them who believe in Him. Hence St. Paul fays; * I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me : And, + To me to live is Christ. But altho' this spiritual Life is properly the true Life, and natural Life, being subject to Corruption, and a Curse, cannot be faid to be the true Life; but rather Man, confidered according to Nature, as the Son of Wrath, is alienated from the Life of God: ‡ Yet this spiritual and in itself truest Life, is hid with Christ in God, until Christ our Life shall be made manifest, and then also we being made manifest with Him, shall become glorious *. Wherefore (6.) also the Life of Glory is in Christ, I say, of eternal and infinite Glory, when Christ shall be glorified in his Saints, and come to be admired in all them that believe +. This Life is in the Son, as John declares. Therefore from all that has been faid, the Argument of this Section runs the more clearly thus. " He in whom as the eter-" nal Son of God, and the Creator of all "Things, is the Beginning of all natural " and spiritual Life, yea, the Life of fu-" ture Glory, and in whom all natural " and spiritual Life, as likewise the Life " of eternal Glory, does confift; He is " the true, effential, and the living God, " All these Things are most clearly de-" monstrated concerning Christ out of the " Holy Scriptures: Therefore Christ is the " true, effential, and living God.

* Gal. ii. 20. † Philipp. i. 21. ‡ Ephef. iv. 18.

SECT. LII.

The Fifth Argument.

" HE that is the Light of all Men, il-" luminating all Men, the true Light, in " respect of whom all created Light, even " Fohn

* Col. iii. 3, 4.

<sup>† 2</sup> Theff. i. 9, 10.

" John the Baptist (who otherwise was a " burning and a shining Light) ought to " be reputed as no Light at all, or as a " Shadow only; and who is the Origin of " Light, and the true Light of Life, with-" out whom all Things remain in Death " and Darkness: He, together with the " Father, is the true and effential God. " Christ is that Light, of which all these "Things are clearly expressed in Holy " Scripture: Therefore Christ, together " with the Father, is the true and effen-" tial God." The first Proposition likewife can't be denied: For altho' otherwife the word Light in the Holy Scriptures; is fometimes taken, not only for that Light, which God created on the first Day, and for the Light of the Sun and of the other Stars, as also for the natural Light of the Day, but also in a spiritual Signification, for Men divinely enlightned, especially for those whom God makes use of as Instruments for the Conversion and Illumination of many other Persons: yet the Description of Light abovemention'd, is fo framed, that it cannot possibly fuit with any Man, or Angel, or with any other created Being whatfoever. Yea, in these two Denominations of Life and Light, (if they be described after so fublime a manner, as Life is described in the former Argument, and Light in this) the whole whole Work of Redemption is founded, or all Mankind are deliver'd from Death and Darkness, and translated into the Kingdom of Life and Light. Which great Work, no created Being could by any means, much less by itself, possibly atchieve; as neither is it assigned to any created Thing in all the Holy Scriptures. Since therefore it most evidently appears, that Christ is that Light which illuminates all Men, and from which all other Light is deriv'd, as from its Fountain, and which translates from the Darkness of Death into the Light of eternal Life, and does all this by itself; the Conclusion remains firm, that Christ, together with the Father, is the true and effential God. Now here St. John witnesses concerning Christ, that He is the Light of Men; and he explains himself by faying, that this Light illuminates all Men: (Joh. i. 9.) Nay, he does not fimply affirm of Christ, that He is the Light of Men, but after he had described his Eternity, his true Godbead, and his Omnipotence in the Work of the Creation, and from this last Attribute especially, had propounded Him as the Origin of Life; he adds, with a wonderful and holy Emphasis, And the Life was the Light of Men, (Joh. i. 4.) By which he teaches, that Christ as the Light in was then prefent in the Beginning, and as foon K 2 as Men were made, (and so before the Fall) he was the Light of Men. And when this Light (Christ) seem'd to have disappeared after the Fall, yet nevertheless this Light still shineth (palves) in the Darkness, altho' the Darkness comprehend it not. This sublime Predicate by the Word Light, obtains now a higher and more excellent Signification, than it carries with it in many Places of the Holy Scriptures. For Things created are indeed called Lights; but where is it said of Man, or of any other created Being, that in it is Life, and that this Life is the Light of Men, which shined in them before the Fall, and that after the Fall it remained always the same, and of itself immutable; that it shines, tho' the Darkness comprehend it not: the Light of Men before the Fall, and a Light illuminating them again, and rescuing them out of Darkness after the Fall? We may from thence draw fuch a Conclution, as St. Paul * does in arguing the fame way, when he would make known the Divine Glory of Christ from hence, that God in all the Holy Scripture is never faid to have spoken fo to any Angel, as he spake to Christ. (Pfal. ii. 7.) wherefore this Expression of St. John now mention'd, clearly imports, that Christ is also the Origin of all all Light. For as it naturally follows from his Power of creating, that in Him is not only Life, but the Principle of Life; so from the same Power, it no less naturally follows, that He is not only Light, but also the Principle of Light: from whence also 'tis attributed to Him, as the Origin of Light, that, he illuminates all Men. And tho' it might have been sufficient for St. John to have testify'd fo plainly and clearly of Christ as the Eternal Light, the Source of all Light, the vivifying Light, and the illuminating Life; yet we find, it was his chief Concern, after he had once called Christ the Life and the Light of Men, to describe this Light more fully, that it might be understood in so sublime a Sense, as cannot be referr'd to any created Thing. Therefore in the first Place he alledges John the Baptist, who appeared fo great a Light among the People of the Jews, that there went out to Him Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the Region round about Jordan; and were baptized of Him in Jordan, confessing their Sins *. Nay, that not only the People thought highly of Him, fo that even the Scribes and Pharifees were afraid to fay that his Baptism was of Men +; but that also Christ himself called him Noxer, a K 3 Light,

Light, and indeed with a great and fingular Emphasis, a burning and a shining Light, (Joh. v. 35.) Moreover, it deserves well to be minded, that a long time after our Saviour's Resurrection, the Effusion of the Holy Ghoft, and the first Publication of the Gofpel, there were many Persons, who were taught only the Baptism of John, so that Apollos himself, an eloquent Man, mighty in the Scriptures, and also fervent in the Spirit; who spake and taught diligently (uneisos, accurate, accurately) the Things of the Lord, is faid to have known only the Baptism of John*: In like manner St. Paul at Ephefus, + found certain Disciples, who had not so much as heard, whether there were any Holy Ghoft, being baptized unto John's Baptism. Which fingular Circumstances, and many others, may teach us how great, and how excellent a Light John the Baptist was, and that his Reputation among the People, (who would have had Him for their Meffiah, which he altogether declined) did not expire with his || Life. Whence it may more easily be understood, what Motive occasion'd the Evangelist so industrioully to name John the Buptift, and to give Him his due Praise; yet so to circumscribe it, that thereby there should be no Derogation to the Glory of Christ: For of Him (viz. John the Baptist) tho' otherwise a great Light, he absolutely denies that He was that Light, but that be only bore witness of that Light. For it had by no means been fufficient to have faid here, that Christ was a greater Light than John: but in this lay the Stress of the whole Matter; who is the Light of Life, the Origin of Light, the true Light of the World, that Light, without which all other Persons, and even John himself, tho' in some respects called Lights, are meer Darkness; sobo, I say, is this Light, which delivers from Death and Darkness; the faving, vivifying and eternal Light? Wherefore he fimply fays, that John was not that Light; which he could not have faid, unless it had been his Intention to thew that he spake in this Place of Light, in a much more sublime Sense, than could be applied to any created Being. Nor thought he it sufficient to say, that John was not that Light, but shews that the whole Bufiness and Office of John, was only by his Life and Doctrine to bear witness of that Light, and to point out as it were with his Fingers that Light, by which every mortal Man must be illuminated and enliven'd; which Power could neither be expected from him, nor from any other Creature. Nor does the Evangelist stop K 4 here.

* Alls xviii. 24, 25. + Alls Matt. xi. Job. iii.

here, but adds, that Christ is that true Light, which illuminates every Man, (Joh. i. 9.) But it may be asked, Was John then not a true, but a false Light? or, was that Light which God created on the first Day not a true Light? It was without all Doubt: therefore in this Place, the Word ann Sirdy, [true] ver. 9. ascribed unto Christ, is to be received in a more sublime and excellent Sense; as He is called the true Bread, which came down from Heaven, and giveth Life to the World, that whofoever believeth in Him should not die; whence also He is said to be the living Bread, and to be Meat indeed, and Drink indeed *; as He is also called the true Vine +: and fo in many other Examples. For Christ is the Truth itself ‡, and in Him is the Fulness of Truth ||. Nay, by those Words which we now chiefly consider, St. John explains himself, why he calls Christ the true Light, viz. because He illuminates every Man; which cannot be faid of any other Light, howfoever in its kind It be not a false, but a true Light. But in all these Places, the Evangelist makes this Difference between Christ as the true Light, and John, or any other Light, that Christ, as the true Light, illuminates Men of himself, or infuses Light into

* John vi. 32, 33, 50, 51, 55. † John xv. 1. ‡ John xiv. 6.

of all the Holy Scriptures. 137

into their Minds, or kindles and excites it in them, which cannot be affirmed of any other Light, or of any created Thing. For that Reason he had said before, * In Him was Life, and the Life was the Light of Men. Therefore as He bath Life in himself, so likewise bath He Light in himfelf; and as He can give Life to whom He will, so He can illuminate whom He will: By which Expressions there are no Limits fet to his universal Love, but his Glory is extolled. And as He is faid by bimfelf to have purged our Sins +, (which is a mighty Testimony of his Divine Glory) fo He may be faid no less truly, and from the same Principle, to illuminate Men by Himself. But concerning those who are meer Men, St. Paul speaks plainly otherwise; saying, +God, who hath faid, that Light should shine out of Darkness, is he who hath shined in our Hearts, to give the Light of the Knowledge of the Glory of God, in the Face of Jefus Christ. As in like manner Job saith, || He puts Light in his Angels. Hence therefore it farther appears, that Christ is called Light, by no way that can agree with Things created, but that He is the eternal and effential Life, and the faving Light; and fo that this Appellation, as it is given to Him by St.

* John v. 21. † 2 Cor. iv. 6.

St. John, cannot possibly be assign'd to any other, but only to the true, eternal, and essential God. But the St. John may feem abundantly to have shewn in how fublime a Sense he called Christ the Light, and that hereby he distinguishes Him from all created Beings; yet advancing farther, he makes this Matter still more evident: for he fays of Christ, as the true Light, enlightning every Man, That this Light (as the comparing of the whole Context in Greek, and of other Places, especially Job. iii. 19. and chap. xii. 46. fo requires) came into this World, to wit, as the Light of the World, * to enlighten and fave it, or rescue it from Death and eternal Destruction, + to which it is subject. As afterwards it is faid, He came es ra ista, ad fua, ‡ unto his own, that is, the House of Ifrael. Therefore, altho' this Doctrine that He came into the World as the Light. of the World, be so expressed, as that his Divine Glory ought thence to be acknowledg'd, yet because some may perhaps wrest these Words contrary to the Mind of St. John, and falfly conclude from them, As if when Christ came into the World, He himself began Then to exist; he therefore prefently fubjoins, He was in the World; and by always adhering to the word Light, he most

* John viii. 12.

of all the Holy Scriptures. 139

most clearly affirms concerning Christ, that He did not Then begin to be the Light of the World when He came into it, but that He was the Light of the World before He came into the World; which cannot be afferted of a meer Man, or of any created Thing. For John hereby plainly teaches, that Christ is the Eternal Light, (even as He is the Eternal Life. * And this Life (viz. this Eternal Life) was also the Light of Men, and was in the World;) by which Words there is a clear Testimony given to the true God-bead of Christ. Moreover, he adds, and the World was made by Him, (Joh. i. 10.) And thus again he uses the word Light, and calls this Light the Maker of the World, as he had before faid of the Word, that all Things were made by Him: And when he subjoins, but the World knew Him not, he manifestly uses the same Complaint which the Prophets often made, that mortal Men would not acknowledge their Creator and Preserver. Thus, among others, Isaiah begins his Prophecy; ch. i. 2, 3. Hear, O Heavens, and give Ear, O Earth, for the Lord bath spoken; I bave nourished and brought up Children, and they have rebelled against me! The Ox knoweth his Owner, and the Ass his Master's Crib: but Israel doth not know, my People doth not consider. Pray, who can turn his Thoughts in any measure to the Confideration of these Things, and not prefently perceive how powerful an Argument of the Divine Glory of Jefus Christ is to be found in the Words of St. John, when he fays; The World was made by Him, but the World knew Him not? But as John attributes to Christ, as the Eternal Light, the Creation of the World, and confequently Omnipotence; fo Paul represents Christ, as the Word of God, and attributes to him Omniscience, as to the effential and eternal Light, glittering and shining every where, even in Darkness, and fays, that He is a Discerner of the Thoughts and Intents of the Heart. Neither is there any Creature that is not manifest in his Sight: but all Things are naked and open to the Eyes of Him*. Which Affertion cannot be used of the written Word; and therefore he adds, with whom (to wit, Christ, the eternal Word of God) we have to do. Therefore when Christ is faid to be the Light, his Omniscience is thereby comprehended, (which also his Disciples acknowledged, and professed to be in Him; which Christ would not have fuffered them to do, if it had been an Error in them: fee Joh. ii. 24, 25. chap. vi. 64. and xvi. 30. See also a most clear Tefti-Testimony of his Omniscience, in Rev. ii. 18, 19. where the Son of God speaking, ver. 23. fays, that He is the Searcher of the Reins and the Hearts, which in all the Holy Scriptures is wont to be alledged as the peculiar and chief Property of God +). This again is a most evident Testimony of his true and effential Godhead. Wherefore also St. Paul, in the Place now alledged out of his Epistle to the Hebrews, diftinguishes Him from all created Beings, nay, he puts all Things that are created before his All-feeing Eye as their Creator, who throughly inspects all Things. Who dares affirm this of any Thing that is created? But if any one will here confult the Collation above made of the Words of St. John, with other Places of the Old and New Testament, he will be fo much the more convinc'd of the truly Divine Glory of our Lord fesus Christ, and will thereby the more readily obey Him, who cries out, and says; He that believeth on me, believeth not on me (only) but on Him that sent me. And he that seeth me, seeth Him that sent me. I am come a Light into the World, that wholeever believeth on me should not abide in Darkness *. And I am the Light of the World: he that followeth me, shall not walk walk in Darkness, but shall have the Light of Life *: which Words cannot be understood, but of the Origin of Life and Light, and consequently of the true and essential Godhead of Jesus Christ our Lord.

† Psal. vii. 9. Psal. exxxix. tot. Jer. xi. 20. chap. xii. 3. * John xii. 44, 45, 46.

SECT. LIII.

The Sixth Argument.

" HE, of whom St. John, and with him all the Servants of God, in the " Old and New Testament, unanimously " testify, that all Men ought to believe " in Him, and that after so excellent a manner, as no other Thing can be " believed in without the most heinous " Crime of Idolatry; fince the Faith " required to be in Him, comprehends " all the Duties, which are to be per-" form'd to the living God alone: He, I " fay, is with the Father, the true, the " living and effential God. But in Christ " fuch a Faith is required: Therefore " Christ is with the Father the true, the " living, and essential God." The major Proposition is without all Doubt and Controversy; for God cannot be repugnant to himself: and fince in his Word he names the Crime of Idolatry among the most grievous and detestable Sins, it cannot reafonably

* John viii. 12.

of all the Holy Scriptures. 143

fonably be imagin'd that all his Servants and Witnesses, sent and instructed with Evidence by himfelf, should set up and unanimously establish the superstitious Worship of any created Thing. Therefore in the major Proposition it is only to be observ'd, that there is no Question here, whether Faith is to be given to a Man, or to a created Being; or whether 'tis not fo far lawful to believe in any of God's Messengers, that one may receive their Words as true, and use them for Doctrine, Reproof, Correction, and Comfort. For every one already knows, that this Faith is rather commanded by God; and therefore 'tis not to be looked on as Idolatry, if in obeying the Divine Command, we believe the true Prophets of God, and the Servants fent by Him: Nay, God will not suffer him to go unpunish'd, who refuses to do this. Therefore in the major Proposition it is most clearly shewn, what Faith is required, to wit, fuch a Faith as is not to be given to any created Thing, without the Crime of Idolatry, and which comprehends all the Duties which are to be paid to God alone. When therefore it is evident, that such a Faith in Christ is required in the Holy Scriptures, certainly it cannot be, that any Man should conclude otherwise, than that Christ, being of the same Essence with the Father, is to be honoured and adored with the fame Worship. This is therefore what is now to be demonstrated;

That we ought to believe in Christ; This Belief all the Holy Scriptures inculcate:

But Christ calls Men to Himself, the Apostles in like manner exhort them to have Faith in Him alone:

But the whole Scripture requires, That we should so believe in Christ, As to live and die to Him alone:

That we commit our Souls unto Him; That for his fake we renounce all Things;

That we love Him above all Things; That we place our Trust in Him, as in God himself;

That we devote our whole Heart unto

That we ferve Him in Righteoufness, Peace, and Joy through the Holy Ghost:

That we worship Him in like manner as the Father:

That we be baptized into Him, as well as into the Father:

That by his Power we believe, by his Operation we be born again, and by his Gift be illuminated with the Holy Spirit, and preserved in the true Faith:

That we acknowledge Him to be the Creator and Restorer of all Things:

And

And lastly, that we honour Him, as He who gives Men Life, who appoints them to die, and who raises them from Death by his own Power, either to give them eternal Life, or to punish them with eternal Damnation.

1. That all the Holy Scriptures inculcate upon Men this Faith in Christ.

In the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, (ver. 7.) it is said of John the Baptist; He came for a Witness; that is, to bear witness of the Light, that all Men through bim might believe : And ver. 12. John fays, But as many as received Him, to them gave he Power to become the Sons of God, even to them that believe on his Name. From hence therefore it appears, wherein the chief Business, and Scope of St. John's whole Office did confift; to wit, that all should believe in Christ the Son of God: which was likewise the principal Employment of Moses, and of all the Prophets after him. St. Paul well explains this of John the Baptist, saying, * John verily baptized with the Baptism of Repentance, faying unto the People, That they should believe on Him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus. When they heard this, (or the Words of John, re-commending them to Christ) they were L baptized baptized in the Name of the Lord Jesus. Likewise the Holy Scriptures testify of Moses *, that he had no other Design, but to recommend Faith in Christ, Rom. x. 4. where Christ is celebrated as in tino, the End of Moses, and of the Law. Moreover, all those Passages concerning Christ in the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, refer us (as we have feen above) to the Writings of Moses: And that the rest of the Prophets and Servants of God, made this also their principal Bufiness, and the very End of their Office, is sufficiently understood from our former Collation of the Words of St. John with other Places of Holy Scripture. Therefore St. Peter faith, Acts x. 43. To Him (to Jefus) give all the Prophets witness, that through his Name who soever believeth in Him, shall receive Remission of Sins.

* Ads xix. 4. 5.

2. That Christ sends not Men to any other, but calls them to Himfelf.

Whereas all the Prophets and Apostles in the Old and New Testament, remit Men to another, viz. Christ; Christ does not send them to any other, but calls Men to himself, requiring from them Faith in himself, as may be seen, among others, from the following Testimonies: God so loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son; that whosever believeth in Himself.

<sup>* 2</sup> Cor. iii. 14. Joh. v. 46, 47. Luke xxiv. 27,44,45.

should not perish, but have everlasting Life *. I am the Bread of Life: he that cometh to me shall never bunger; and be that believeth on me, shall never thirst +. If any Man thirst, let bim come unto me, and drink. He that believeth on me, as the Scripture bath said, out of his Belly shall flow Rivers of living Water ‡. Jesus faid to the Man born blind, Dost thou believe on the Son of God? He answered and faid, Who is be, Lord, that I might believe on him? And Jesus said unto him, Thou haft both feen him, and it is he that talketh with thee. And he said, Lord, I believe: and he worshipped Him ||. Jesus faith moreover : I am the Refurrection and the Life: He that believeth in me, tho' he were dead, yet shall be live. And whosoever liveth, and believeth in me, shall never die **. While ye have Light, believe in the Light, that ye may be the Children of Light ++. And, ## He that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on Him that fent me. And he that feeth me, feeth him that fent me. I am come a Light into the World, that who foever believeth on me should not abide in Darkness. And, | Ye believe in God, believe also in me. And, +* I am the L 2

* Job. iii. 16. † Chap. vi. 35. ‡ Chap. vii. 37,38. || Chap. ix. 35-38. ** Chap. xi. 25, 26. †† Chap. xii. 36. ‡‡ Id. ib. 44, 45, 46. || Chap. xiv. 1. †* Chap. xiv. 6.

the Way, the Truth, and the Life: No Man cometh unto the Father, but by me. * Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the very Works fake. Verily, verily I fay unto you, be that believeth on me, the Works that I do, shall be do also, and greater Works than these shall be do, because I go to my Father. From these, and other Places, in which, as we faid, Christ doth not remit us to any other, but fimply requires that we should believe in Himfelf, there is not only manifestly a vast Difference between Christ and all the Servants of God; but it appears also from thence, that Christ speaks not after a vulgar manner, concerning the placing of our Faith in Himfelf, but expresses it usually in such a way, that every intelligent Person may easily perceive it is not lawful for any created Being, how high foever, to arrogate any fuch Thing to himself; nor is it likely, if He did make this Claim, that He should obtain fuch Testimony from the Heavenly Father, as to require us to hearken to Him. Wherefore the Yews mistaking Christ for a meer Man, often interpreted his Difcourses for Blasphemies, and for that Caufe endeavoured to stone Him: And certainly they would have been look'd on as Blasphemies, had they been spoken by bare bare Man, or meer created Being. This is to be well and diligently noted, because hence it clearly appears, that it will be no Objection to fay here, that the Jews were also required to believe in Moses and the Prophets *; yet 'twill not from thence follow, that these were any other than meer Men. We further recommend to fuch, as, in the Fear of God, defire to examine the Holy Scriptures in their Original Language, attentively to confider, (1.) that St. John the Evangelist no where uses this Phrase, moiven de nva, credere in quem, to believe in One, but when the Discourse is of God or Christ. (2.) That he is wont to use that other Phrase, mistues mi, credere cui, to believe One, fometimes of God and Christ, and sometimes of Things created. Wherein 'tis to be obferved, (3.) That when Christ commands Men to believe Him, (fibi) (and does it in the Dative Case +) He does not then any way deny, that they ought to believe in Him, but requires only in those Places, that at least Faith ought to be given to his Words, as to the Words of a Prophet: Both are therefore suitable to Christ, that we believe in Him as God, and that we believe Him as a Prophet. (4.) 'Tis plain from the Gospel of St. John, that the L 3 Feros

* Joh. xiv. 11, 12.

<sup>* 2</sup> Chron. xx. 20. † Joh. v. 24, 38, 46. ch. viii. 45, 46.

Yeres well understood, * that He must be God in whom they were to believe. For when Christ had faid, This is the Work of God, that ye believe on Him whom he hath fent; the Jews answer'd, What Sign shewest thou then, that we may see and believe thee? Whereby they fignified, that they did not fo much as believe Him and his Words, so far were they from perfwading themselves to believe in Him. But Christ, not regarding this Answer, constantly urges in the following Verses, 35, 40, and 47. that it was their Duty to believe in Him. (5.) The Jews, who began to believe in Christ, + but had not yet attained to a firm and full Faith, are remarkably for this Reason only said to believe Him, (moms eunoms aims) ver. 21. which shews, that Faith in Christ Jesus includes in it a full Trust and Perseverance in his Word. (6.) The Pharifees faid to the Officers, # Have any of the Rulers, or the Pharisees believed on Him? By which Words they declare, that from the Answer of the Officers, [never Man spake like this Man, Joh. vii. 46.] They did infer that they (i.e. the Officers) acknowledged Jefus for the Messiab sent from God, and so believed in Him, (as is faid also of some of their | Rulers:) Which Honour they would would by no means permit should be given to Jesus. (7.) When it was inquir'd concerning John the Baptist, why the Scribes and Pharifees would not receive Him as a Prophet; Three of the Evangelists * speak not otherwise of this Matter, but in the Dative Case, saying; Quare non credidiftis ei? Why did you not believe Him? (8.) 'Tis remarkable, that the Phrase moissen die Bedr, to believe in God, in the Books of the New Testament, especially in those of St. Paul, has a respect to the Faith of Abraham, as he was the Father of all the Faithful; of whom it is faid, האמין ביהוה credidit in Jehovam, [vel in Jehova] He believed in the Lord, (Gen. xv. 6.) (that is, by his Faith he acquiesc'd as it were in Him) which way of speaking is afterwards often used in the Writings of the Old Testament. From these and other like Observations, 'tis evident, the Divine Glory in Christ was held as a Fundamental, when St. John, and other Servants of God fay concerning Him, in the Holy Scriptures, that we ought to believe in Him, or in his Name, as is affirm'd of those who had received Him, and thereby had obtain'd Power to become the Sons of God +. 'Tis to be confider'd also on this whole Subject, that Christ does not remit L4 remit Men to any other, in whom they ought to believe, (as the Prophets remitted them to Christ) but simply directed their Faith in Himself, without any Difference between their believing in Him, or in the Father. Nay, He not only requires, (as was above observ'd) and as other Prophets did, that his Words should be believed. and he himself receiv'd for a True Prophet; but exhibits Himfelf as the Saviour of the whole World, as the Life, as the Refurrection, nay, as He in whom we ought not only to believe, but whom we ought also to bonour and adore with Divine Wor-(bip. Now did ever any of the Prophets, or Servants of God act thus? Or, how could this be done by any created Being, without the Guilt of Idolatry? Pray what should we think, if any Man should appear before us, and fay, I am the Refurrection; I am Life Eternal; I am the Truth, &c.? or if any mortal Man should fuffer himself to be adored with Divine Worship? But all these Things will appear still more plain, from the following Confiderations.

* Job. vi. 29, 30, seqq. ‡ Job. vii. 48.

† Joh. viii. 30.

* Matt. xxi. 25, 32. Mark xi. 31. Luke xx. 5. + Job. i. 12.

3. That the Apostles have required the fame Faith in Christ our Lord.

The Apostles, with one Mind and with one Mouth, required this same Faith in the Lord Jefus. In the AEIs of the Apoltles.

tles, * The Keeper of the Prison said to Paul and Silas, Sirs, what must I do to be saved? And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved and thy House. Nor does this want any Demonstration; for'tis manifest, the whole Office of the Apostles was to publish the Name of the Lord Jesus to every Creature under Heaven, and so to refer all Men to Faith in the Lord Jesus †. Nay, they did not rest in this, that they should remit Men to Christ, but powerfully also shew'd, as was said above, that all the Prophets gave Testimony to this Jesus: and not only gave Testimony, but also constantly affirmed, that whoever believed on Him, should receive Remission of Sins through his Name ‡. And St. Paul faith, We preach not our felves, but Christ Jesus the Lord, and our selves your Servants for Jesus sake ||. Now let any Man judge what kind of Faith in our Lord Jesus the Apostles require, and confider whether fuch a Faith can possibly be placed in any created Being, without the Guilt of Idolatry. Wherefore the Divine Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, is most powerfully demonstrated by this, that all Men, as St. John speaks in the Beginning of his Gospel, ought to believe in Him;

nor

nor is any thing more requir'd to a full Conviction of the Mind, that this Argument is unanswerable; than that those Places of the Old and New Testament, where Faith in Christ is required, should be diligently searched out and examin'd.

4. That this whole Faith confifts of fuch Particulars, as are not to be attributed to any created Being.

But that all Contradiction may be entirely removed, the Reason of the Faith that is required in the Lord Jesus shall be now particularly confider'd: We shall eafily understand, that such a Faith cannot be lodg'd in any created Thing, without the Sin of Idolatry. For all those Arguments, which have been fo clearly propos'd to us hitherto out of the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, are a Foundation for this Doctrine; when he declares that the Scope of the Testimony of John the Baptist was, that all Men should believe. But what were they to believe? The same Evangelist shews it, Ch. xx. 31. viz. That Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that Believing they might have Life through his Name. I fay, what were they to believe? That which John had ascertain'd in the very Beginning of his Gospel, to wit, that the same Jesus, of whom John the Baptist witnessed, the Eternal Word of God, by whom all Things, according to Moses, were made, is the Life and the Light of Men. Can you now imagine, that fuch a Faith can be placed in any created Being?

5. That Faith is to be given to Christ, not as a Minister, but as the Lord of our Salvation.

All the Holy Scriptures demonstrate, that Faith is to be placed in Christ, not as a Minister, but as the Lord of our Salvation, as He, who not only publishes Salvation, but does Himself give and confer it. Therefore John is called his Forerunner, who was not to go before a Man, or any other of God's Servants, but before the Lord himself *. And lest any one should object, that in Luke i. 76. the Words are concerning the Lord, and not God, let him read the whole xlth Chapter of Isaiah, and see with his Eyes, that this Lord, whose Pracurfor [Fore-runner] John was to be, is called, not once, but often, Jebovah, that is, the effential and by himfelf fubfifting God. This is He, of whom it is said in Malachi, + Behold, I will send my Messenger, and be shall prepare the Way before me. The Holy Scripture also is wont commonly to express the Word יהוה Jehovah, [Lord] in Greek by the Word Kie. But that we may rightly perceive, what the Apostles of our Lord understood, when they called Christ the Lord, St. Paul explains it, * faying, To us there is one Lord Jefus Christ, by whom are all Things, and we by Him: Now could this be faid of any created Being? We have already most evidently demonstrated the contrary. Likewise the Testimonies we have now alledg'd teach, that Faith is required in Christ as in a Saviour, who can indeed rescue us from Death and Destruction, who can enlighten us with the Light of Life, translate us into an eternal Communion with God, nay, can raise all Men whatsoever from the Dead; wherefore He is called ding. the + Author of eternal Salvation. Now may we not wonder, and stand amazed, that any can be fo rash, as to attribute all these great Things to a Being, that is itfelf created?

* Luke i. 76.

6. That we are commanded to live and die to Christ, is likewise an Evidence of his Divinity.

Further let us consider, that Faith in Christ, according to the Scriptures, comprehends in it, that we must live and die to Him ‡. Now can this be perform'd without Idolatry to any created Thing, between whom, and the Almighty Maker of Hea-

* 1 Cor. viii. 6. † Heb. v. 9. ‡ 2 Cor. v. 15. Rom. xiv. 7, 8, 9. Phil. i. 21. Gal. ii. 20.

of all the Holy Scriptures. 157

Heaven and Earth, there is so vast a Difference? To whom should we live, and to whom should we die, but to Him, who gave us our Life, and who, as our Creator, has the Right and the Power to deprive us of it?

7. What is fignified by those Expres-fions.

As Faith in Christ requires that we should live and die to Him, so the Holy Scripture explains to us, how this is to be understood, both by clear Declarations, and by remarkable Examples. For not only St. Paul, * in the afore cited Place, fays; The Life which I now live in the Flesh, I live by the Faith of the Son of God; (which certainly is spoken after such a manner, as can by no means be reconciled with that Faith which a Man shall place in any created Thing, without the Sin of Idolatry:) but the Example of St. Stephen also teaches, that, as Jesus Christ commended his Spirit into the Hands of his Heavenly Father, fo He, worshipping the Lord Jesus, said; Lord Jesus receive my Spirit +. Does not St. Peter fay, ‡ Let them that fuffer according to the Will of God, commit the Keeping of their Souls to Him in well-doing, as unto a faithful Creator: Therefore how can it be thought lawful lawful for a Man to commend his Soul to One who is not the Creator, without the Sin of Idolatry? Is not therefore the Divine Glory of our Lord Jefus Christ, most effectually again demonstrated by this Argument?

* Gal. ii. 20. ‡ 1 Epilt. iv. 19.

8. That our Duty to renounce all Things for Christ's fake, gives Testimony also of his Divine Glory.

Moreover, Faith in Christ requires, that we should renounce all Things, even Life itself, for his sake. Concerning this, see clear Testimonies of Scripture *; not to mention the Apostles of our Lord, who confirm the same every where in their Epistles, in the clearest and plainest Words. But where did ever any Servant of God require, in the Old or New Testament, fuch Renunciation for his own fake, and teach Men that, forfaking Father and Mother, and their own Lives, they should adhere to Him with their whole Heart? Mojes heretofore spake of Levi; + Let thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy Holy One, whom thou didft prove at Majfab, and with whom thou didst strive at the Waters of Meribah. Who faid unto his Father and to his Mother, I have not feen him, neither did he acknowledge his Brethren, nor know his own Children: for they they have observed thy Word, and kept thy Covenant. They shall teach Jacob thy Judgments, and Israel thy Law. In which Place Moses likewise teaches and requires a forsaking of all Things, and that as a necessary Part of a true Levite, out of whose Mouth the Law was to be sought: But he by no means directs such a Renunciation for his own sake, which yet Christ did for his, and by that very thing consirm'd his Divine Glory and Majesty. And truly, that no created Thing, how extraordinary and excellent soever, could require such a Renunciation to be made for his own sake, will still further appear from the following Considerations.

* Matt. x. 37, 38, 39. Luke xiv. 16, &c. chap. xvii. 33. John xi. 25. † Deut. xxxiii. 8, 9.

9. That Christ is to be loved above all Things, is also a Testimony of his Divinity.

For from that entire Renunciation which Christ requires for his own sake, it follows of course, that He is to be loved above all Things, if at the same time our Faith in Him be sincere. For He himself expressly says, * He that loveth Father or Mother more than me, is not worthy of me, &c. And St. Paul says, † If any Man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be Anathema, i.e. accursed and abominable, and let him be shut out from Communion with God; and he adds, Maranatha,

i. e.

* Matt. x. 37.

i. e. The Lord cometh; viz. to Judgment, to execute Sentence against him who loves not the Lord Jejus: and in this manner, the Love of Christ is every where extolled above all Things. Now would it not be manifest Idolatry in any one, to magnify a Creature above all Things? Certainly, the first and great Precept in the Law is, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy Heart, and with all thy Soul, and with all thy Mind*. Now as it plainly appears from the Testimonies before cited, that we ought to love Christ with all our Heart, and with all our Soul. and with all our Mind; how then can it be lawful for us to esteem Him a meerly created Being? The fecond Commandment, fays Christ, is like unto this; Thou shalt love thy Neighbour as thy self. But now he requires that we should love Him (Christ) more than our Neighbour, yea, than our felves, and our own Life; and fubjoins, he that does not this, is not worthy of Him. Wherefore, 'tis necessary we should know from hence, that the Love of Christ relates to the first Table of the Decalogue, and that the Son of God, Yefus Christ, is equal to God his Heavenly Father in Divine Majesty and Glory.

10. The

* Matt. xxii. 37, 39. Luke x. 27. Deut. vi. 5.

10. The Obligation of putting our Trust in Christ, as in God himself; is an Indication likewise of his Divine Glory.

Faith in Christ, in like manner, requires that we should place a solid and full Trust in Him. For we do not read in any Place of Scripture, that the Trust to be repos'd in Him, is to be circumscrib'd with any Limitations; but rather it is manifest, both from the Old and New Testament, that a full and absolute Trust, as we faid, ought to be placed in Christ, after the fame manner as in the living God. Thus it is written in Isaiah; * I have fworn by my felf: the Word is gone out of my Mouth in Righteousness, and shall not return, that unto me every Knee shall bow, every Tongue shall swear. Surely, shall one fay, in the Lord have I Righteoufness and Strength: even to Him shall Men come, and all that are incensed against Him shall be ashamed. That Christ here speaks in Isaiab the Prophet, no Man that calls himself a Christian should in the least doubt of, when he confiders that thefe Words are by St. Paul + expounded concerning Christ; not to infift, that the same may be understood from the Old Testament itself: fince this is the Name of Christ, by which He shall be called, The Lord our Righteoufness, Jer. xxiii. 6. Since there-

* Chap. xlv. 23, 24. † Rom. xiv. 10, 11. Phil. ii. 10.

therefore God in his Word, has fo great a Regard for his own Glory, and so often execrates those, who place their Trust and Confidence in Man, and make Flesh their Arm; * how could it be, that all the Holy Scriptures should constantly inculcate to us, that we ought to place all our Hope and Confidence in Christ; and that not only in the Necessities of the Body, but especially in those of the Soul +, and in short, in all Things where none but the eternal and living God can administer Help to us? to wit, because Christ re-deems and delivers us from Sin, from Death, the Devil and Hell. Was it lawful for the Children of Israel, even in outward Distresses, to confide in Moses, Joshua, or any other Deliverer, given to them for a Type? Were they not most strictly, and almost continually called off from putting their Trust in Men, and instructed and requir'd to place their Confidence only in the Lord? And this was indeed then, and is at all Times most neceffary; because human Nature labouring under so great Corruption, is inclin'd to nothing more, than fuch kind of Idolatry towards Men, and repofing that Affiance in the Creature, which is due to God alone. What therefore is more evident, than that it would be a most grievous Sin against * Jer. xvii. 5, 6. Pfalm exviii. 8, 9. + 1 Cor. xv. 19. Phil. i. 19, 21.

the first Commandment in the Decalogue, to place our Trust in Christ, which we are commanded to do plainly, and without any Limitation, in all our Necessities of Body and Soul, if Christ were not of the same Essence, Majesty and Glory with the Father? Nay, in this the true Effence of Faith confifts, that it entirely abandons all Trust and Confidence in Things created, and relies not on any Thing visible or invisible, present or future; but flies for Succour to Him, who is above all created Beings, and of infinite Omniscience, whereby He can truly know and understand all our Necessities; * Omnipotence, That no Calamity can be so great, from which He is not able to deliver us; Love, + that He is always ready to affift us; ‡ and if these high and divine Properties belong not to Christ, Faith in Him is only a meer Shadow, Fallacy and Delution: nay, if those Properties were wanting in Him, that great, full, and unlimited Trust, which the Holy Writings claim for Him, would occasion thereby gross Idolatry. For which Reason, doubtless, the Scriptures make mention of those divine Properties, when they exhort us to Faith M 2

† John x. 29, 30. 2 Cor. i. 9, 10. Phil. iv. 13.

Luke xii. 32. Rom. viii. 37.

* As it is written of the Father, Mast. vi. 32. of the Son of God, Rev. ii. 2, 9, 13, 19, 23. chap. iii. 1, 8, 15. and of the Hely Ghost, Rom. viii. 26, 27.

Faith and Trust in Christ: as St. Paul does of his Omnipotence, saying; Our Conversation is in Heaven, from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile Body, that it may be fashion'd like unto his glorious Body, according to the Working whereby He is able even to subdue all Things unto himself *.

our Hearts unto Christ, is another Argument to confirm this Affertion.

Moreover, 'tis most certain, and without Controverfy, that we ought not to devote our Heart unto any created Thing. When therefore the Scripture fays, + My Son, give me thy Heart; we easily understand God is there meant, because He defires to possess the whole Soul, and that nothing else should deprive Him of it. But now St. Paul shews, ‡ that Christ dwells in our Hearts by Faith: And 'tis plain from the whole Context, that by these Words He has respect to the Tabernacle and Temple of the Old Testament, and that He would have our Hearts to be fuch Tabernacles, Temples and Habitations, in which the Glory of the Lord, that is Christ, might make his Abode. But are not our Hearts to be the Temple and Habitation of God | ? Consider what our Sani-

* Phil. iii. 20. † Prov. xxiii. 26. ‡ Eph. iii. 17. | 1 Cor. iii. 16. chap. vi. 19. 2 Cor. vi. 16.

Saviour fays on this Subject; If a Man love me, he will keep my Words, and my Father will love him; and we will come unto him, (i.e. my Father and I) and make our Abode with him +. Is not this a most clear Testimony of the Divine Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ?

12. A farther Confirmation hereof is, That we are to ferve Christ, in Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost. Nor does Faith in Christ less require that we should serve Him; and that in Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost t. But is it lawful to ferve any created Being, besides God? Does not Christ himself say, || Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and (N. B.) Him only shalt thou serve: And, ** No Man can serve two Masters. If you say you can ferve two Mafters, provided they are not repugnant, but fubordinate to one another; that Objection will here be of no force: for we find it fet down in clear Words; The Kingdom of God is Righte-oufnefs, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghoft, Rom. xiv. 17. This is no other Thing, than to ferve Him in Spirit and in Truth; to furrender up our felves to Him with our whole Heart, and to direct to Him the internal Worship required in M 3 the

f John xiv. 23.

† Rom. xiv. 17.

the New Testament, in the Power of the Holy Ghost? And who can sufficiently express what it is to serve One in Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost? This is also appointed in such a manner, that it cannot, nor ought ever to be attributed to any Thing that is created; being that in which the real Dignity of God properly consists, which He suffers not to be taken from him.

13. That the Honour of Religious Worship to be performed to Christ, is also an Attestation of his Divine Glory.

Faith in Christ, requires also that we should worship Him. For we read, Joh. ix. 35, 38. that Christ not only taught the Man who was born Blind, to believe on Him as the Son of God, but also receiv'd the Honour of Adoration from him, after he had faid, Lord, I believe; which furely after his so humble Behaviour He would not have admitted, had it not been due to Him, being of the same Essence, Majesty, and Glory with the Father. An Angel refus'd to receive this Honour from St. John, faying, * See thou do it not; worship God. Christ himself, as was above alledg'd, had told us his Mind; + Thou Shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only Shalt thou ferve. And in Ifaiab ‡ it is faid most emphatically; I am Jehova,

* Rev. xxii. 9. † Matt. iv. 10. # Chap. xlii. 8.

(the Lord) that is my Name: and my Glory will I not give to another, neither my Praise to graven Images *. How could our Saviour, both in his State of Humiliation, and after his Exaltation at the right Hand of God +, have received the Honour of Adoration, due to God alone, which He was so zealous to vindicate, if it had not belong'd to Him? Wherefore this again is a certain Testimony, that Christ is not to be accounted of as a meer created Being, but as One, who being of the same Essence, and of equal Majefty and Glory with the Father, is with Him to be adored. Whence all the Angels of God, ‡ yea, all Things that are made, whether in the Heavens, or in the Earth, or under the Earth, and in the Sea, do adore Him, and give Honour, not only to Him that fitteth on the Throne, that is the Father, but also to the Lamb; that is the Son, our Saviour Jefus Christ ||.

14. Our being baptized in the Name of Christ, is also a Demonstration of his Divine Glory.

Nor does it less confirm our Doctrine, that we are baptized, not only in the Name of the Father, but also of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Nay, in the Scripture mention is fometimes made of Baptism M 4 in the Name of Jesus Christ alone *: St. John gives us a fundamental + Reason, why we are baptized in the Name of the Son and of the Holy Ghoft, as well as of the Father, to wit, because these Three, in whom we are baptized, are One. From the same Foundation also, St. Paul comprifes thefe Three, who are One, together; concluding his IId Epistle to the Corinthians in this manner: # The Grace of our Lord Jefus Christ, and the Love of God, and the Communion of the Holy Ghoft, be with you all. Amen. And elsewhere || he makes mention of the Mystery of God, and explains it (2) relies is no xess) of the Father and of Christ; to declare thereby the Unity of the Divine Essence.

* Compare Isa. xlviii. 11. † Asts vii. 55, 59. ‡ Heb. i. 6. Psalm xcvii. 7. || Rev. v. 13.

It is further observable, that as Christ did institute Baptism, so he also instituted the Holy Supper: But is it the Work of a Creature to institute Sacraments, and by them to engage Men to himself, and as it were bind them to his own Person? Nay, Christ is not only He that did institute Baptism, but He also who baptizes with the Holy Ghost **; or He who bestows and pours out the Holy Ghost. But can this be ascribed to any other than the living God? He it is also who not only can work Faith, but also increase and finish it; which is at the same Time necessarily joined with the Baptism of the Holy Ghoft, which is performed by Him, and is manifested from clear Testimonies of Scripture *. Now Faith is not a human Operation, but is the Gift of God +; which therefore if Christ gives, strengthens, encreases, and confummates, He must neceffarily be, not meerly a created Being, but the true, effential, and living God. He it is of whom it is written; ‡ Christ loved the Church, and gave Himself for it, that He might sanctify and cleanse it with the Washing of Water, by the Word: that He might present it to Himself a glorious Church, not having Spot or Wrinkle, or any fuch Thing, but that it should be holy, and without Blemish. And, It is his Blood which can purge your Conscience from dead Works ||. Of which St. Paul also says, That ** God hath purchased his Church with his own Blood. When St. John, in the Beginning of his Gospel, demonstrates from Moses, that the first Creation was made by Christ; he likewise shews, that the Figure of the fecond Creation lay hid in the first; and that this, no less than that, was made in Jesus, and by Jesus; because + it pleased the Father, that in Him

* Alts ii. 38. ch. x. 48. ch. xix. 5. † t Epist. v. 7. ‡ z Cy, xiii. 14. || Col. ii. 2. ** Matt. iii. 11.

<sup>**</sup> Luke xvii. 5. Heb. xii. 2. † Eph. ii. 8. ‡ Eph. v. 25—27. || Heb. ix. 14. ** Alls xx. 28 || † Col. i. 19.

Him should all Fulness dwell. And as John speaks with great Emphasis concerning the first Creation, that without Him (is in) nothing at all was made; so Christ with no less Emphasis, afferts concerning our Renovation to the Image of God, without * me ye can do nothing. If therefore we believe that the fecond Creation. Regeneration, and the Restoration of all Things, is a Testimony of no less infinite Virtue, and of the Omnipotence of God, than the first Creation was, as certainly it is: what if I should say, that the infinite Riches of the Glory of God, manifest themselves still more in the second Creation, than in the first; and it appears from clear Testimonies of Scripture, that both the first and the second Creation are affigned to Chrift, and that He himself is in both of them the Alpha and Omega; Is not this a firm and strong Testimony of the Divine Glory of our Lord Yelus Christ ?

15. Christ's bestowing Eternal Life, is another Proof of his Divine Glory.

'Tis no less a Testimony of Christ's Divinity, that it is He, who gives Eternal Life to those who believe on Him: for thus He speaks; † My Sheep hear my Voice, and I know them, and they follow me. And I give unto them Eternal Life, and they shall shall never perish, neither shall any pluck them out of my Hand. As it is He also, who by his own Power not only raised Himself from the dead, as He himself declares, * Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my Life, that I might take it again. No Man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of my felf. I have Power to lay it down, and I have Power to take it again: but He also raises those from the Dead who believe in Him; for which there are most clear Testimonies of Sacred Scripture +. And forafmuch as He performs all these Things by his own Power, as He wrought all his Miracles by his own Power, He gave besides to them that believe on Him the Power also of working Miracles, that in his Name they should do the same Things which He did; as we have divers Examples hereof in the Asts of the Apostles. Yea, he says, $ Verily, verily I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the Works that I do, shall be do also, and greater Works than these shall be do, because I go unto my Father. And whatsoever ye shall ask in my Name, (N.B.) that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask any Thing in my Name (N.B.) I will do it. From all these Testimonies therefore, the Divine Majesty * John x. 17, 18. See also Rom. i. 3, 4. † John v. 21, 28, 29. ch. vi. 40. ‡ John xiv. 12—14.

* John xv. 3. + John x. 27, 28.

Majesty and Glory of our Saviour, manifestly shines forth; since the highest Operations possible, which wholly and plainly depend on the infinite Omnipotence of God, are so ascribed to Him, that no Work whatfoever can be called proper to the Deity, if fuch Works as the Creation of all Things, and their Renovation, and whatfoever relates thereto, can notwithstanding be boldly attributed to a Being that was itself created. But Christ has atchieved those most high and divine Works; He still performs them, and will continue to do them, as they are Works of Grace, to those that believe in Him; and as they are Works of Justice, to those who do not believe. All which Things therefore when worthily confider'd, any one will be able to perceive what a strong and invincible Argument of the Godhead of Christ may be found herein, that the whole Sacred Scripture has this for its End, that all Men may be brought to believe in Christ. But let that Man who denies the Eternal Divinity of Christ Jesus, confider what Faith the Scripture requires, as it hath been largely propounded, and he will find how impossible it is to reconcile this Faith with his Hypotheses and pre-conceiv'd Opinions. But he who nevertheless contradicts such clear, certain, and irrefragable Arguments, and bufies himfelf himself in wresting the clear Word of God to his own Mind, and interprets it according to his own corrupt Reason, let such a one go and learn what that means; No one can fay that Jesus is the Lord (Jehovah, Kvew, by whom are all Things, and we by Him) * but by the Holy Ghost †.

SECT. LIV.

What farther use may be made of the Six preceeding Arguments.

THE Six Arguments, which we have hitherto deduced, demonstrate the true and effential Divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ, after so timple, unaffected, and clear a manner, that any one, whether he be learned or unlearned, may be fatisfied with them: especially fince they do as it were point out the Way how other Arguments alfo, to prove the fame Thing, may be produced out of the whole Scriptures of the Old and New Testament, and how the Prophets and Apostles do unanimously testify concerning this Matter. There might also easily have been brought, from the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, divers other Arguments, no lefs clear and convincing than these; which, however, we omit at present, it not being our Purpose here here to treat of them all. Yet we cannot but fubjoin some Admonitions to what we have been speaking of, that the Mind of the Reader may be some way fortified against the violent Attacks of Falshood; and that he may be most faithfully advised, lest he act precipitately, in a Concern of so holy and high a Nature. It is commonly the Property of corrupt Reason, while not restrain'd within due Bounds by a fuperior Light and stronger Force, to fearch up and down how it may form some little Exception, and find out some Shift whereby it defends itself, so long as that Evafion is not remov'd: And altho' it can't in any wife confute the (contrary) Arguments in general, or in particular, nevertheless it refuses to believe the Truth fhining fo brightly before it, because it thinks it can yet eafily pick out fomething here and there, which it shall be able speciously to contradict. If any one therefore shall enter into the same way of Reafoning, with respect to the Arguments above alledged, as for the fake of fome fecondary Matters, which may occur in them, and feem as yet doubtful to him, to entertain a Scruple in his Mind against the principal Point itself; we would from hence admonish him to observe, that the Arguments in themselves, (especially confider'd as they arise and flow one from another) another) are fo strong and convincing, that they very far outweigh all fuch fudden Scruples. Hence it follows, that fuch like Scruples ought not to have more weight in the Mind, than the convincing Force of those Arguments. But God is rather to be intreated to free the Mind from those Scruples, and to render, at least, the Conviction already admitted more firm, more penetrating and lively. Nor verily would there be wanting an Opportunity and Helps, whereby a Man might get out of his Scruples, if he seriously labour'd after the fingle and certain Knowledge of the Truth. And here the wretched and perverse Custom of many Persons is to be lamented, who enter upon these controverted Points, (as they are called) without Prayer and humble Invocation of the great God; and as it were out of his Presence and Regard, who fearches the Reins and the Heart, i.e. without a holy Fear and Veneration of so great and infinite a Majesty: What Wonder therefore is it, if a Man left to himself, and rushing into these Controversies without a pious Disposition of Mind, should, by the just Judgment of God, not be favingly convinced by the Light of Truth, nor be en-lightned from above, but rather more and more blind and deceive himfelf, and oppose the Truth, then scoff at it, and at laft last maliciously slander and revile it? Nor is there wont to follow any other than this fad Effect, when the Reins are let loose to Reason to judge of Divine Things; fince all those Things, which are of the Spirit of God, appear Foolishness to the natural Man; fo that he cannot perceive nor know them: which St. Paul interprets of him who has received the Spirit of the World only, and not the Spirit of God *. Did the Scribes and Pharifees perceive and know the Things which Christ spake to them, tho' they were truly Divine, and most effectual for Conviction? Did not they always contradict and revile Him? And altho' being put to Silence, they had not fo much as a Word to answer, was there any Disposition left in them to receive the Truth? Does not Christ say; If any Man will do the Will of God, he shall know of the Doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of my self +: And David fays, With thee is the Fountain of Life: in thy Light we shall see Light ‡. Therefore we most earnestly admonish every one, who reads these Arguments concerning the Divine Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, deduced from the first Chapter of St. John's Gospel, and still doubts of their Divine Truth, before all Things, to give himself up wholly to God

<sup>* 1</sup> Car. viii. 6. † 1 Cor. xii. 3.

<sup>* 1</sup> Cor. ii. 14. † John vii. 17. ‡ Pfalm xxxvi. 9.

God in constant and fervent Prayer, by which Means he may be affured of the Divine Grace and Illumination, in his further Confideration of those Arguments. And let him take good heed, that with a fincere and honest Mind, he defire nothing elfe, but to believe the Word of God, and to obey it; for so God will not refuse on his Part, to communicate the fure Light of Knowledge to his Mind. Every one may be fully perfwaded, that these Things were not meditated and confign'd to Writing, without many, and those ferious Prayers to God; not without Fear and Veneration of His Majesty, nor without a fincere Love of Divine Truth. Wherefore also I have offer'd and concluded nothing on this Subject, but what my Mind was first most fully convinced of. Therefore I do all I can to perswade my Reader to possess his Mind with a fincere Love of Truth, and by humble Prayers to feek the Light of the Knowledge of Himfelf from the God of Truth: which if he faithfully performs, the most holy and most bleffed Truth concerning the Divine and Infinite Glory of our Lord Jejus Christ, will most certainly carry the Victory. But the Reader ought not only fincerely to hold on in the Love of God, and Prayer in his Perufal of thefe Arguments, but he must also be admonish'd in general, general, to avoid all wrangling and petulant Disputation, and Affectation of needless Scruples, in this whole Matter. The Seraphims beholding the Glory of the Lord, cover their Faces; and Isaiah having beheld it, said, * Woe is me, for I am undone, because I am a Man of unclean Lips, and I dwell in the midst of a People of unclean Lips: for mine Eyes have feen the King, the Lord of Hosts. That the Divine Glory of Jefies Christ is here defcribed, and that Ifaiab then faw the Glory of Christ, and that he spake of Him as his proper Subject, St. John, as we obferved before, declares in express + Words: From whence also a firm and invincible Argument is brought for the true and essential Godbead of our Lord Jesus Christ. But ought not this fo far to admonish us. as to make us very cautious how we venture to speak of such sublime Mysteries, until our Lips are sanctified by a Coal first presented to our Mouths from the Altar of God; and then we should not do it without Fear and Trembling? From this fame Foundation, let every Man also be cautious left he utter any Thing concerning so great a Mystery, and defend that against others, which he has not conceiv'd in his own Mind, after the fullest Inquiry of his Conscience, as a Truth long meditated

* Ija. vi. 2, 5.

tated upon, and as it were feven times refined. How dangerous a thing is it to wander from the Truth in fo facred a Matter; to diffemble one's Error, and if it can be propounded as probable under fome fair Colour, to disperse it abroad, and upon every Occasion to stand up and maintain it? We have certainly to do with One, whose Person and Glory is interested in this whole Affair; who we can't deny is to be the Judge both of the Living and of the Dead. Is not then an Account to be given for every idle Word *? How much more shall we be judg'd and condemned for all our hard Speeches which we have spoken against Him +? Should not every one from hence be fufficiently warned, to avoid all Wrangling and wanton Contentions, in a Caufe of fo high a Nature, which relates to the Person and Honour of our future Judge, from whom there is no escaping? Nay, the true Lovers of God must also be admonish'd, when happening to be deceived, either by their own defultory Reason, or by others who are vers'd in Error, they have fallen into some Doubting concerning this Thing, that they do not talk imprudently to others about it; much less endeavour to instil into them the Notions to which (at prefent) they thus doubtingly incline. For N 2 God

* Matt. xii. 36.

God will bring fuch Men out of their Errors and Doubts into the Way of Truth, (so great is his Mercy) if they shall with ferious Frayers importunately request the Spirit of Truth from Him. But then all fuch Discourses which they have used in the Hearing of others, will bring upon their Consciences the deepest Anxiety and Remorfe; and they would most willingly part with all they are worth, if that would avail, to remove the Scruples they had occasioned in the Mind of any one: But they will find to their Grief, that they cannot fo eafily cure the Wounds they have given to others, tho' they acknowledge the Error they admitted of, and do themselves consute the Error which they acknowledge. For it is easier by wicked Discourses to corrupt a Man, and to subvert his Faith in Christ, than it is to reform and restore him to a found Faith. A Word once spoken advances far, and like the Plague runs from one to another, eats like a Gangrene, and vehemently hurts, before he who was the Cause and Author of it returns to a more found Judgment, and with true Sobriety of Mind reflects on the Scandal he has given. A Word flies about never to be recalled, nor does it perish in the Air with its Sound, but flies away like a Bird; nor can it be withheld or hinder'd, but will, whether you will or no, be catch'd up, and again blob'd out by others. Wherefore let every Man take good heed, learn to fet a Watch over his Mouth, and be, according to the Advice of St. 'James, * fivift to hear, and flow to speak.

SECT. LV.

What ought to be consider'd of by Persons who are manifestly given up to contrary Opinions, and are become Champions for them.

LASTLY, In the Name of our Lord Jefus Christ, the righteous Judge of the Quick and Dead, I address my self to all those who frankly and irreverently impugn the true and effential Godhead of Jefus Christ, affecting nevertheless to be called Christians; who account the Writings, as well of the New Testament as of the Old, to be the Rule of Faith. Jesus said to Paul before his Conversion; + It is hard for thee to kick against the Pricks; tho' he did it ignorantly. 'T will be no lefs, but much harder for you, whether you believe it or no, to kick against the Pricks; because tho' you allow the Scriptures of the New Testament, you nevertheless to boldly and arrogantly contradict the Truth N 3 clearly clearly shining before your Eyes, and express Testimonies proposed in such simple and plain Words, that even a Child may read and understand them. O! that your corrupt, over-curious and flitting Reason, the Parent of your Errors, were to you a Looking-glass of the miserable and deplorable Condition in which you are? O! how must you sweat and toil in feeking for Evasions, to elude the firm and strong Testimonies for the Divi-nity of Jesus Christ? Your perverse Rea-son had never consented to such Words as the Apostles us'd, in describing the Person of Jesus Christ, and in declaring his Glory. Nay, if you shall examine your own Hearts, you will eafily discover, that in favour of the Idea which you have framed of Christ, you cou'd earnestly wish, that many Things had not been contain'd in our Bibles, that are found there; because you can't without a deal of Pains wrest them to your own Opinion. To what purpose therefore do you thus go on? Can't you perceive that you are feduced by the Serpent's Cunning, from the clear and divine Simplicity with which you ought to receive the Word of the Most High? What a Misery is it, that with all the fubtil Contrivances and Inventions of your Reafon, you can never arrive at any fettled firmness of Mind? You

* James i. 19. † Ads ix. 15.

You often say indeed, that you inquire after the Truth; but for all that, you will never be able to find it, as long as you deny Him who is Truth itself. This is what is declar'd in Ecclesiastes; * I said, I will be wife, but it was far from me. But with all your Reasonings about these Matters, can you indeed find Rest to your Souls? Whether you are the Followers of Socinus, or, consulting better for your felves, think fit to espouse the Errors of Arius, observing the Testimonies of Holy Scripture suffer'd too great Violence by the Hypotheses of Socinus; or whether refraining your felves from all human Names, you defire to be diftinguish'd from others, as Unitarians; or whether, to outward Appearance, you are join'd to any other Congregation, which yet privily or openly denies the Divine Glory of Jesus Christ; pray examine your felves, whether in all the Arguings of your wandring Reafon, the Peace of God, which furmounts all Conception, can possibly exist? O! how it were to be wish'd, you would learn to know that Reason has no Limits to her Excursions, when unrestrain'd by a higher Power: On which Subject St. Paul thus speaks; + And my Speech and my Preaching was not with enticing Words of Man's Wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit N A and

* Ecclef. vii. 23.

and of Power. And Christ himself thus; * Murmur not among your felves, (because I faid, I came down from Heaven:) No Man can come to me, except the Father which bath fent me, draw him; and I will raile him up at the last Day. It is written in the Prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every Man therefore that bath heard, and bath learned of the Father, cometh unto me. The Sense of which Words none of you can comprehend, who constitute your dark and blind Reason the proper Judge in Things Spiritual, and refuse to submit your selves to God, for the Knowledge of the Light in bis Light. I know very well what They answer to this: That it's not the way to know the Truth for a Man to suppress his Scruples, and presently to reject every Thing which may feem to oppose this or that Proposition: that this is rather the way to establish Ignorance and palpable Errors in the World. But to this I answer, first, That it can't be denied, that all Doubting concerning Divine Truth, arises not at all from the Image of God, (wherein Man was at first made) but from the Revolt of Adam; and fince such Doubting is not of God, it can be nothing but Sin and Iniquity in his Sight. 'Tis dreadful to fay, but the Truth is, Men have fo far departed from their their Creator, as to call in question his very Existence: 'tis also dreadful to think they should doubt of His Glory, who, through his immense Love to Mankind, so depresfed and humbled Himfelf, as to become a Partaker of Flesh and Blood. But how dreadful is it, that after the Son of God was made Man, Reason, infected with the Seed of the Serpent, should dare to make a Doubt of his Glory; which He had emptied himself of, out of his ineffable Love and Humility! Wherefore he is shamefully deceived, who fancies it lawful for him to doubt of any Thing, without Sin and without Punishment. Secondly, If any one therefore has various Doubts in his Mind, he ought first of all, for that very Reafon, to acknowledge the deep Depravity and the greatness of the Misery he labours under; and to let the Confideration thereof fink deep into his Mind. Thirdly, He then must pray to God to deliver him from this Misery, and, out of the Abundance of his Grace and Mercy, cause his Heart to be established; for the Apostle says, it is a good Thing that the Heart be established with Grace, Heb. xiii. 9. For tis the Beginning of true Wifdom, to know that we cannot be deliver'd from our Mifery, unless God is pleased to deliver us. Add to this, fourthly, That a Man must not only be defirous of knowing the Truth, but but of performing it, or endeavouring fo to imploy it, that God may thereby be honoured and glorified according to his Will. If this Love of the Truth be really engrafted in the Mind, then, fifthly. The Scriptures of the Old and New Teftament may be as it were a Touchstone, by which any Scruple that arises in the Mind may be tried and examin'd, whether it agrees with that written Word, or not. But if a Man's Mind be so dispos'd, as to defire to know nothing but the pure Truth of God, and to be therein fruitful to the Lord; and so applies himself to the Scripture, not as a Master, but comes to the reading and fearthing of it, as a young Beginner and Disciple, that he may be taught thro' the Word by the Prophetical and Apostolical Spirit; then indeed he takes the right way to be deliver'd from his Scruples *. For thus, Scruples are not fimply suppress'd, or ejected out of the Mind, nor is the Man detain'd in Error, or turn'd as it were into an Animal void of Reason; but the Truth is sought after in a due and just Order, approved of God. Thus meditating on the Words of Holy Scripture, comparing one Scripture with another, drawing Conclusions from thence, and weighing carefully the Force of Arguments, ought not to be esteem'd an Abuse

Abuse of Reason, but rather those are the very Things which God himself requires to be done by us. And God cannot but command his Light to arise upon such a Man, thus anxiously folicitous about his miserable State, and humbly seeking after Truth in the Fear of God, with ardent Prayers to Him; St. Peter affirming, IId Epist. chap. i. 16-19. We have not followed cunningly devised Fables, when we made known unto you the Power and Coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were Eye-witnesses of his Majesty. For He received from God the Father, Honour and Glory, when there came fuch a Voice to Him from the excellent Glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. And this Voice which came from Heaven we heard, when we were with Him in the holy Mount. We have also a more sure Word of Prophecy, whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a Light that shineth in a dark Place, until the Day dawn, and the Day-star arise in your Hearts. And so the Use of Reason is not rejected, but 'tis required only, that it be made use of in a proper and holy Order; and that we pray with David, Open thou mine Eyes, that I may behold wondrous Things out of thy Law*. But how horribly, and how dangerously corrupt Reafon fon is wont to entangle itself, nay, how apt it is to pervert the Sense of the clearest Truth, and then to vent all this its Depravity for undoubted Truth, a Man then at last rightly perceives, when being illuminated by the Light of God, he begins to be fensible of his former Errors. Hence the Son of Sirach fays, * (as the German Translation hath it, to which the English agrees) I stretch'd forth my Hands to the Heaven above, and my Soul was enlightned, that I might know my Foolishness. When the uneven and abrupt Bypaths of Reason are by this means clear'd up by a more sublime Light, a Man must needs wonder and stand amazed at his own Blindness, that he should but devise even any specious Contradiction against the Truth, delivered in the plainest Terms, and give more credit to his own Interpretation, than to the fimple, pure, and clear Word of God. Then at length he begins to perceive the Judgment which is exercis'd from above, on those who do not feek the Truth feriously in the Fear of God; viz. that professing themfelves to be wife, they became Fools +: and that God will destroy the Wisdom of the Wife, and will bring to nothing the Understanding of the Prudent . And if this hapned to the Heathen, who never heard heard any Thing of the Light of the Holy Spirit, because they were contented with, or rather abused the Light of Reason, thro' their Ignorance; pray what will become of them, who have heard again and again the Divine Testimonies concerning the Blindness of Man's Heart; to whom God has yet promised he will not deny his Holy Spirit, for the right Understanding of his Word, if they feek it of Him in a due manner; who nevertheless not only make their own Reason the Judge and Interpreter of God's Word, but are not afraid even to scoff at whatever is spoke concerning the Illumination of the Holy Spirit, without which they cannot fay that Jesus is the Lord, (1 Cor. xii. 3.) nor believe in Him, nor come unto Him. They please themselves in this, that they know how to use their Reason so rarely well, fancying they have Light enough for attaining the Knowledge of Divine Truth. But indeed herein also they are extremely mistaken, being as far from following the right Use of Reason, as Heaven is from the Earth; tho' nothing may feem more absurd to them, than such an Imputation. But 'tis easy to make an Experiment of this, by requiring any Person, who denies the Divine Glory of our Lord Jesius Christ, to interpret the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, from the first Verse to the End of

* Chap. li. 19. + Rom. i. 22. + 1 Cor i. 19.

of the eighteenth; and to maintain from thence his pre-conceiv'd Notions concerning the Person of Christ. There is no need of interrupting him in his Comments, for you will find he has Work enough upon his Hands to affign any other Sense to the Words and Phrases of St. John, than what their natural Signification admits of, and to perswade any one that the Word of God, which was made Flesh, was a meer Man, or certainly a created Being; and I am perswaded that they who hear him, and fee with their Eyes how greatly he labour'd to wrest the Words to his own Senfe, will be very much confirm'd in the true Faith, from the simple and plain Testimony of St. John, concerning the Divine Glory of Christ. For they will understand, that He, of all others, fights most absurdly against the Truth, who would be thought fo to use his Reason, as not much to regard a higher Light.

SECT. LVI.

What ought to be thought of such, who deny the Godhead of Christ, and yet mightily pretend to good Moral Doctrine and Integrity of Life.

BUT 'tis a Thing the more to be lamented, that they who deny the Divine Glory of Him, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life, and without whom no Man can come to the Father, should endeavour to perswade themselves, and others, that they are endued with a fingular Knowledge of Morality. As indeed there are not a few fo strangely blinded, that tho' they hear of some Sect, who deny the Godhead of Christ, and do not admit of his Satisfaction for the Sins of the World, but look upon Christ only as an Example of a Holy Life, do nevertheless fall upon the moral Writings of fuch Men, with a curious kind of Greediness, imagining they shall find fomething in them fingular and extraordinary. And this is not to be much wonder'd at; for even in the Writings of the Pagans, blind Reason finds something of this kind to give itself Satisfaction. How great a Value has formerly been fet upon Tully's Offices, out of which notwithstanding they who have but tasted a little of the Truth, which is in Christ Jesus, can by no means quench their Thirst; but on the contrary, they will be quickly fensible what a false, impure Foundation, and contrary to the Truth of Christ, worldly Wildom is made to rely on in that Book. Have not some advised the joining a Treatife of Seneca with the reading of the Bible? How mightily have they thought their Minds would be compos'd, if they did but read Seneca's Book of the Tranquillity of the Mind? When yet this poor Heathen, from his infufficient Principles, could promise no other Peace, but that which the World gives; and was as remote from the Peace of God, which paffeth all Understanding, as Heaven is distant from the Earth. But if mere Heathen moral Doctrine is in fo great Esteem, which yet has not fo much as the Name of that Virtue which ought to be the Foundation of all other Virtues, viz. true Humility; much more eafily fure may a Deceit creep in under the shelter of Christ's Name, that that should be believed to be true Morality, which is exhibited not as a Heathen, but a Christian Institution of Morals. But as the Heathen Moralists were fo destitute of the true Foundation, that they knew not even its first Virtue,

of all the Holy Scriptures. 193

viz. Humility; and therefore all their moral Doctrine was nothing but Paint and Colour: So those Moralists among our felves, who do not acknowledge the Glory of Christ, have wandred very far from the Doctrine of true Morality. For they do not confess Him, who is the Life and the Light of Men; from whom, as the Source of Life and Light, a new Life, and a new Light, must be given unto Men: wherefore Faith is to be look'd on as the Foundation of all Christian Morality; not that Faith by which a Man externally professes the Name of Christ and his Doctrine, but that Faith by which Men are born anew, and of God; by which they receive the Holy Spirit who is the Spirit of Adoption, the Pledge of Eternal Life, and who pass from a spiritual Death, into a new and spiritual Life, out of Darkness into the admirable Light of God, after such a manner, as with open Face to behold, as in a Glass, the Glory of the Lord, and to be changed into the same Image from Glory to Glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord *.

0

SECT.

SECT. LVII.

That all Morality, destitute of the Foundation of a living Faith, is unprositable and insufficient. What Advice is to be given to those, who depart from this Foundation of true Morality.

WHEN this divine Foundation is not laid in the Soul of Man, all Morality with which any one exercifes himfelf, is only external, tho' it pretend to penetrate into the interior Things of the Soul, that fo you would be ready to take it even for Myflical Theology. For in fuch Morality as this, there is no truly Divine Virtue existing, no real new Life, no true Communion of the Soul with God; in short, there is not found in this Morality the Kingdom of God, which is Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghoft. For he that in these Things serveth Christ, faith St. Paul, is acceptable to God, and approved of Men *. All other moral Doctrine, compared with the Doctrine of St. Paul, is of no value, as having laid this Foundation, that it is not He that liveth, but Christ liveth in Him; and the Life which He

He now liveth in the Flesh, He lives by the Faith of the Son of God, who loved Him, and gave himself for Him *. I do not frustrate the Grace of God; for if Righ-teousness comes by the Law, then Christ is dead in vain. And thus we may fay; if there be a true and fufficient Morality, that affigns not Christ as the eternal Life and eternal Light, for its Foundation, and by which a Man is not before all Things fent to believe in the Lord Jesus, as the Origin of all Life and Light, and the Lord of Glory, and to embrace Him as his only Wisdom, Righteousness, Sanctification, and Redemption; Christ is in effect no Christ, and died without Cause or Occafion. For what Occasion had there been for his Death, if Mankind could, by the Strength of their own Reason, become Righteous and Holy, and Partakers of eternal Life? If any one also shall boast of an external Probity of Life, that Boasting is of value only among those, who never experienced in themselves the Foundation of the new Birth, and the Life which is from God. For fuch Persons think it sufficient if they find a Man not addicted to outward Vices, because they have never known the Efficacy of Faith and Regeneration. But all those that do know it, are sensible what a vast Difference there is between those 0 2 who who may be faid to live piously, when compared with notoriously wicked Perfons, and between those who are pious after fuch a manner, as by true Repentance to be quickned together with Christ, raised up (with Him) and placed in the Heavens: (Eph. ii. 6. Phil. iii. 20.) We do not here fay, that in fuch Morality, which has no true Foundation, there is nothing true to be found; but this we fay, that those Truths (to wit, such as by their Speciousness deceive the Mind) are broken from their Original, and are no longer join'd with their first and clear Fountain. Nay, we fay farther, that a true Foundation is here very greatly wanting, and that this Morality is destitute of all folid Ground: For the Words of St. Paul most effectually demonstrate, that true Morality cannot confift without the Knowledge of the Glory of Christ; * Without Controversy, great is the Myslery of Godliness, God was manifested in the Flesh. Altho' therefore in Heathen Books, and in others that are Strangers to this only Foundation, there are to be found some external Truths, yet many Things impure and corrupt are intermixt with them; and whoever relies only on those moral Principles, is never brought by them to the true Foundation, but stops at those Puddles and broken Cisterns, Cifterns, from whence the Soul receives not the Efficacy and Virtue of the Divine Life, but builds upon another's, and upon his own fandy Bottom and Foundation; fo that he may be liken'd to the foolish Man * described by Christ. Now what Advice is to be given to those who thus go aftray from Christ in their Minds? No other indeed but this: Believe that the Lord Jefus is CHRIST, and that He is the Son of God, (even so as the ancient Yews well understood, that no meer Man, or any other created Being, could be ftrictly honour'd with that Title) and that believing this, ye shall have Life, not only after a natural Death, but even in this World a true Life, which is from God, a Life truly moral. O that Eternal Love would open your Hearts, that you might attend to this plain Counsel, and that you would not despise it, and think your selves wifer! O that you would know the Gift of God, and (N.B.) who it is, to whom you are remitted, you would ask of Him, and He would give you living Water, which should be in you a Well of Water springing up into everlasting + Life!

* Gal. ii. 20, 21.

> 0 3 SECT.

* Matt. vii. 26, 27. † John iv. 10, 14

SECT. LVIII.

What Prayers and Praises should from these Considerations be excited in our Minds.

"TO Thee, O God, and Father of " our Lord Jesus Christ, be Praise and "Glory, for the Knowledge of thy Son, " together with which thou bestowest " Life and Abundance to all who truly " receive Him; we lament before Thee, " with the utmost Grief of Mind, that " this Knowledge is so greatly darken'd " by the wicked Lives of those, who with " their Mouth indeed profess to acknow-" ledge the Glory of thy Son, but in "Work deny it. For they fay indeed " unto Christ, My Lord, and my God; but they keep his Words much less than " they would those of any Man who has " Power over them. Grant therefore, that they who believe in thy Son, being truly affected with the Testimony of the Holy Spirit concerning Him, may be so deeply rooted with Faith in Him, that they may give due Honour to the " Lord of Glory; and when they feel in " themselves the Essicacy of a true and " lively Faith, may testify unto others the " mighty Virtue and Power of a Faith " found-

" founded in the Name of thy Son. Have " Mercy on them who are tempted with " Doubts concerning the Knowledge of " thy Son; establish their Hearts in the "Truth, that they may verily know that " Jefus Christ is the same yesterday, to day, " and for ever; and that they may not " be carried about with various and " strange Doctrines. And for those who " disown the Glory of thy Son, be pleas-" ed, O Lord, to bring them out of their " Errors, into the Way of Truth, and " make them fensible of the Nakedness, " Mifery, and distressed Condition of their " Souls, that they may feek to Him, who " can, and freely will deliver them from " their Mifery, if they refuse not to re-" ceive Him in such fort, as Thou hast " exhibited this thy Son to us in the Holy " Scriptures. Grant that thy Truth may " prevail more and more; command thy Light so to shine, that Men may rea-" dily acknowledge the Brightness of thy "Glory, and the express Image of thy " Perjon, and may be so illuminated by " the Sun of Righteousness, so enliven'd, " fo warmed in thy Love, and fo reple-" nish'd with the Fruits of Righteousness, " by Him who is our Righteousness; that "Darkness may be compelled to give " place to Light, Night to clear Day, " Death to true Life, Errors, Doubts, and " Infi-0 4

"Infidelity, to manifest and eternal Truth." Thus will be fulfilled those Things which David foretold of the Days of the Messiah: * Blessed is the People that know the joyful Sound: they shall walk,
O Lord, in the Light of thy Countenance.
In thy Name shall they rejoice all the Day: and in thy Righteousness shall they be exalted. For thou art the Glory of their Strength, and in thy Favour our Horn shall be exalted. For the Lord is our De-

The SIXTH MEDITATION.

" fence, and the Holy One of Israel is our King.

Of the Myftery of the Incarnation.

SECT. LIX.

That 'tis to be considered, who Christ was before his Incarnation, and who He now is, after He was made Man.

CONSIDER, O my Soul, who He was, who gave Himfelf to be thy Saviour; who He was made, and who He now is, after He became thy Saviour. Behold, He was, before any Thing was; He then was present, when any Thing could be faid to begin; for his Appearance (or Goings forth) has been from of old, from the Beginning, from everlasting *: the eternal Word; the eternal Life; the eternal Light; of the same Essence as God, and yet with God; the only begotten Son of the Father, who is in the Bosom of the Father, from Eternity, and for ever, without any Change (or Succession) of Time, according to his Divinity; the Maker of all Things; the Original of Life and Light; the Life and Light of Men even before the Fall; shining after in the midst of Darkness, and yet the Darkness nevertheless comprehending it not; a Light, with which any other Light compared, tho' the most pure, serene, and clear, must be called a Shadow. A Light, in comparison of which, the greatest among those that are born of Women, cannot be faid to be a true Light; a Light which was in the World, before he came into the World, yea, by which the World was made; a Light, which alone can again illuminate Men, fallen into Darkness by the Revolt of Adam. It was He, who by Right of Creation had the whole World for his Property; but took to him Abraham and his Seed, the People of Ifrael + by choice, by their Delivery out of # Egypt, by the Covenant He made

* Mic. v. 2. † Deut. vii. 6, 7. ‡ Exod. xix. 4, 5, 6.

made with them, * by Conjunction of Blood, + to be his peculiar People; and fo fent to them continually Prophets, and wife Men, and Scribes, ‡ who were all to testify concerning Him, lest when He came unto his Temple, He should not be known to them. He it was, who had Right and Power to reject a People, who refuse to keep his Covenant; and of receiving others who should believe in his Name, and of giving them Power to become the Sons of God; not meerly by some external Adoption, but rather by a true and a new Birth from God. Such a Person was thy Saviour, and yet (as I trust you have learn'd from the preceeding Meditations) there have been therein but a few Things spoken concerning his great and infinite Glory. When now He was fo great a Person, what was He then made? Flesh. For the Word, saith St. John, (whose divine Glory he most studiously inculcated) was made Flesh. Why is it not said, He was made Man? Because his profound Humiliation might be better understood by the word Flesh: For when the Scripture describes Men according to their vain and corruptible Condition, it calls them Flesh ||. And how can our Misery be better represented, than by confidering

* Deut. xxvi. 18. † Heb. ii. 6. ‡ Matt. xxiii. 34. || Gen. vi. 12, 13. || Ija. xl. 6. || Pet. i. 24. || Jan. i. 10.

sidering our selves as Flesh? For which Reason the Holy Spirit, not only in this, but in other Places also, expresses the profound Abasement of the Son of God by his Incarnation, in this manner; * God was manifest in the Flesh. And, + Forasmuch as the Children are Partakers of Flesh and Blood, he also himself likewise took part of the fame. Note, I pray, how this is exhibited to Thee in his Birth, as it were in an Image or outward Figure. For behold, thy Saviour being fuch a one as has been represented, viz. the Brightness of his Father's Glory, and the express Image of his Person, born in a Stable, a Place appointed for Beafts, and laid in a Manger, that by this outward Sign thou mightest the better confider his deep Humiliation, in condescending to enter into, and to cloath his great Majesty with our poor fleshly Tabernacle. O most wonderful Humiliation! Wert not Thou abashed in assuming our mean Flesh, O Saviour of the whole World; and after taking upon Thee human Nature, wouldest Thou be called God manifest in the Flesh, when after our deplorable Apostacy, the miserable State in which we are, is become a Shame and Difgrace to our very felves? How incomprehenfible is this Humility, that Thou wouldest please to be so like unto us in all Things, Sin only excepted! Confider then, O Soul, what thou posseffest in thy Saviour, who was the eternal God, and thy Creator, and was made Flesh. Thou hast a Saviour, who is truly God, and truly Man, a Person of two Natures, infinitely different in Point of Dignity. Hence the Prophet Isaiah, among several other Names, calls him in the first Place by that of Wonderful *. For fo wonderful a Thing never was known before, nor can the like to it ever exist again. He is wonderful in his Glory, wonderful in his Humility, wonderful in the Union of the Godhead with the Manhood, wonderful in his Office, wonderful in his Words, in his Works, and in his Paffion, wonderful in all the Things He was conversant about. All who heard of his Birth, were justly struck with Admiration +. This Admiration of thy Saviour is the first Spark of a true Faith: the first degree in bruifing under thy Feet the Head of the wily Serpent, or of carnal Reason and Prudence, as a certain pious Doctor of the Church speaks. This holy Admiration, in confidering the Mystery of the Incarnation, will lead Thee farther, that thou mayst learn to know, with humbleness of Mind, and profound Veneration, what thou enjoyest thro' thy Redeemer, who who chose Flesh to be his Tabernacle and Temple, in which He dwelt among Men, that by the Destruction of this frail Temple, and by the wonderful Restoration of it, Humanity might become the eternal Temple of the Deity; which will more plainly appear from the following Meditation.

The Seventh Meditation.

Of the Benefits we enjoy by Jesus Christ.

SECT. LX.

That God has embraced us in his Son with an eternal Love, and that from hence all manner of Good is derived to us.

DOST Thou possess any Good, O my Soul, which thou hast not from thy Saviour, by Him, and in Him? And can there any Good be named, which Thou canst not receive from Him, by Him, and in Him? In Him, The Transpose The Godhead, of universal Grace and Truth dwells; and of his Fulness, says St. John, we do all receive, the week and Grace for Grace; fo as Grace may be, as it were, recompensed with Grace, and so there may be no End of Grace, of Love, and of Compassion, to all Eternity. But if you would know when these Mercies to us began, you are to observe, that Love and Divine Grace in Christ Jesus never had a Beginning: For Grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the World began *. You ought to consider this Expression; The Word was in the Beginning with God, (Joh. i. 2.) For we read thus in the Proverbs of Solomon; + Then I was by Him as one brought up with Him, (now nourished, or according to others, Worker) and was daily my Delight, rejoicing always before Him. Rejoicing in the habitable Part of his Earth, and his Delights were with the Sons of Men. Don't you perceive what is meant by the Words, the Son of God was from the Beginning with the Father? He was the Delight and Pleasure of his Father, and as his Father loved Him, so He in like manner loved Men, and they became his Delight. For as He was the daily Delight of the Father, rejoicing always before Him, fo He rejoiced in the habitable Part of the Earth, and his Delight was with the Sons of Men. And as the Father fays concerning the Son, This is my Son, my beloved Son, in whom

10

I am well pleased; so from Eternity, Eussknow, He was well pleased, not only in the Son, but also thro' the Son, in Men, if they believed in the Name of this his only begotten Son. Moreover, this eternal Love of the Father towards Men in Christ Jesus, is so singular and wonderful, that the Son of God himself says of it; * God To loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son, (that whofoever believeth in Him, should not perish, but have everlasting Life.) And St. Paul fays, + If God be for us, who can be against us? He that spared not his own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall be not with Him also freely give us all Things? If a Man gives one Thing for another, he certainly thereby lets us know, that he has an equal, if not a greater Regard to that other Thing, than to that which he gives for it. For that which is dearest and most acceptable to any one, That he usually retains. Now God not only gave his Son for us mortal Creatures, but deliver'd Him also to Death for us, and required He should tafte what was due to Men for their Sins. How amazing is this Love! If God had not loved us in his Son, if the Son himfelf had not purfu'd us with a Love exceeding all measure, nay, if the Son had not been the very Mind of the Father, which, which, the Father being touch'd by the Misery of Man created by Him, was, together with Him, moved with Love and Compassion towards the whole lapsed Race: Truly we could not but fay, that He shewed greater Love to us, than to his only begotten Son. But since the Manifestation of all Love concenters in the Son, and all the Love of the Father rests upon Men thro' the Son, the Son himself declares concerning this Thing, that the fame Love, wherewith the Father loved Him, is in them who believe, because He is in them *. If therefore the Love with which the Father loves the Son, is infinite and measureless; the Love also with which the Father loves us in Christ, is an immense and infinite Love: otherwise, how could any Man be fo rash as but dare to think, that God so loves us, if we are in his Son, as He loves his own only begotten Son? O that thro' our whole Life, we might fix the Eye of our Faith on this Love, which from Eternity beheld us, not only in our Fall, and in that Mifery into which we were plunged by the Fall, but which also set up an ineffable Salvation, that should accrue to us in Christ Jesus, who would translate us from Death to Life, from Darkness, Wrath, the Curse, and eternal Destruction, into eternal Light, eternal Favour, eternal Benediction, and into eternal Safety, Joy, and Glory. Yea, God knew us, according to his Omniscience from all Eternity, with this same Love, as his Blessed Ones deliver'd from all Sin, and from all the Evils arifing to us from Sin, altogether immaculate and blameless, cloathed with the Glory and Majesty of his Son, bearing his Resemblance, and exulting and rejoicing before his Face for ever. This is that Love, which cloathed the Son with humble Humanity, and which so highly ex-alted Humanity in the Son, that he promised to place it on the right Hand of the Majesty on high; To him that overcometh, (through Christ who strengthens him) will I grant to fit with me in my Throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in bis Throne *. What more could be possibly desired, O my Soul, which thou may'st not find in this Love? That the Son of God should be thy Creator, should be thy Life, thy Light, which illuminates thee; that commands his Word to be revealed to thee by the Prophets and Apostles, as a Testimony of himself, the true Light; that the Angels themselves should bring thee glad Tidings, and re-joice to minister unto thee; that thou shouldst become a true Believer, obtain Pardon for thy Sins, and be again born of God,

<sup>* 70</sup>hn iii 16.

God, and from the Fulness of his Grace and Truth, fuck in all Divine Riches: That he hath brought forth to thee the Knowledge of God from the Bosom of his heavenly Father, from the inmost and most secret Divinity; that He hath, as the true Immanuel, led thee into Communion with God; that thou being baptized in the Name of the Holy Trinity, admitted into an eternal Covenant with God, shouldst be anointed with the Holy Spirit, and illuminated with his Gifts, be fanctified, and by Him preferved in the true Faith, and be powerfully strengthned in all Conflicts against Sin, the World, Death, the Devil, and Hell; that nothing should ever be able to withdraw and separate thee from the Love of Him; nay, that thou art come unto Mount Sion, and unto the City of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to an innumerable Company of Angels; to the general Assembly, and Church of the First-born, which are written in Heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the Spirits of just Men made perfect, and to Jesus the Mediator of the new Covenant, and to the Blood of Sprinkling, that speaketh better Things than that of Abel *, That thou mayst obtain all these Felicities, here indeed by Faith, and a comfortable Fore-tafte; hereafter, by a most

of all the Holy Scriptures. 211

most perfect Intuition, and everlasting Glory: And when Christ thy Life shall be made manifest, thou also mayst be manifested with Him in Glory. I say, all these Things, and whatsoever else can be entitled to the Name of Salvation and Blessedness, thou entirely owest to this insinite Love, which manifested itself to the World in this, that the Son of God himself became the Saviour, of Men, in such a manner, that He was made Man; and his most exalted Majesty dwelt in Flesh, as in his Temple, among Mortals: of which St. John says, He dwelt among us, and we beheld his Glory, the Glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of Grace and Truth.

P 2

The

The EIGHTH MEDITATION.

Concerning the truly Divine Order, wherein we are made Partakers of all the Benefits that accrue to us by Christ Jesus.

SECT. LXI.

In what manner and in what Order we are to use the Benefits of Salvation, obtained by Christ for us.

IF thou defireft, O Soul, to partake of fo great and inestimable Benefits in Christ, thou must observe, that the Holy Spirit himself hath shewn thee the Order by which alone, and by no other Means, thou mayst attain them. For the Scriptures testify, that no Man can be a Partaker of them, who despises the Divine Order, but will remain deprived of them through his own Default. For this Cause it is said; the Darkness comprehended it not; (viz. the Light:) and the World knew Him not; and his own received Him not. But could they indeed be fo infatuated, as not to defire to be delivered out of all their Mifery, and to be removed into a State of eternal Joy and Glory? They wish'd to be be altogether exempt from the Punishment of Sin; but they desperately loved their Sins at the same Time; and whosoever endeavoured to reclaim them from their long continued Habit of Sinning, was reckon'd by them among their Enemies. Now the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the Works of the Devil; but they loved these Works of the Devil, and would not fuffer that they should be destroyed in them. Hence it is, that Christ says; * This is the Condemnation, that Light is come into the World, and Men loved Darkness rather than Light, because their Deeds were evil. They mightily defired to be Partakers of eternal Joy, from the carnal Notion they had of it, if it could be attain'd without Repentance and Conversion; which being contrary to the Divine Order, they could no more be Partakers of Christ, than a Man can be enlightned, who chooses to hide himself in a dark Cell, whilst the Sun diffuses its sweet and pleasant Light throughout the World. Therefore the Holy Spirit hath appointed three important Means in the Order, by which thou mayst come to the Knowledge of every good Thing that is in Christ Jesus; viz.

1. That you receive Christ. 2. That you believe in his Name. 3. That you be born P 3 again

* John iii. 19.

again of God. That you may receive Christ, it is requisite that you acknowledge the miserable State into which you were funk by the Fall. Sin is the Root of all Evil; from this comes the Divine Wrath and Punishment, the various Miferies and Calamities of Soul and Body, Death temporal and eternal. All those Evils are to be found out and known in their Root, that is, in Sin: For otherwife, thou wouldst defire to be deliver'd from the shameful and horrible Fruits of Sin, viz. its Punishment; but not from Sin itself. But such is the Goodness and Faithfulness of God, that He sufficiently lays before us in his Word this great and deplorable Misery of Mankind. Besides, every Man has in himself two strong Witnesses, viz. his own Conscience, and daily Experience, which bear witness far beyond all Contradiction, concerning both the internal and external Misery of Mankind. Therefore if you must necessarily believe these two Witnesses, that those Things are altogether true, which the Records of Holy Writ pronounce concerning our prefent Misery, then you ought also to credit their Testimony concerning the future Punishment of Sinners. Whosoever is so far convinc'd of his own Misery, will find fomething within him which makes him wish to be deliver'd from that Evil, how

of all the Holy Scriptures. 215

how much foever his natural Inclination to Vice, may continually urge him to obey Sin farther, and live for ever in the Lufts thereof. Then comes preventing Grace, offer'd by God to Men in Christ, knocking at the Door of the Heart, and much defiring to be admitted. If therefore you do not refractorily bar its Entrance, but rather endeavour to make a deeper Search into the miserable State wherein you are plunged, and flacken not in the Works of Repentance; there will now begin a sharp and severe Conslict, Christ and Belial contending with one another, which shall have the Dominion over you. But if you resolve to go on with the Combat, and will not treacherously desert Christ, calling you out of Darkness into his marvellous Light, and when you plainly find no Help in your felf, will receive Christ, as He who can alone rescue and deliver you from your Mifery in this Fight, which fometimes is very flarp, and painful to unruly Flesh: At length Faith will spring up, which is therefore called Victory; because there will be much Conflicting, before Infidelity can be throughly fubdued, and Faith, like a heavenly Light, and the Beginning of a Divine Life, can arise in the Heart. By such a Faith, you receive Christ as Christ, that is, as Him who appeared for this End, that He P-4 might might destroy the Works of the Devil; as one, for whose sake not only your Sins are forgiven, but divine Justification also is bestowed; that for the future you may boldly and full of Confidence call God your Father. For if you have thus truly embraced Christ, you are born again of God, by this fame Faith given you from above; not after a certain imaginary, but a true and real manner: the Truth of which you may certainly know, in that you will find your Mind entirely changed within you, your carnal Inclinations fub-dued, and the Dominion of Sin taken away; your Ears and Eyes open'd, that you may now fee, know and perceive, that being translated from so great Darkness into the Light of God, and from Death unto Life, you are made a Partaker of the Divine Nature, and are become a new Creature in Christ; the Holy Spirit witnessing at the same Time with your Spirit, that you are the Son, and so the Heir of God, and a Coheir with Christ. This Order was declared by Christ, when himfelf preached the Gospel of the Kingdom of God; saying, * The Time is fulfilled, and the Kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the Gospel.

The NINTH MEDITATION.

How we may be instructed, from the Beginning of St. John's Gofpel, to know Christ, as the Sum and Substance of the other Writings of St. John, and of all the Holy Scriptures.

SECT. LXII.

That from the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, we may also learn after what manner in his other Writings, and throughout the whole Scripture, Christ is to be known.

IF we should now apply the several Meditations here propounded upon the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, as a Guide for our better understanding his other Writings, viz. his whole Gospel History, his Epiftles, and Revelation, there would thence be fuggested to us a new Meditation, larger than all that have gone before. But for Brevity's fake, we will take notice only of a few Things to the Purpose now mention'd. And in general 'tis to be noted, that the Words and Expressions which which St. John uses in the Beginning of his Gospel, clearly discover his usual manner of writing, or the Language of the Holy Spirit which was in him. Whosoever therefore rightly comprehends the Sense of these first Verses, will much more eafily understand his true Sense in many other Places, when compared with these; as it must be a great help to the folid Interpretation of the Writings of this Apoftle, that he every where uses the same Way of speaking, and by this means stamps his Writings before others, with a certain peculiar Character, whereby the Sense of his Words is less liable to Mifconstruction. But particularly this is, as it were, his Character; that he bears Testimony of the x620, or the Word of God, which is most fignificantly done in this Place, to which he himself refers, Rev. i. 2. How much he was concern'd for this Title, may appear from his If Epistle i. 1. and chap. v. 7. Rev. i. 9. ch. vi. 9. ch. xix. 13. and ch. xx. 4. of all which Places, the plainest Interpretation is to be found in the Beginning of his Gospel. In like manner, you may fee throughout his Gospel, and his other Writings, the same Names by which he here distinguishes the Son of God, given to Him upon all Occafions. In this Place he calls Him the Life: He does the same, It Epist. i. 2.

ch.

ch. iii. 15. ch. v. 11, 20. So in his Gofpel, ch. xi. 25. and ch. xiv. 6. as this was his usual way of speaking, and taken indeed from the Mouth of our Saviour himfelf, from which also the Beginning of his Gospel, and particularly these Expresfions, to have eternal Life, to give eternal Life, did proceed. When therefore we have known from the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, that he calls the Son of God the Life, not only because he is our Creator, and therefore gives us our natural Life; nor only because after this Life, or after Death, he will give eternal Life unto those who have believed on Him, but also because He gives unto Believers the living Waters, that is, his Holy Spirit, as the Origin of a new and divine Life, in this Time of Grace; in many other Places also, where he uses the same kind of Speech, we shall the more easily perceive that this Word, and the Expressions joined with it, are not to be understood of the Life after Death; but that they every where urge and enforce the fpiritual Life, (hidden to the natural Man) in this our Time of Grace. But this is the more to be regarded, because many are of Opinion, (to our great Grief!) that whatsoever is said concerning Eternal Life, belongs only to a future State: from whence arises this great Difadvantage, that they can't perceive ceive in themselves the genuine Propriety of the Kingdom of God, but deny the true Happiness of the Sons of God in this Life; and thence become so much the less folicitous of being truly found in Christ, the true Life, and of truly beginning this Life in the Time of Grace, here indeed by Faith, but continuing it hereafter by Intuition for ever and ever. Moreover, when St. John here calls the Son of God the Light, by opposing Darkness to this Light, he retains this very Manner and Form of Speech, ch. iii. 19, 20. ch. viii. 12. ch. ix. 5. ch. xi. 9, 10. ch. xii. 35, 36, 46. I Epist. ii. 3. When therefore he hath fo clearly declared his Mind concerning the true Sense of this Word, in the Beginning of his Gospel, by the Help of this Declaration, we shall the more easily attain his true Sense of it in other Places. How comfortable therefore is it to obferve, when he requires us to walk in the Light, his Meaning is, that we should walk in Christ Jesus, as St. Paul * speaks: He here testifies also that Christ is full of Grace and Truth; both which Words (Grace and Truth) he also makes use of in other Places. First, he not only uses the Word Truth, but divers ways of Speaking here and there agreeable to it; as, + to do Truth;

* Col. ii. 6. † John iii. 21. 1 John i. 6.

Truth; * to be of the Truth; + to walk in the Truth; I in Spirit and in Truth; and, Il there is no Truth in bim. And of the Devil he faith; ** He abode not in the Truth. Nor does he feldom use the Words true, truly, whose proper Signification appears from the Word and Truth, and from Forms of Speech of the same nature. The Sense therefore of the Holy Spirit being known, when it fays, that Christ, full of Grace and Truth, dwells in them, we shall be the less likely to mistake it in other Places. But if we consider all these Places together, we shall be the more fully convinc'd, that the Word Truth is us'd by St. John in a far more fublime and il-lustrious Sense, than ever it was used by Heathen Authors, or by us now in common Conversation, where it uses almost only to be taken for the Matter of our Intellect. Contrary to which, 'tis easy to fee what an Esteem St. John had for this Word; fince he was taught from the Mouth of his Lord and Master, that He himself was the Truth. This is an Example, that the Beginning of St. John's Gofpel may ferve as a Key, whereby to interpret his other Writings. If therefore any one would apply these, or any other of St. John's Expressions, for the clearer Know-

<sup>* 1</sup> John ili. 19. ‡ John iv. 24. ** John viii. 44.

<sup>† 2</sup> John 4. 3 John 3. || 1 John i. 8. chap. ii. 4.

Knowledge of the other Writings of the New Testament, or of Moses and the Prophets, he would thereby be greatly enlightned in the true Sense of the Divine Word; to which End our preceding Second and Third Meditations might administer some Assistance. But to our foregoing Meditations, enlarged now beyond what we first intended, we here put a full stop; leaving it to the pious Reader to think farther on these Things, with a due Reverence to the Divine Word; and to take an occasion from thence so to meditate on other Places of the Holy Scriptures, that he may learn to know Christ, not fuperficially, but fubstantially and favingly, to be the Sum and Substance of the Holy Scriptures; and may thereby understand that what Tertullian affirms of the Writings of Moses, Lib. III. against Marcion, may be truly said of all Scripture; All Things in them, says he, speak of Christ, and through Christ they all speak.

"God grant the Spirit of Grace and "Wisdom to all those who search the "Scriptures out of Love to their Saviour

" and Redeemer, fo to use their Testimony

" concerning Him, that they may come to " Him, and obtain Life in Him.

SECT. LXIII.

What besides this Instance, more at large explained, may farther conduce to the Knowledge of Christ, as the Sum and Substance of the Holy Scriptures.

THE Specimen hitherto given, and so largely expounded, should not only instruct you how Christ may be sought for in all the Holy Scriptures, as the Sum and Substance of them; but should also serve to teach you, that you ought before all Things to be certainly inform'd concerning the Excellency of his Person, and of his Office, from the Foundation of Holy Writ. But yet, for your farther Instruction, I shall add a few Things more concerning the threefold Office of Christ.

First therefore, as to what belongs to the Office of Christ, you must carefully attend to this, That Jesus Christ is that Great Prophet sent by God into this World, openly to declare his Counsel and Will to Men: and therefore you ought to receive Him as your only Master and Teacher, to believe simply, and without any Contradiction, all that He says; and to be so firmly perswaded of this, that all his Words and Actions may be to you a Rule and and Pattern of Faith and Manners. No Man hath feen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the Bosom of the Father, He hath declared Him *.

If you lay not this for a Foundation, and will not bend your Mind to it, that like an humble and obedient Disciple you may adhere to this great Teacher, and believe from your Heart, and practife also whatsoever He himself spoke, or commanded to be declared to you by those of whom He said, He that heareth you, heareth me; and he that despiseth you, despiseth me +; all the Pains you take in seeking Christ in the Scriptures, is in vain. On the contrary, if you lay this in your Soul for a firm and immoveable Foundation, He himfelf, whom you acknowledge to be your Master and Teacher, will take you into his School, and under his Discipline you will foon grow up, and advance forward, and become a good Proficient: For this Cause, the Father cried out to us from Heaven, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased, Hear ye Him 1. Observe therefore diligently, what Christ himself hath faid ; | My Dostrine is not mine, but bis that fent me. If any Man will do bis Will, he shall know of the Doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of my my felf. Here then we are not to obey either Father or Mother, or any other Person more than Christ; but we must do whatfoever Things He faith to us, and prefer his Command before the Authority of all Men; tho' we should see it necessary to lose all we have, and even Life itself, for this Cause. Thus Christ's Prophetick Office ought not to be to you a bare Speculation, but it should draw you and your whole Mind unto Christ, that you may deliver your felf entirely into his Hands, and become his faithful Apprentice and Scholar, and do or omit nothing, either inwardly or outwardly, but what is fuitable to his Prescript. For this is He of whom Moses prophesied; * The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy Brethren, like unto me, unto Him ye shall bearken.

* John i. 18. ‡ Matt. xvii. 5.

† Luke x. 16. || John vii. 16, 17.

That you so receive Christ as that great Teacher and Prophet given by God, is indeed the Foundation; but you are to be conducted farther than this, viz. to the Knowledge of Him as the only Mediator between God and Men +; who not only instructs you concerning the Divine Esfence and Will, but who is himfelf the Author of eternal Salvation to those that obey Him; wherefore He is also named by God, ‡ a Priest for ever after the Order of Melchisedeck. And this is the principal Reason why it so much concerns you to learn to know Christ in the Holy Scriptures, because you cannot come to God any other way; and all your Safety and Happiness depends upon Him alone, and upon no other whatfoeyer. In Him you are to acknowledge and contemplate the Length and Breadth, the Depth and Height, of the great Work of Man's Redemption. Of Him Moses, the Prophets, and the Psalms, the Evangelists and Apostles, testify with one friendly Confent. All the Sacrifices of the old Covenant do refer as Types to this Lamb of God, who presented Himself to be flain and facrificed for the Sins, of the whole World.

* Deut. xviii. 15. † 1 Tim. ii. g. ‡ Heb. vii. 17, 21.

In this you find how remarkable a Signification the Protovangelium (or the Primitive Gospel) given unto Man in Paradise had, *and why it was so often repeated; our Forefathers built Altars, and facrificing upon them, proclaimed the Lord whom they invoked. In this, the genuine Signification of God's Covenant with Abraham is disclosed to you; and you will understand, that from that Covenant you ought to seek the true Foundation of rightly knowing in what the Old and New Testament properly consists. In this, Mount Moriah, with all those Things which were done done upon it, will be rightly understood by you. In the History of Ishmael and Isaac, Esau and Jacob, Joseph and his Brethren, you will discover the Argument of the Old and New Testament, and some Epitome of all Ecclefiastical History. So you will still more rejoice, that Joseph was at last made known to his Brethren.

The Egyptian Slavery will represent to you your own miserable Condition; the leading the Children of Israel through the Red Sea, your Redemption by the Blood of Christ; the journeying through the Wilderness, the Days of your own Pilgrimage. Then you will find the true Pafchal Lamb, and will perceive in your Heart the Posts sprinkled with his Blood. The Tabernacle, the first and second Temple, and all their Statutes, Laws, Sanctifications, and Purifications, will be revealed to you in the Word that was made Flesh, and isanirwos, dwelt, or pitch'd his Tabernacle among us, and in us. How greatly did David rejoice, when perceiving * the spiritual Meaning of the xivit Chapter of Leviticus, he looked upon himfelf as a spiritual Leper, cleansed by the Sacrifice of Christ, and sprinkled with the Hystop of the Gospel! Thus you will know the true Joshua, leading the People of God to their Reft. Thus you will learn QZ to understand, from the true Sense of the Spirit, the manifold Conflicts of the Children of Israel with the Canaanites; and that Samjon, and other Deliverers given them by God, were Types of Christ. In this also you will more deeply consider David and his Calamities, and the Kingdom of David and Solomon, not only according to their external History, but also according to their mystical Signification in reference to Christ; and you will likewise read the Psalms of David with greater Benefit. You will confider the Babylonish Captivity, and the Deliverance from it, after a long Space of Time, as a Type also. Here you will know, that all the Writers who came after Moses, drew from Him, as from a Fountain; and therefore you'll have fufficient Reasons to read Him diligently and attentively, before all the other Scriptures of the Old Testament, and to weigh accurately all his Words; and the Epiftle to the Hebrews will be helpful to you for a right Interpretation of the Books of Moles. But in all the Holy Writings, you will find the Fall of the first Man, and his Restitution by Christ, set before you in almost innumerable Types and Figures. Nay, if you truly believe in Jesus Christ, and in Him shall turn your ielf unto the Lord God, the Veil of Moses shall be taken away from your Heart, and you you shall with open Face, beholding, as in a Glass, the Glory of the Lord, be transformed into the same Image from Glory to Glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord *. This Knowledge will lead you still farther, and will teach you, that Christ is not only your Prophet and Priest, but your King also: For He has a Royal Priesthood, according to the Order of Melchisedeck. Then you will perceive, with the Fathers of the Church, what Depths of Knowledge lie hid in the short Description of the Priesthood of Melchisedeck +. David in Spirit beheld them ‡: St. Paul, from the Power of the Holy Spirit in the New Testament, still more clearly discloses them in his Epistle to the Hebrews ||. But the Revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ, represents to us the most clearly of all, this Royal Priesthood, and gives us a Key to all the Books of the Old and New Teftament; fo that you may clearly difcern, as in a Picture, the Kingdom of the Lord, and of his Anointed; the Manner and Nature of its Government, Statutes, and Judgments; the glorious Splendor of this Kingdom; the heavenly Council; the fecret Ways of God; the Harmony of the Kingdom of Grace and Glory; the Diverfity of Inhabitants; their Suftentation, Defence, fence, and at last their Glorification. There you will rightly learn to distinguish between the twofold State of Christ, that of his Exinanition, and that of his Exaltation; and you, as well in that, as in this, will find great Consolation. Then you will not perplex the Words of the Prophets, nor wrest them to your own pre-conceiv'd Opinions; but all being placed in their proper Order, you will neither derogate from the Glory of your Saviour, nor from his Exinanition that went before it. Then you will be able to diftinguish the Times rightly, and in that Distinction you will plainly fee, how friendly and sweetly the whole Choir of the Prophets conspire together. If your Faith be founded in the Knowledge of the Prophetick Office of Christ, if it be strengthned by the Knowledge of his Priestly Office, it will certainly be established and perfected by the Knowledge of this Royal Priesthood of Melchisedeck, as in which there is comprehended the Glory of our Lord Jesus Gbrift.

<sup>* 2</sup> Cor. iii. 18. ‡ Pjalm cx.

† Gen. xiv 18-20.

John Anndius, in his Evangelical Postill, Sermon IV. on the first Sunday in Advent, comprehends the Testimonies of the Prophets concerning the Regal Dignity of Christ in this manner: "It is altogether "fit that the King and Lord of Glory, whom all the Angels of God adore, at whose Name every Knee bows itself, of " Things in Heaven, and Things on Earth, " and Things under the Earth, should command his Trumpets, Tabrets, Pre-" centors and Proclaimers, to precede his " Advent. David played with his Pfal-" tery and Harp before Him, danced be-" fore Him, as he did before the Ark of " the Covenant, and before the Mercy-" feat. Isaiab and Joel were two of his "mighty Trumpets: Isaiah says, Chap. "xl. 9-11. Say unto the Cities of Ju"dah, Behold your God. Behold, the Lord God will come with a strong Hand (or, " against the Strong) and his Arm shall " rule for him: behold, his Reward is with bim, and his Work before him. He shall " feed his Flock like a Shepherd: He shall gather the Lambs with (or into) his Arm, and earry them in his Bosom, and shall "gently lead those that are with young, "And, * Go through, go through the " Gates; prepare you the Way of the " People. Cast up, cast up the High-" way: gather out the Stones, lift up a " Standard for the People. Behold, the " Lord bath proclaimed unto the End of the " World, Say ye to the Daughter of Zion, " behold thy Salvation cometh; behold, his " Reward is with Him, and his Work be-" fore Him. And they shall call them, The Q 4

" whose

" holy People, the Redeemed of the Lord: "And thou shalt be called, Sought out, a "City not forfaken. Joel has the first " Pentecostal Sermon upon the new Festi-" val of the Evangelical Pentecost. Fere-" miah, with his trembling Voice from " his continual weeping, was a Trumpe-" ter of the Lord, and faid, * O the Hope " of Israel, the Saviour thereof in time of " Trouble! And, + Heal me, O Lord, " and I shall be healed; save me, and I " shall be saved : for Thou art my Praise. " I This is his Name whereby he shall be called, The Lord our Righteoufness. " Ezekiel, with his wonderful Chariot, " was, as it were, an Equestrial Leader " to the Lord. Daniel's Timbrel de-" clares, that the Messiah would come " under the Empire of the Romans. Ho-" fea was a Woer for the Lord, for he " fays; I will betroth thee unto me for " ever; yea, I will betroth thee unto me " in Righteousness, and in Judgment, and ". in loving Kindness, and in Mercies. | I " will even betroth thee unto me in Faith-" fulness, and thou shalt know the Lord, " (or, that thou mayst know the Lord.) " Jonas was a Sign and a Type of the "Messiab in the Belly of the Whale. Mi-" cah and Haggai were Harbingers, to " provide

* Jer. xiv. 8.

† Chap. xvii. 14.

" provide Lodgings for this King: for the " one names Bethlehem, and prepares Him " Entertainment there; the other calls " Him, The Defire of all Nations. Ze-" chariah and Malachi were Proclaimers " of Him: for the first cries, * Sing and " rejoice, O Daughter of Zion; shout, O " Daughter of Jerusalem; behold, thy King " cometh unto thee: The other cries, + Best bold, I will fend my Messenger, and he " shall prepare the Way before me. Amos. " Obadiah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, " were Precentors to the Lord, as their " Prophecies testify. Amos fays, # The " Lord will roar from Zion, and utter his " Voice from Jerusalem: Obadiah, || Upon " Mount Zion shall be Deliverance, (or, " they that escape;) and there shall be Ho-" liness, (or, it shall be holy.) Nahum, " ** The Lord is good, a strong Hold (or, " Strength) in the Day of Trouble, and He knoweth them that trust in Him. But with an overrunning Flood he will make an utter End of the Place thereof, and " Darkness shall pursue his Enemies. Ha-" bakkuk, †† The Vision is yet for an ap-" pointed Time, but at the End it shall " speak, and not lie. Zephaniah, ‡‡ Sing, "O Daughter of Zion; shout, O Israel;

" be glad, and rejoice with all the Heart, " O Daughter of Jerusalem. The Lord " bath taken away thy Judgments, he bath " cast out thine Enemy: The King of Is-" rael, even the Lord, is in the midst of " thee: thou shalt not see Evil any more. " In that Day it shall be said to ferusa-" lem, Fear thou not; and to Zion, Let not " thine Hands be flack. The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is Mighty: he will " fave, he will rejoice over thee with Joy: " He will rest in his Love, he will joy over " thee with Singing. And these all pre-" ceeded His most welcome Advent, as " Princes (and great Lords) usually walk " before their King.

SECT. LXIV.

That a diligent Consideration of the Names and Appellations of Christ, affords also great Instruction.

YOU will make no small Progress in the Knowledge of Christ, if you attend to the various Names by which He is distinguished in the Holy Scriptures; for which Purpose you find them here collected together in some Order. He is called then,

According to his Divine Nature,

1. Jesus. Luk. ii. 21. ch. i. 31. Matt. i. 21.

Arndius

Arndius saith, The whole Gospel is comprehended in the Name Jesus: For the Gospel is not to be measured and judg'd of from a multitude of Words, but by its Value. And as Pearls are found in the Sea, so in the vast Sea of the Sacred Scriptures, the most noble Pearl is the holy Name Jesus.

2. Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, to day, and for ever. Heb. xiii. 8. ch. i. 12.

3. Jehova, the Lard, the Lord of Hosts. Isa. liv. 5.

4. The Lord our Righteousness. Jer. xxiii.6.

5. The Lord who spoke with Abraham, Gen. xviii. 1, 13, 17.

6. God and Man, wrestling with Jacob, and in whom Jacob saw God with his Eyes. Gen. xxxii. 25,29,31. Hof. xii. 5.

7. He that appeared and dwelt in the Bush, whose Good-will and Blessing was to have come upon the Head of Joseph. Exod. iii. 2. Deut. xxxiii. 16.

8. The Presence of the Lord. Exod.

XXXIII. 14.

9. God. John i. 1. 2 Tim. iii. 16.

10. The Great God. Tit. ii. 13.
11. God over all, blessed for ever. Rom. ix. 5.

12. God who is in the Heavens. Pf. cxv. 3.
13. The true God and Eternal Life. 1
John v. 20.

14. He that is called, the God of the whole Earth. Ifa. liv. 5.

15. The mighty God. Ifa. ix. 6.

16. The everlafting Father. Ifa. ix. 6.

17. A Man next to God, (English Tranflation, His Fellow.) Zech. xiii. 7. Matt. xxvi. 31.

18. A Worker, or one brought up with Him. Prov. viii. 30, 31.

19. God's own Son. Rom. viii. 32.

20. God's dear Son, Tide The aparts outs. Col. i. 13. or the beloved Son, in whom the Father is well pleased. Matt. iii. 17. Jedidiab. 2 Sam. xii. 25.

21. The only begotten Son of God, full of Grace and Truth. John i. 14.

22. The Son, who is in the Bosom of the Father. John i. 18.

23. The Son of the most high and living God. John ix. 35. Matt. xvi. 16. Mark

24. God's holy Child Jesus. Acts iv. 27. 25. The Son. John iii. 35,36. Psal. ii. 12. I John ii. 22, 23. Heb. i. 8.

26. The Son of the Father. 2 John 3.

27. The Word of God. Rev. i. 2. ch. xix. 13. The Word of the Lord. Pfalm xxxiii. 6.

28. The Word. John i. 1.
29. The Day-spring from on High, 'Avaran' 05 04 ss. Luke i. 78.

30. The Brightness of his Glory, and the express Image of his Person. Heb. i. 3.

31. The Image of the invisible God. Col.

i. 15.

32. The Ruler, whose Goings-forth have been from of old, from everlasting. Micah v. 2.

33. The Beginning of the Creation of God. Rev. iii. 14.

34. The First-born of every Creature. Col. i. 15.

35. The First-begotten, whom all the Angels of God worship. Heb. i. 6.

36. The Angel, in whom is the Name of the Lord. Exod. xxiii. 31.

37. The God of Glory. Acts vii. 2. 38. The Lord of Glory. I Cor. ii. 8.

39. The Lord at the right Hand of God. Pfalm cx. 5.

40. Our Lord and our God. John xx. 28.

41. The Lord from Heaven. I Cor. xv. 47.

42. The Lord, whom all Angels, and all Creatures do worship. Psalm xcvii. 7. Heb. i. 6. Rev. v. 13.

43. God, whose Throne is for ever and ever. Pfalm xlv. 7. Heb. i. 8, 9.

44. God, who laid the Foundation of the Earth, and the Heavens are the Work of his Hands. Pfalm cii. 25. Heb. i. 10, 11. Col. i. 16, 17.

45. Who is, before Abraham was. John viii. 58.

46. Wisdom, which the Lord possessed in the Beginning of his Way. Prov. viii. . 22-25.

47. The Lord of the Sabbath. Matt. xii.

8. Mark ii. 28.

48. The Lord of David. Pfalm cx. i.

Matt. xxii. 43.

49. The Holy of Holies, the Holy One of Israel. Dan. ix. 24. Ifa. liv. 5. John xvii. 19. 1 John ii. 20.

50. The Alpha and Omega, the First and the Last. Rev. i. 11. Ifa. xli. 4. ch. xliv. 6. ch. xlviii. 12.

51. Who is, and who was, and who is to come. Rev. i. 4.

The Hebrew Divine Names affigned to Christ in the Holy Scriptures, have a fingular Emphasis, and give a most effectual Testimony to his Divine Nature and Majesty.

The chief of which are as follows:

אל The Almighty God. Gen. xvii. 1. Ifa. ix. 6.

סר סד אלהים God, to be worshipped. Pfalm xlv. 6, 7. (Heb. i. 8.) Pf. xlvii. 6. Pf. Ixviii. 18, 19. (Ephef. iv. 8.)

יהוה צכאות The Lord God of Hofts, Ifa. viii. 13. (1 Pet. ii. 8.) Ifa. liv. 5.

עליון The Highest. Psalm xlvii. 3.

אשר יהיח or אשר אשר He that fhall shall be, who is to come. Exod. iii. 14.

Rev. i. 18.

The Glorious God. Pfalm lxviii. 5,19.
The effential, fubfifting God. Exod. xvii. 2. Numb. xiv. 22. (1 Cor. x. 9.) Ifa. vi. 1. (Joh. xii. 41.) Ifa. viii. 13, 14. (Luke ii. 34. 1 Pet. ii. 8.) Ifa. xlv. 21—23. (Rom. xiv. 11.) Jer. xxiii. 6. chap. xxxiii. 16.
The fupreme Being.

שרי God, Self-fufficient, or Omnipotent. Gen. xvii. 1. ch. xxviii. 3. ch. xxxv. 11.

Exod. vi. 3.

ארני God, the Protector of all Things.

Gen. xviii. 27, 30. Judg. vi. 15.

ארני ארון The Lord, the Governour, my Lord. Pfalm cx. 1. (Matt. xxii. 44,45.)

The Lord of the whole Earth. Pfalm xcvii. 5.

ארני הארנים The Lord of Lords. Pfalm

CXXXVI. 3.

עמואל God with us. Ifa. vii. 14. ch. viii. 8, 10. (Matt. i. 23.) This Name is affigned to Chrift, in the Hebrew, with a fingular Emphasis.

מלאך The Angel, איז ייני, the Captain and great Ambassador, to whom the Holy Scriptures ascribe Divine Properties. Exod. xlviii. 16. Hos. xii. 4. Wherefore He is also called,

מלאך יהוה The Angel of the Lord. Gen. xlviii. 16. Exod. iii. 2. (where He is afterwards, in Verses 4, 6, 7, call'd יהוה)

Zach xii. 8. And,

מלאן

24.0 Christ the Sum and Substance The Angel (or Meffenger) of the Covenant. Mal. iii. 1.

The Names which attest the true Humanity of Christ.

1: The Man Christ Jesus. 1 Tim. ii. 5. Heb. ii. 6.

2. The Son of Man. Pfalm viii. 4. Heb. ii. 6. Matt. xvi. 13. Acts vii. 56. Rev. i. 13. ch. xiv. 14.

3. The one Man. Rom. v. 15.

4. The Heavenly Man. I Cor. xv. 49?

5. Fairer than the Children of Men. Pf. xlv. 2.

6. The Second Man. I Cor. xv. 47.

7. The last Adam. I Cor. xv. 45. 8. The Seed of the Woman. Gen. iii. 15. Gal. iv. 4.

Q. The Seed of Abraham. Gal. iii. 16.

10. The Seed of Isaac. Gen. xxvi. 4.

11. The Seed of facob. Gen. xxviii. 14.

12. A Star out of facob. Numb. xxiv. 17.

13. The Lion of the Tribe of fudab. Rev. v. 5.

14. He that shall grow up as a tender Plant, and as a Root out of a dry Ground. Isa. liii. 2.

15. A Root of Jesse, which shall stand for an Enfign of the People, to Him shall the Gentiles feek. Isa. xi. 10.

of all the Holy Scriptures. 241

16. The Root of the Offspring of David. Rev. xxii. 16.

17. A Rod out of the Root of Fesse. Isa. xi. I.

18. The Root of David. Rev. v. 5.

19. The Son of David. Matt. xxii. 42. 20. The Beloved and Well-beloved of Isaiah. Isa. v. 1.

21. The Fruit of the Body of David.

Pfalm cxxxii. 11.

22. A Righteous Branch unto David. Jer. xxiii. 5. ch. xxxiii. 15.

23. The First-born Son of Mary. Luke

ii. 7. Matt. i. 25.

24. The bleffed Fruit of the Womb of Mary. Luke i. 42.

25. The Holy Thing which was born of Mary. Luke i. 35. Dan. ix. 24.

26. A Child born to us, a Son given to us. Ifa. ix. 6.

27. A Man-Child. Rev. xii. 5.

28. A Child. Ifa. vii. 16.

29. A Man. Gen. iv. 1. ch. xxxii. 24. Judg. xiii. 10, 11. Jer. xxxi. 22. Dan. x. 5. Zechar. i. 8, 10, 11. ch. vi. 12. ch. xiii. 7. Ezek. ix. 2, 11. ch. x. 2, 6, 7. ch. xl. 3, 5. ch. xliii. 6. Acts ii. 22. ch. xvii. 31.

30. Our Brother. Heb. ii. 11, 12.

31. The First-born among many Brethren. Rom. viii. 29.

32. God's Servant, the Branch, the Man whose Name is the Branch, who shall grow up out of his Place. Zech. iii. 8. ch. vi. 12.

33. Jesus of Nazareth. Mark i. 24. ch. x.

47. ch. xiv. 67. and xvi. 6.

34. A Nazarene. Matt. ii. 23.

35. A Corn of Wheat. John xii. 24.

36. A Plant of Renown. Ezek. xxxiv.29.

37. The true Vine. John xv. 1.

38. The Olive Tree. Rom. xi. 17,24.

39. The Apple Tree among the Trees of the Wood. Cant. ii. 3.

40. Flesh. John i. 14. Ephes. v. 30.

41. A Servant. Ifa. lii. 13.

42. God's Righteous Servant. Isa. liii. 11.

43. A Sign which shall be spoken against. Luke ii. 34.

44. A Reproach and Contempt of Men.

Pfalm xxii. 7.

45. A Worm, and no Man. Pfalm xxii. 6.

46. The Holy One nor of God, who was not suffered to see Corruption. Pfalm xvi. 10. Acts ii. 27. Mark i. 24.

47. The First-fruits of them that slept.

1 Cor. xv. 20.

The Names which testify the Prophetick Office of Christ.

1. The Messias, that is, the Anointed. Jo. i. 41.

2. The Prophet. John vi. 14.

3. The

3. The great Prophet that was to come into the World. Deut. xviii. 15, 18. Acts iii. 22. Luke vii. 16.

4. The Angel of the Covenant. Mal.iii. 1.

5. The Elect of God. Ifa. xlii. i.

6. The Apostle. Heb. iii. 1.

7. The Sent from God. John viii. 42. Matt. xv. 24. Ifa. lxi. 1, 2.

8. He that was to come, i ipzinho.

9. Wisdom. Matt. xi. 19.

10. Wonderful, Counsellor. Isa. ix. 6.

11. He that is Holy and True, and hath the Key of David. Rev. iii. 7.

12. A Teacher come from God. John iii. 2.

ing interpreted, Mafter) John i. 38. ch. xx. 16. Matt. xxiii. 10.

14. Our Comforter. Isa. li. 12.

15. The One Shepherd. Ezek. xxxiv. 23.

16. The Shepherd, making us lie down in green Pastures. Psalm xxiii. 1,2. Ezek. xxxiv. 14.

17. The Shepherd, and Bishop of our Souls. I Pet. ii. 25.

18. The Chief Shepherd. 1 Pet. v. 4.

19. The Door of the Sheep-fold. Joh. x.9.

20. The faithful Witness. Rev. i. 5.

21. Faithful and true. Rev. xix. 11.

22. The Author and Finisher of our Faith. Heb. xii. 2.

23. A Minister of the Circumcisson. Rom. xv. 8.

24. The Servant of God to raise up the Tribes of Jacob, and to restore the Preferved of I/rael. Isai. xlix. 6.

25. The Defire of all Nations. Hag. ii. 7.

26. The Way. John xiv. 6.

27. The Truth. John xiv. 6.

28. The Sower. Matt. xiii. 3, 18, 37. Mark iv. 3, 14. Luke viii. 5.

29. The Day-star. 2 Pet. i. 19.

30. Light. John iii. 19. 31. Our Light. Isa. lx. 1.

32. A great Light. Ifa. ix. 2.

33. A Light to lighten the Gentiles. Luke ii. 32. Isa. xlix. 6.

34. The Light of Men. John i. 4.

35. The true Light, which lighteth every Man that cometh into the World. John i. o.

36. The Light of the World. John viii. 12.

37. The Glory of the Lordarisen upon us. Isa. lx. i. Eph. v. 14.

38. The Sun of Righteousness. Mal. iv. 2.

39. The Sun of the People of Israel. Isa. lx. 20. Rev. xxi. 23.

40. The Foundation of the Church. I Cor.

iii. 11. Matt. xvi. 18.

41. A Stone laid in Zion for a Foundation, a tried Stone, a precious Corner-Stone, a fure Foundation. Ifa. xxviii. 16.

42. A Stone of Stumbling and Rock of Offence. 1 Pet. ii. 8. Ifa. viii. 14.

of all the Holy Scriptures. 245

43. The Stone which the Builders refused, made the Head of the Corner. Pfalm cxviii. 22. Matt. xxi. 42. Eph. ii. 20.

44. The Fall and rifing again of many in Ifrael. Luke ii. 34.

45. The Amen, (אלהי אמן) the God of Amen, or Truth. Rev. iii. 14. Ifa. lxv. 16.

The Names which declare the Prieftly Office of Christ.

1. The High Priest of our Profession. Heb. iii. 1.

2. The High Priest for ever, after the Order of Melchisedeck. Pfal. cx. 4. Heb. vi. 20.

3. A merciful and faithful High Priest in Things pertaining to God. Heb.ii. 17.

4. The one Mediator between God and Men. 1 Tim. ii. 5.

5. The High Priest, who hath obtain'd a more excellent Ministry. Heb. viii. 6.

6. A Surety of a better Testament. Heb. vii. 22.

7. A Covenant of the People. Isa. xlii. 6. 8. The Fore-runner Jesus. Heb. vi. 20.

9. A Minister of the Sanctuary, and of the true Tabernacle. Heb. viii, 2.

10. An Advocate with the Father. 1 John ii. I.

11. Our Salvation. Gen. xlix. 8. Exod. xv. 2. I Sam. ii. I. Job xiii. 16. Psalm R 3 XXVII.

xxvii. 1. Pf. xl. 16. l. 23. lxv. 5. lxvii. 3. lxx. 4. lxxi. 15. xcvi. 2. xcviii. 2, 3. cxviii. 14. cxix. 81, 123, 166, 174. Ifa. xii. 2. xlv. 8. xlvi. 13. lii. 10. lxi. 10. lxii. 1, 11. Hab. iii. 18. Luke iii. 6. the Salvation of God, (no ounhelov re OSE.)

12. The Rock of our Salvation. 2 Sam.

xxii. 2, 3. Pfalm xviii. 2.

13. The Fountain of Salvation. Isa. xii. 3.

14. A Fountain opened to preserve from Sin, and from Uncleanness. Zech. xiii.1.

15. The Horn of our Salvation. 2 Sam. xxii. 3. Pf. xviii. 2. Luke i. 69.

16. The Rock of our Salvation. Pf. xcv. 1. 17. The Salvation of the Daughter of Zion.

Ifa. lxii. 11.

18. The Saviour. Pfalm xvii. 7. Ifa. xix. 20. xlv. 15, 21. Zeph. iii. 17. Luke ii. 11. Acts v. 31. Phil. iii. 20. 2 Pet. i, 1. ii. 20. iii. 2.

19. Our Saviour. Pf. cvi. 21. Ifa. xliii. 3, 11. xlix. 26. lxiii. 8. Ezek. xi. 16. Luke i. 47. 2 Tim. i. 10. Tit. i. 4. ii. 13. iii. 6.

20. The Saviour of the World. 1 Jo. iv. 14.
21. The Saviour of his Body, the Church.
Eph. v. 23.

22. The Captain of Salvation, made perfect through Sufferings. Heb. ii. 10.

23. A Deliverer. Matt. i. 21.

24. The Afflicted, whose Affliction God doth not despise, nor abhor. Pf. xxii. 24. 25. Our

25. Our best Friend, John xv. 13-15.

26. The Righteous, by his Knowledge juftifying many, and bearing their Iniquity. Isa. liii. 11.

27. The good Shepherd that giveth his Life for the Sheep. John x. 11.

28. The great Shepherd, brought again from the Dead, through the Blood of the everlafting Covenant. Heb. xiii. 20.

29. The true Redeemer, or near Kinfman, who redeems his poor Brethren. Levit. xxv.25, &c. Compare Ruth.iii. 12. iv. 1, &c. Gen, xlviii. 16.

30. He that hath Mercy on us. Ifa. xlix. 10.

31. Our Redeemer. Job xix. 25. Isa.liv. 5. 32. Christ crucified. 1 Cor. i. 23, 24. ch.

ii. 2. Mark xvi. 6.

33. An Altar. Heb. xiii. 10. Ifa. lx. 7.

34. An Offering, and a Sacrifice to God, for a fweet-smelling Savour. Ephes. v. 2. Gen. viii. 20, 21.

35. The Gift of God. John iv. 10.

36. The Lamb of God which taketh away the Sins of the World. John i. 29.

37. The Lamb without Spot and Blemish, by whose precious Blood we are redeemed. 1 Pet. i. 19.

38. The Lamb flain. Rev. v. 12. (In the Revelation Christ is called the Lamb twenty nine times.)

39. The Passover sacrificed for us. 1 Cor.v.7. 40. Made a Curse for us. Gal. iii. 13.

> 41. Our R4

41. Our Peace. Ephef. ii. 14.

42. The Physician. Matt. ix. 12. Exod. xv.

43. The Plague of Death, and Destruction of the Grave. Hof. xiii. 14.

44. Life. John i. 14. ch. xi. 25. xiv. 6. 45. Eternal Life. 1 John i. 2. ch. v. 20.

46. The Tree of Life. Rev. ii.7. ch.xxii.14.

47. The Bread of Life. John vi. 48.

48. The Bread of God which came down from Heaven, and giveth Life unto the World. John vi. 33.

49. The spiritual Rock of which the I/- raelites drank. I Cor. x. 4.

50. The Body, of which the Ceremonies and Figures of the Old Testament were but Shadows. Col. ii. 17.

51. The End of the Law. Rom. x. 4.

The Names which declare the Regal Office of Christ.

- 1. The Lord's Christ. Luke ii. 26. ch. ix. 20.
- 2. The Lord's Anointed. Pfalm ii. 2. 1 Sam. ii. 10.

3. A King. John xviii. 37.

4. The King's Son. Pfalm lxxii. 1. Matt. XXII. 2.

5. A great King above all Gods. Pf. xcv. 3.

6. The Prince of the Kings of the Earth. Rev. i. 5.

7. The

of all the Holy Scriptures. 249

7. The Lamb, who is Lord of Lords. and King of Kings. Rev. xvii. 14. ch. xix. 16.

8. God's First-born, higher than the Kings of the Earth. Pfalm lxxxix. 27.

9. The King of Righteoufness, and King of Peace. Heb. vii. 2.

10. The King of Glory. Pfalm xxiv. 8.
11. The King of Ifrael. John i. 49.

12. He that reigns over the House of Jacob for ever. Luke i. 33.

13. He that is born King of the Yews.

Matt. ii. 2.

14. The King fet upon God's holy Hill of Sion. Pfalm ii. 6.

15. King David. Hof. iii. 5. Jer. xxx. 9.

16. The King of whom David fings. Pf. xlv. Pf. xlvii. Pf. xciii. Pf. xciv. to Pf. c. and cxlv.

17. The Horn of David. Pf. cxxxii. 17.

18. The King of the Daughter of Zion. Zech. ix. 9.

19. God and King over all the Earth. Pf. xlvii. 2, 9.

20. Lord of all. Acts x. 36.

21. The Lord of all, rich unto all that call upon him. Rom. x. 12.

22. A Governour, that shall rule his People Ifrael. Matt. ii. 6. Mic. v. 2.

23. Christ or Messiah the Prince. Dan. ix. 25. Ifa. Iv. 4. Matt. ii. 6.

24. The Prince of Life. Acts iii. 15.

25. A

25. A Leader and Commander to the People. Isa. Iv. 4.

26. Captain or Prince of the Host of the Lord. Josh. v. 14. (who is called fe-hova the Lord) Josh. vi. 2.

27. One Shepherd, David, who was to be their King and Prince. Ezek. xxxiv.

23, 24. ch. xxxvii. 24.

28. Lord of the Dead and Living. Rom. xiv. 9.

29. The Lord strong and mighty, the Lord mighty in Battle. Pfalm xxiv. 8.

30. The Lamb that is worthy to receive Power, and Riches, and Wisdom, and Strength, and Honour, and Glory, and Blessing. Rev. v. 12.

of the Lord. Pf. cxviii. 26. lxxii. 18.

Matt. xxi. 9.

32. A Sceptre that shall rise out of Israel. Numb. xxiv. 17.

33. The Head over all Things. Eph. i. 22.

34. The Heir of all Things. Heb. i. 2. 35. The Bridegroom. Matt. xxv. 1. Ifa. lxii. 4, 5.

36. Arm of the Lord. Isa. li. 9. liii. 1.

37. The Keeper of Ifrael. Pfalm cxxi. 4. (Gen. xlviii. 16. Exod. xxxiii. 2.)

38. The Confolation of Ifrael. Luke ii. 25.

39. The Glory of the People Israel. Isa. lx. 19. Luke ii. 32.

40. The Portion of Jacob. Jer. x. 16.

41. The

41. The King having Salvation. Zech.ix.9.

42. Mighty to fave. Ifa. lxiii. 1.

43: A Nobleman that went into a far Country, to receive for himfelf a Kingdom: Luke xix. 12.

44: The Husband, to whom the Church as a chaste Virgin is espoused. 2 Cor. xi. 2. Pf. xlv. 10,12,15, 16. Isa. liv. 5.

dy. Ifa. xii. 2. xxv. 4. xlix. 5. Jer. xvi. 19.

46. A stronger Man. (Luke xi. 22.)

47. Zerubbabel. Zech. iv. 6, 7, 9, 10. Hag. ii. 3, 5, 22, 24.

48. The Hope of Glory. Col. i. 27. 1

Tim. i. 1.

49. The most Mighty. Pf. xlv.3. Ifa.ix.6. 50. Shilob. Gen. xlix. 10.

51. He that liveth. Rev. i. 18.

52. A Man of War, or the most warlike. Exod. xv. 3.

53. He that treadeth the Wine-press alone. Ifa. lxiii. 2,3.

54. He judgeth among the Gods. Pfalm

55. The Judge of Quick and Dead. Acts x. 42.

56. The Judge of all the World. Gen.

XVIII. 25.

57. A tail Cedar, cropt off from the Top of young Twigs, and planted in the Moun-

Mountain of the Height of Ifrael. Ezek. xvii. 22,24. Compare Cant. v. 15.

58. A great Mountain. Dan. ii. 35.

59. A Stone cut out without Hands. Dan.

60. A Light of the City of the new Jerusalem. Rev. xxi. 23.

61. Christ is all, and in all. Col. iii. 11.

The Names by which the Bridegroom is distinguished by the Bride, in the Song of Solomon, are very delightful: For He is there called,

62. The King. Chap. i. 12. iii. 9, 11.
63. The Beloved, the Well-beloved.
Chap. i. 13, 14. ii. 3, 8, 9, 10, 16, 17.
iv. 16. v. 2, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 16. vi. 1, 2.
vii. 10, 11, 13. viii. 5, 14.

64. Whom my Soul loveth. Chap. i. 7.

iii. I, 2, 3.

65. A Bundle of Myrrh. Chap. i. 13.

66. A Cluster of Camphire. Chap. i. 14.

67. Fair and pleasant. Chap. i. 16. 68. The Rose of Sharon. Chap. ii. 1.

69. Who feedeth among the Lilies. Chap. ii. 16. vi. 2.

70. Solomon. Chap. iii. 7. viii. 11, 12.

71. King Solomon. Chap. iii. 9, 11.

72. White and ruddy. Chap. v. 10. 73. The Chiefest among ten thousand.

Chap. v. 10. Compare Dan. vii. 10.

74. My Brother. Chap. viii. 1.

HI.

HITHERTO we have fomewhat copiously enumerated the Names attributed to our Lord Jesus Christ, in the Holy Scriptures; to which any one will be able to add, at his pleasure, if more occur. I contend not about the Order in which thefe Names ought to be ranked. It is enough that we have the Names themselves; the Order in which they ought to be placed, ferves only to render our intended Meditation upon them the more easy: fo that the more prudent Persons, will even thus, in the present Recital, find Food and Nourishment to their Souls: For by what Name foever Christ is specified in the Scriptures, this Thing He truly is in effect. But in order to our Discovery of Christ in the Holy Scriptures, a diligent marking of the Characters whereby his Fore-runners and Types are distinguished, doth also conduce; which the bleffed John Arndius hath thus fweetly compris'd, in his Evangelical Postill, in his First Sermon on the Third Sunday in Advent. " All the Fore-" runners and Types of the Messiah, saith he, until St. John, had their proper and " peculiar Characters; as Abraham for "Circumcifion; Isaac for his Bleffing; " Jacob for his divine Conflict with an " Angel; Joseph for his Chastity and his "Glory; Mojes for his thining Visage and " fecret

" fecret Converse with God, (as a Man " fpeaketh unto his Friend;) Aaron for " his Priesthood and Sacrifices; Joshua " for his Victory obtained over the five " Kings, whilft the Sun stood still in the " midst of Heaven; Gideon for his war-" like Mind and his mighty Shout, (the " Sword of the Lord and of Gideon) and " blowing of the Trumpets; Samson for " his bodily Strength; Samuel for his " wonderful Call, the Lord calling him " three several times; David for his Vic-" tory over Goliah, his Harp, his Afflic-"tion and Persecution; Solomon for his "Wisdom and Riches; Jehoshaphat for a wonderful Victory without joining "Battle; Elijah for his going up into " Heaven; Elisha for the double Spirit of " Elijah, and for his Miracles; Hezekiah " for his Prayers, through which the Hoft " of the Affyrians was destroyed by an " Angel, and the Sun went back; Josiah " for his Piety, beginning to feek the Lord " at eight Years old; Isaiah for his pow-" erful Speaking; Jeremiah for his Tears " and Lamentations; Ezekiel for his Vifion of the spiritual Chariot and Tem-" ple; Daniel for his Revelation of "Things future, and for his Deliverance " out of the Lion's Den; Hosea for his " Love to the Jews; Joel for predicting the Effusion of the Holy Ghost on the " Day

"Day of Pentecost; Amos for his Shep-" herd's Staff; Obadiab for his Sermon " against the proud Jews; Jonah for the " Whale; Micab for his Prophecy con-" cerning Bethlehem; Nahum for his Ser-" mon concerning the Deliverance of the " Yews from their Captivity; Habakkuk " for his Confolatory Sermon, concerning " the Righteousness of Faith; the fult " shall live by Faith. Zephaniah for his " Prophecy of the Kingdom of Christ; " Haggai for his Consolation of all Na-" tions, which is Christ; Zechariah for "the Chariots going about to and fro through the Earth, that is, the Word of " God; and Malachi, for his Prophecy " concerning the Angel of the Covenant, " and the Angel who prepares the way of " the Lord, viz. John the Baptist, whose " Criterion was, a Voice crying in the Wil-" dernefs.

SECT. LXV.

That 'tis not sufficient for us to know all these Things of Christ, but that besides this Knowledge, there is still more required of us.

BUT you are not to be content with busying your self to replenish your Understanding derstanding with those Things, which the Scriptures teach you concerning Christ; but you must rather seek Christ with the most inward Desire of your Mind, and with the most passionate Love. Many Perfons think they know all thefe Things well enough, and have ventured to write whole Books concerning them, who nevertheless have not found Christ in reality, nor made any Approaches to Him. The Pharifees thought they had eternal Life in the Scriptures, and therefore they acquiesc'd in the Search of them *. This Pharifaical Opinion still obtains too much; but Christ testifies, that Life is to be had not in the Scriptures, but in Himfelf: that the Scriptures testify of Him, and that this Testimony is to be received, and that we must come unto bim, that we may have Life, John v. 40. (And you will not come unto me that ye might have Life) You do well in taking beed to the Scriptures, (which are a most sure Word of Prophecy) as unto a Light that shineth in a dark Place +; but you ought not to acquiesce in this, but to aspire farther, that the Day may dawn, and the Day-star arise in your Heart. 'Tis a glorious Thing to find Christ in the Scriptures, but still more glorious to find Him in your Heart; and to know, what is the Riches of the Glory of of this Mystery, which is Christ in us, the Hope of Glory *; and what it is, to be strengthned with Might by his Spirit in the inward Man, and to have Christ dwell in our Heart by Faith, and to be rooted and grounded in Love +. If we perceive Christ in us, and our felves in Christ, then we find Christ truly, and according to the Divine Will; nor does any one find Christ truly in the Scriptures, unless he also find Him in his own Heart. Since learned Men are, for the most part, contented with remembring the written Testimonies concerning Christ, or being able to turn to them in the Scriptures, they don't confider that Christ ought to be fought and found in the Scriptures in a more fublime and excellent manner. But St. Peter instructs us how Christ ought to be fought for there; ‡ Of which Salvation (of those that believe in Christ) the Prophets have inquired, and fearched diligently, who prophefied of the Grace that should come unto you, fearthing what, or what manner of Time the Spirit of Christ, which was in them, did signify, when it testify'd beforehand the Sufferings of Christ, and the Glo-ry that should follow, &c. What is it that St. Peter would hereby fignify? even that we ought carefully to regard the Spirit of Christ in the Men and Servants of God in the

* Col. i. 27. † Eph. iii. 16, 17. ‡ 1 Pet. i. 10,11.

the Old Testament; for that the Spirit of Christ did truly dwell in them, that the Prophets themselves knew that this Spirit was in them; and not only fo, but that they likewise knew, that this Spirit did foretel the Coming of Christ, or the Redeemer and Saviour of all Mankind; concerning which they were fo far from hefitating, that, taking it for an undoubted Truth, they bent their Minds only to the Search and Inquiry of these three Things: 1. The bringing of Salvation to Men through Christ: for they well knew that his Kingdom was not of this World, and that He was to deliver us from Darkness and eternal Mifery, to which we were liable by the Fall, and was to translate us into the Light and the Salvation of God. 2. The Time of his Coming; which not only the Prophecies thereof from the Beginning, but the very Spirit of Christ in them foretels, as * Daniel, in the first Place, labour'd after a more accurate Knowledge of the appointed Time of his Coming. 3. The Nature of the Time of the Meffiah, or what fort of Time that of the New Testament was to be: wherein the Prerogative of that was placed, before the Time of the Old Testament. Therefore, fince this is the truly spiritual, mystical, and ancient Way of feeking and tracing

of all the Holy Scriptures. 259

tracing out Christ, commended by the Holy Spirit, 'tis requifite that we should rightly understand, and enter upon the fame Order and Method: But this ought to be done through the fame Spirit; that is, we must be made Partakers of the Spirit of Christ, as St. Paul testifies, speaking of this Spirit; We having the same Spirit of Faith *. And, If any Man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of hist. For if Christ be thus in us, then we understand the Mystery which bath been hid from Ages, but now is made manifest to his Saints ‡. For this Mystery, as St. Paul here adds, | is xessos er sien, Christ in us, the Hope of Glory. But if the same Spirit which was in them be in us, one Glory of the Lord is feen in another, and the fame Image of Christ is discerned in all and every one of us. O bleffed Contemplation! Would to God we might thus, with a fedate Mind, behold Christ in all others, and that we our felves may be found a clear and lucid Mirror of Him.

S 2

SECT.

* 2 Cor. iv. 13. # Col. i. 26.

† Rom. viii. 9.

SECT. LXVI.

In what Things, and especially in what manner, Christ mystical is to be sought.

IN this Order you will learn to know Christ mystical, that is, Christ in his Members; and likewise in this Sense you will find, what the Epistle to the Hebrews says to be true; * Jesus Christ the same yesterday, to day, and for ever. Where the Spirit of Christ was, there also were his Sufferings; where his Sufferings were, there also was the Hope of Glory, which was to follow his Sufferings; as St. Peter testifies in the Place just now cited. Therefore as Christ from the very Beginning was dealt with or treated in his Members, fo in the fame Way is He to be inquired after in all the Holy Scriptures, not only as He is the Head, and in his proper Person, but also as he has animated all his Members by his Spirit, dwelt in them, fuffered, and overcome the World. For if Christ ought to be known according to his Fulness, 'tis necessary that He be known also in his Members, as in whom He alone is The malvin by in man, all Things, and in all. And without doubt, 'twas this our Saviour would teach his Disciples after after his Refurrection, when He faid, Ought not Christ to have suffered these Things, and to enter into his Glory? And upon the same Foundation, those who perfecuted the Lord, were guilty of all the righteous Blood that was shed upon the Earth, from the Blood of righteous Abel *. But as every Thing appears more plain from its Opposite; so in the Scriptures, when you shall have learn'd to know Christ my/tical, or Christ in his Members, you will eafily perceive a perpetual Opposition, and will discover the Spirit of Antichrist, not only in Cain, but also in his Succesfors without number; how this Oppofition remains constant and perpetual to the End: and thus the Truth of the Holy Scriptures is confirmed by the History of all Times, as well as by daily Experience. But this Opposition is not only observed in Persons, and their contrary Qualities, but extends itself much farther. For whatfoever is attributed to Christ, or is faid of Him on one Side, the same is asfigned by the other Side to the whole Antichristian Congregation, by way of Oppofition; forafmuch as Satan is in all Things the Ape, or Imitator of God. Therefore if this Opposition throughout the sacred Scriptures be well observ'd, Christ is thereby the better known in them, and the Application plication of the divine falutary Word is made the more easy. Thus in the House of Abraham, we behold Isaac, a Type of Christ, and the opposite to him, Ishmael; in the House of Isaac, Jacob, and his opposite Esau; in the House of Jacob, Jofeph, and his Opposites his Brethren, not as yet humbled. As according to the Gofpel of St. Matthew, * Before him shall be gathered all Nations, at the last Day, the Sheep on his right Hand, and the Goats on his left, or, the opposite Side: so in all the Holy Scriptures the two Parties are always fet in opposition to one another; and there is a perpetual Strife between them, to the Day of their final Separation: from which Opposition, the Nature and Property of the Church Militant of Christ is understood, whose chief Leader and King is Christ himself; for which Reason also, when he comes to Judgment, he will be glorified in his Saints, and be admired in all them who believe +.

SECT. LXVII.

The true, and safest Way of following and possessing Christ.

LEARN now diligently out of the Scriptures how Christ as your Saviour will

* Chap. xxv. 3c.

will be found by you. He calls those to Him, who labour and are heavy laden, and promites, that He will give them Rest, and that they shall find Rest to their Souls *; as being the true Noah, who shall comfort us concerning our Work, and Toil of our Hands, because of the Ground which the Lord bath curfed +. Whence you may be fully perswaded, that you will most certainly find Him, if you acknowledge your Sins, and your Mifery as a grievous Burden; and will carry it to Him with a contrite Heart, and a true Faith in his most gracious Promife, and with a fure Confidence in his Mediatorial Office. For you will not be deliver'd from this your Load and Burden, unless you resolve to take bis Yoke upon you, and to learn of Him: but not fo (which must be again observed) as to receive Him for a Teacher, to replenish your Understanding and Memory, but for one who requires a Change of the Mind, in Sincerity and Truth. You must therefore study to do his Will, and that of his Father, who fent Him; for so you will truly know of his Dostrine, whether it be of God, or whether he speaks of Himself +. But if his Yoke feems to you to be a heavy Burden, 'tis a sufficient Sign, that you have not yet found Him; for himself testifies, that his Yoke is eafy, and his Bur-S 4 den den light *; and therefore it will come to pass, that in bearing his Yoke, you will not always feel Trouble and Heaviness, but will find Rest to your Soul. And St. John teaches us, † that his Commandments are not grievous.

* Matt. xi. 28, 29. † Gen. v. 29. + John vii. 17.

SECT. LXVIII.

What Course is to be taken, when Christ long sought after, is not found by thee.

YOU must, in such Case, seek Christ with Prayers and with Tears, until fuch Time as you find by Experience, that He is not a Burden, but a Delight to you; for thus you will, as it were, constrain Him to tarry with you I. You will not obtain this by any natural Qualities, and the Strength of your own Reason. It is neceffary that that Love, wherewith he hath loved you, and still doth love you, should be shed abroad in your Heart, by the Holy Spirit: For, faith He, if a Man love me, be will keep my Words |. But his Love is also a Light, which kindles in you a Light of reciprocal Love, that what He requires, you will willingly do. The Love of Christ will change your Mind, and will make you a Partaker of the Mind of Christ,

* Matt. xi. 30. ‡ Luke xxiv. 29.

<sup>† 1</sup> John v. 3.
il John xiv. 23.

Christ, that you may be conformable to Him, and that He may be formed in you. With his Love, He will bestow on you his Spirit also; and this Spirit will lead you into all Truth, and powerfully incline you unto all Good; fo that for the Time to come it will be repugnant to your Temper, to speak or do any Thing, whereby you may grieve the Spirit of Christ. Therefore dismiss the Spirit of Servitude, which makes you forbear Evil, and to do Good, only out of fear of Punishment; so far as you suffer your self to be deceiv'd and enfnar'd by this Spirit, so far have you yet been from finding Christ. For the Spirit of Christ is not a slavish, servile Spirit: for he knoweth the Love of his Father, he delighteth to do his Will, and his Law is within his Heart *. Defire earneftly of God the Spirit of Adoption, by which you may cry Abba, Father. By how much the nearer this Cry of Abba, Father, shall approach to the filial Way of Crying, fo much the more will it be converted, as it were, into your very Nature; and the stricter the Union of your Heart is with that of God, fo as by a perpetual Conjunction, to become as it were one Spirit with Him +, with fo much the greater Purity have you found Christ, and have enjoy'd Him to your Benefit and Com-

* Pfalm xl. 8.

Comfort. But if it should happen, that remaining in a continual Driness of Spirit, you cannot live a Christian Life, but under great Anxiety of Mind, Fear and Terror, defiring indeed to elevate your Soul to God with a filial Spirit, but perceiving no Strength at all in your felf for the doing of this, tho' you detest Sin at the same time from the bottom of your Heart: Let not this manner of God's Procedure offend you. A Grain of Wheat feems indeed to rot, after being cast into the Ground; but by that means it takes Root, fprings up delightfully, and will bring forth fairer and sweeter Fruit. For you must not think, that you will ever be able fully and thoroughly to find Christ, and be a Partaker of Him, without Croffes and Afflictions. All the Holy Scriptures are a Riddle to you, while you are ignorant of the Mystery of the Cross. This is the Wisdom of God in a Mystery, even the hidden Wisdom, which God ordained before the World unto our Glory; which none of the Princes of this World knew; for had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of Glory *. This is that which St. Paul faith; We preach Christ crucified, unto the Yews a Stumbling-block, and unto the Greeks Foolishness +: And which Christ fays, Bleffed is he whofoever shall not be offended in me *. Now you do stumble at that Stumbling-block, (the' you may not be offended, that Christ was nailed to a Cross) if you do not deny your self, and take up your Cross daily, and follow Him +. The Mystery of the Cross is to be learned under the Cross, otherwise no one understandeth it. If you were to hear or read the literal Account of it for fix hundred Years together, but refused to bow down your Neck to this Yoke, you will remain as ignorant, infenfible, and unskilful in it. as you were before. Seek diligently, and fearch through all the Holy Writings, by what Means our Fore-fathers attained to Wildom, you will not find any who did ever attain it, without taking up his Crofs, if it were only a fincerc Renunciation of the World, which is a Cross bitter enough to Flesh and Blood, so that a Man more willingly undergoes all outward Calamities, than this fort of Cross. He that in this World loves the Crofs, and not Pleafure, this Man then fully understands the Mind of Christ, both with regard to his inward and outward State, and he himfelf hath the Spirit and the Mind of Chrift; he knows the Poverty of the Life of Christ, and he walks with Him in the very fame Way. To follow Christ in well doing, is a noble Thing; but to follow Him in Suffering, yea, and that in suffering readily, is a much more excellent Thing. Not only to endure the Cross and Afflictions, but to love them also from the Heart, is a Wisdom which far excels all other Wisdom. You desire to find out the Substance of the Scripture; but do you defire to know also the Substance of Wifdom, viz. the Love of the Cross? If you are averse to this, you will perhaps have fome external Knowledge of the other, but you will not relish, nor partake of it for your Delight and Comfort. Do you not hear, that you cannot become a Difciple of Christ, unless you take up your Cross daily, and follow Him? How can you perswade your self that you may be able to find Christ in the Scriptures, tho' you take not the Crofs upon you? Thro' this Wifdom, which is learned only by Experience, Christ makes you a Friend of God, and a Prophet *, confers upon you a Royal Priesthood +, makes you a Partaker of the Divine Nature 1; whatsoever you learnt of the Office and Person of Jesus Christ, before you resolved to take his Yoke upon you, was without Essicacy and Life in you. Therefore He says; Take my Yoke upon you, and learn of me ||. Many Persons complain, that the Scriptures are

* Wifd. vii. 27. ‡ 2 Pet. i. 4.

are obscure, and hard to be understood by them; for which Reason they do not willingly read them. But if you inquire into the Cause of it, you will find the Love of the Cross is wanting. Many become Divines out of Glory, few out of Love to the Cross. Where there is much of the Cross, there is much Light; where there is little of the Cross, there is much Darkness, and much Folly. St. Paul fays, God forbid that I should glory, save in the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the World is crucified unto me, and I unto the World *. And, I am crucified with Christ +. No Man can shew you a surer and safer Way of finding Christ effectually in the Scriptures, than this is. And if you would embrace all other good Doctrines, but should reject this, you would only lay hold of his Shadow, nay, you would take up with a false Light, which would be more dangerous to you, than if you had never heard any thing at all of Him. Wherefore, if you would certainly find Christ in the Scripture, you must betake your self unto his Cross, and you will have your Defire: Take it upon you with Confidence; Fear is a hurtful Delufion of the Flesh, and deprives one of the greatest Treasure. Apply your felf to Prayers, and contemplate that infinite and incomprehenfible

Love, which mov'd your Saviour to deliver Himself up for you his Enemy, to the most profound Humiliation, and to the bitterest Sufferings both internal and external. Should not this excite in you a Reciprocation of pure Love, that you should in like manner abandon and lay down your Life for the Brethren, as he loved you, and laid down his Life for you *? Believe me, this Melchifedeck, after your Conflict, will suddenly refresh you with Bread and Wine, and will confirm to you a Royal Priefthood, with his most abundant Benediction. This Benediction will penetrate you fo deeply, that after a short Fight you will find your felf endued with a Royal and Priestly Mind. You will find that He lives and reigns in you, who overcame all Things, and that you have an Unction proceeding from the Holy One +. He will give you Power to overcome all Things, and to fit with Him on his Throne, even as He overcame, and is fate down with his Father in his Throne t. They likewise who find Christ in the Scripture, do not find Him in the same Proportion, or in the same Measure. If you find Him as your Bridegroom, and know that you are his chosen Bride, then indeed you find Him after the best manner. There is here no sporting with Words; here is Spirit and Life, the Bride is placed on his right Hand in Gold of Ophir, faith David by the Spirit *. Where, in all the Holy Scripture, is this faid of any Angel? My Dove, my undefiled is but One; she is the only one of her Mother, she is the choice one of her that bear her, says Christ the Bridegroom +. This chiefest Excellence is situate in the Cross, Christ is the bloody Husband, as Zipporab called Moses in a Type ‡. 'Tis a great Mistake, to pretend to call your felf the Spouse of Christ, unless you desire from your Heart to be inwardly and outwardly conformed to Him. And how can you be conformed to Him, without Afflictions and the Cross? Confider all the Promises of God throughout the facred Records; are not they all wrapped up in the Mystery of the Cross? How therefore can that highest and most noble Degree of divine Favour, to become the Bride of Christ, be attained without the Cross? The Brands and Reproaches of the Bridegroom belong to the Bride. These are her most precious Ornaments. The more like one is to the Bridegroom in the Cross, the more like will he be to Him in Glory. In the Way of the Cros, Christ will join himself to you; He will walk with you, and will open the Scriptures to you; fo that you will be ready to fay with the Disciples, Did not our Heart burn within us *. Here you will fing not only the Song of Moses, but also the Song of Songs of your Solomon. Here shall thy Stones be laid with fair Colours, and thy Foundations with Sapphires; thy Windows shall be made of Agates, and thy Gates of Carbuncles, and all thy Borders of pleafant Stones +. For the New Jerufalem is built in thee, and the Name of the City of God is written upon thee I. Wherefore I fay unto you again, if you defire to find Christ in the Scriptures, that you may fatiate your Soul with Him, that your Soul may delight itself with Him as with Fatness ||, love, love I say, the Cross, and renounce the Pleasures of this World: fo you will find Christ in a better and more excellent manner, than can indeed be promifed to you in Words.

<sup>* 1</sup> John iii. 16. † 1 John ii. 20. ‡ Rev. iii. 21.

* Pfal. xlv. 9, 10. + Cant. vi. 9. + Exed. iv. 25.

SECT. LXIX.

How all this so difficult a Work ought to be recommended to God by Prayer.

"O ETERNAL and ever-living God" and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, "how

* Luke xxiv. 32. ‡ Rev. iii. 12.

" how manifold and how immense is thy "Grace, and the Riches of thy Mercy " and paternal Love to the Children of " Men? Thou hast decreed from all " Eternity to make known thy infinite " Love to Mankind in Christ Jesus: "Therefore thou madeft Man according to thy own Image and Likeness; and " when Man had loft by his own De-" fault the Glory he received at his Creation, Thou didst fuccour him accord-" ing to thy eternal Decree, and gavest " thy only begotten Son, to be a Mediator " between Thee and Man, that Man thro' " Faith in Him might obtain everlasting " Life. "And for the fake of this thy Son, Thou didst draw so near to Men, as to reveal thy paternal Will, to fuccour and affift them in thy Son. With this " Hope, thou didst comfort our first Parents, and the Fathers of the old World, as a Mother comforts her Son; and thou madest a new Covenant with Abraham, and didst appoint him to be the Father of all that should believe: forasmuch as thou didst promise him, that in his Seed all Nations should be bleffed. Thou didst likewise confirm this Promise to his Posterity, and madest " them to be Fore-runners and Types of " the Seed of the Woman, which was " pro-

" promised from the Beginning. Thou " didst preserve, as the Apple of thine " Eve, that holy Line, out of which " was to arise the Saviour of all the "World; and Thou didft still streng-" then more and more the Faith of af-" ter-Ages, by the Prophecies of their Fore-fathers. Thou didft restrain thy " Promises to one certain People out of all Nations, to one certain Tribe out of all Tribes, to one certain Branch out of all Branches; and likewife to a " certain and appointed Time, to a cer-" tain and a cholen Place, and to a cer-" tain Virgin appointed by thy Holy Spi-" rit; that thereby all Occasion might " be taken away from the Enemy and " Adversary, of rendring thy most ex-" cellent Promises doubtful or uncertain. " Moreover, fuch was the good Plea-" fure ( eudonia) of thy fatherly Love to-" wards us, that thou didft not only at " fundry Times, and in divers Manners, " fpeak unto our Fathers by the Prophets, " but didst likewise command those " Things that were spoken, to be com-" mitted to Writing, that they should be " transmitted to our Times, and render thereby thy Love to us more clear and " illustrious; For who could have known " otherwise the Decree of thy Love to " Mankind? But now thou haft every " where where described the promised Saviour " in fuch lively Colours; thou hast established so perfect an Agreement between the Testimonies of thy Servants; and thou hast given him before Hand, such Signs and Characters in the Word, that none should be able to arrogate to himfelf this Name; but that thy only begotten Son might be acknowledged by all, who place their Trust in thy Word; nor should any one have Cause to doubt, but that he had found Him, of whom Moses in the Law and the Prophets have wrote. For they did fee bis Glory, the Glory as of the only-begotten of the Father. He himself did manifest his Glory, not in Words only, but in the full-" nefs of his Grace and Truth, and in "Works, which none other had ever " done before him; fo that the People " were compelled to fay; when Christ " cometh, will He do greater Things than " this Man bath done? And that they " now believed in Him, not only for the " Words of thy Holy Prophets, but be-" cause they themselves heard him, and " knew that this was indeed the Christ, " the Saviour of the World; altho' it " was indeed necessary, that the Scripture " should be fulfilled in Him, that this Stone " should be rejected of the Builders, and fo " be made by Thee the Head of the Corner.

ner. For the illustrious Goffel of Peace " was hidden from those that perish, in " whom the God of this World had blinded their Minds, viz. in Unbelievers, leaft " the Light of the Gofpel of the Glory of " Christ, who is thy Image, should shine upon them, 2 Cor. iv. 4. "AND, O Eternal, and infinite Love, thould not our Bowels burft within us, " when we continually fee how little the " immense Riches of thy Love are consider'd, and by how few of us? For how " very small is the Number of those who worthily reflect with themselves, that " thou dost, in thy Beloved Son, give thy " felf to Mankind? How few are there, " who ftrive or are folicitous to know rightly thy Heart, in which this (ginay-Sporta ) Love to Mankind dwells? How few do regard thy having given thy "Word as a Fountain of Wildom and Source of Life? That thou hast placed our greatest Treasure, and all our Salvation, in the Holy Scriptures, as it were in a strait Manger, and in their fwadling Cloaths? Ought not the one only Word, that thou hast spoken, who art the one most High Creator of all " Things, the Omnipotent, most power-" ful and tremendous King, who fittest upon thy Throne, God Ruler over all, and which Word thou hast declared by

of all the Holy Scriptures. 277

" thy Holy Spirit; ought it not to be " dearer to us than many thousands of " Gold and Silver? Now thou hast condefeended to fuch an intercourse with Men, by thy exceeding great Love to them in thy Son, that thou hast offered them all the Treasures of Wisdom and Knowledge " in Him, whom thou hast given to be their " Saviour, and haft referred them to thy " Word, which thou hast caused to be at " large and abundantly declared to them, that by this very Means they may be " conducted to thy Christ, whom by feeling after they might find, and in Him 66 might be made Partakers of all thy Glory. " O LORD, great is our Iniquity and Sin, whereby we have offended thee, by despising thy Word, even from our Infancy, especially that to this very Day, we have been so little mindful of the Testimonies of thy Servants, which are fo to be used, that we might come to him, in whom thou hast promifed us Eternal Life. O Lord, it is no small Damage " that we have received through this Neglect. For hereby, we have alienated our felves from thy most blessed Communion, into which thou wouldest " have adopted us, if we had feriously en-" deavoured rightly to find thy Beloved " Son in the Holy Scriptures, to cleave unto him with a full Faith, and to u-" nite

" nite ourselves to Thee continually by the same Faith. But at last, after hav-" ing been fo long turning over the Scrip-" tures, we find it necessary to learn, what " is the Scope of them; and if we knew it before, 'tis our greater Shame that " we did not feek it fooner; and if we " fought Him, that we did not find Him; " and if we found Him in the Letter of " the Scripture, that we did not convert " it more to our Use; and if we did benefit a little, that we did not make a "-greater Progress, that we did not strain " all the Faculties of our Mind, to enflame " our Love of Christ, and to root that " Love more deeply in our Hearts. Hath " not He promised, that He will mani-" fest himself to us, if we Love Him, and " keep his Word? Ah Father, it is pure-" ly our own Fault, that we are not at all, or indeed not in its full Degree, made " Partakers of this glorious Manifestation (¿μοανισμέ) Art not thou Love itself! and wouldest thou not long ago have come unto us, and even have made thy abode with us, together with thy beloved Son, in the most full Communion of the Consolation of thy Holy Spirit! O Lord, according to the Riches of thy Goodness, and Forbearance, and Gentlenets, wink at " the Times of our Ignorance, or rather of " our Contempt of thy Word, nay, of thy Son " himself,

"himself, who was given to us by Thee, to be our Wisdom, and Righteousness, and Sanctification, and Redemption. We are ashamed of our Folly, and the great slothfulness of our Hearts. But, O thou, who makest us to know this, pardon us, and for the future deliver us from it; and contrarywise, kindle thou in us a Love and Delight in thy Word, open our Understanding, that we may find Christ in the Scriptures, and incline our Will to follow him, the Light of the World, and to walk constantly in that " Light.

" GRANT, I pray thee, O eternal Love. to this present weak and imperfect Tes-" timony, toward a further Illustration " of thy Name by the Knowledge of thy Son, thy paternal Benediction, that it may bring forth good Fruit in those who read it, and that that Fruit may endure for ever. Grant, O Lord, that at length, a due Honour may be given unto thy Word, and that by Means of it, the Name of thy Son may be glorified throughout the World, that Men may " every where rejoice at thy amazing Love to Mankind, and every one may " cry loud concerning Thee: How greatly dost thou Love thy People! And let all " Mankind know, that thou hast deliver'd " all Things into the Hands of thy Son, " that

"that all may fit down together at his "Feet, and learn from his Word; fo that it may be faid among the Gentiles, that the Lord reigneth, and that He hath prepared and established his Kingdom unto the Ends of the Earth, and will judge the People righteously. Amen. Grant this, for the Sake of thy great and wonderful Name, which is Holy, that the Righteous may rejoice in Thee, and give Thee Thanks, and celebrate thy Holiness, and thy Truth, for ever and ever. Amen.

FINIS.

SERMON

ONTHE

RESURRECTION

OF

OUR LORD;

PREACHED ON

Easter-Sunday.

Ille bene resurget in corpore, qui primo refurrexit in Spiritu. Augustinus.

LONDON:

Printed by Joseph Downing, in Bartholomew-Close, near West-Smithsfield.

MDCCXXXI

-yabaucers Ed

Jони xi. 25.

Jesus said unto her: I am the Resurrection, and the Life.

T should seem a needless Work to do that which is the common business of Sermons on this Day, viz. to prove the Truth of our Lord's Resurrection; and, which is the fure consequence of it, the Certainty of ours. It appears superfluous to multiply Arguments to confirm an Article of Faith, into which we were all initiated in our Baptism, which we still profess to believe, which we affirm daily in repeating the Creeds, and which, on the Annual Return of this Season, we assemble on purpose to commemorate.

But when we confider the Lives of thote who profess this Truth, who received the Sacramental Tokens of it in their Baptism, who repeat it daily in their Creeds, and meet here Annually for the solemn Celebration of it, as a fundamental

2 Ar-

Article of their Faith: when, I fay, we confider the Lives of these Professors, there feems but too much reason to sufpect, that notwithstanding all our Professions, many among us are not heartily convinced of it. For after all the elaborate Discourses upon this Subject, Where is that indifference for the things of the World? that Spiritual Joy, that Purity, that Heavenly-mindedness, which the Refurrection of our Lord should inspire? Where is that Self-denial, that Watchfulness over our own Hearts, and Attention to the Omnipresence of GoD; that exact Justice in our Dealing, that warm Benevolence towards all Men; and in a word, that zealous Preparation against the Day of Judgment, which an effectual Affurance of our own Refurrection would certainly oblige us to? I might ask the greater part, How they would live, if they did not believe any Refurrection? What alteration would there be in their Manners? Would they be more addicted to Pleasure, more intent upon their temporal Interest, or less careful for the Good of others, if they had never heard the Truths of the Gospel? yet they lay claim to the venerable Name of Chriftians, and affemble here to celebrate the Triumphs of our Lord's Refurrection. I dare not therefore fay of fuch, that they they do not believe it; but I fear they have not duly thought about it: they are not sufficiently apprized of the wondrous effects and consequences of this great Mystery. It is not enough that we know it by name and by hear-fay. All faving Knowledge is experimental: and it is not fufficient that we know the History, but we must also feel the Power of our Lord's Refurrection: not only that He is Rifen, but also that he is the Refurrection. As the Sun is Light to himfelf, and the great fource of Day to all the Worlds around him: fo is our Lord, Refurrection to himfelf, and the Caufe and Author of Refurrection in all others.

LEAVING * therefore the History of our Lord's Rising from the Dead, as an established and acknowledged Truth: and presuming, I hope not without good Reason, upon your constant and open Profession of it: I shall at present, consider our Lord as he is the Resurrection, not only in himself, whereby he raised his own most holy Humanity, but as He works this great Work in us, being, as I said, the immediate Cause and Author of our Resurrection. This is what he plainly affirms of himself in the Text, I am the Resurrection and the Life; which * This SERMON was made 18 Years ago, when Infidelity was not become Epidemical, as it fince feems to be.

A 3

St.

St. Paul clearly explains, 1 Cor. xv. Since by Man came Death, by Man came also the Resurrection of the Dead: for as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.

THIS Refurrection to be wrought in us by Christ, is twofold; relating to the two constituent Parts of Man, the Body, and the Soul: for to these two belong two distinct Resurrections, very different from each other.

THE first Resurrection, that of the Soul I mean, is of a moral and spiritual Nature: It is the Rifing of the Soul from the Death of Sin, unto the Life of Righteousness; States more different, and infinitely more important, than those of natural Life and Death: It is peculiar to the Saints of God: It requires our Concurrence with the operations of Grace, to which alone it is to be imputed: and bleffed and boly is he that bath part in this first Resurrection, Rev. xx. 6.

THE fecond Refurrection, is that of the Body, after our natural Death. It does not take Place till the Day of Judgment: It is common to all Men; it is necessary and inevitable; and is the Effect of the Justice, rather than of the Grace of Almighty Gon.

OF both these Resurrections, Jesus Christ is the immediate Cause and Author:

thor: Of the first, as he is Saviour of the World; and of the fecond, as he is the Judge of it; for it is a Prerogative very properly annexed to his Office of universal Judge, that he should, by his own Power, summon all Mankind to his Tribunal.

THE Power of this second Resurrection from the State of natural Death, seems to have been principally intended in the literal sense of the Text, which was spoken on the account of Lazarus, whom our Lord was then about to raise from the Dead. I know, said Martha, that he shall rise again at the Resurrection of the Last Day. Fesus said unto her, "I am the Resurrection and the Life." I have the Power of raising all Men, and therefore I can raise any of them, how, or at what time, I think sit.

This Resurrection from the natural Death, is, I think, commonly well enough understood in the general. We can all, by a Faith in the Omnipotence of God, form sufficient Notions of our being raised again at the Last Day with our Bodies: so that the whole Man, which acted in this Life, may be qualified for the Rewards or Punishments of the next. There is, I suppose, little difficulty in conceiving this, seeing the Experience we now have, of the Union of Soul and

A 4 Body,

Body, may inform us, in a good degree, of what shall come to pass at the Resurrection of the Dead, when they shall be re-united.

But the spiritual Resurrection of our Souls in this Life, is a thing less thought of, and less understood by the generality of Mankind. This is one of those things of God, whereof the natural or animal Man is ignorant. It requires a spiritual discernment, and some spiritual experience for the right apprehending it. The Holy Scriptures treat of it very frequently, but no where more largely and clearly than in the fecond Lesson of the Morning Service for this Day, (Rom. vi.) I shall read the whole Passage, only premising that the Apostle here treats of the Death to Sin, as well as the Spiritual Resurrection: the former being always necessary to the latter, and so connected and imply'd in it, that they cannot be eafily confidered feparately. But hear St. Paul, Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ, were baptized into his Death, i. e. into an Obligation, to be made conformable to it by dying to Sin? Therefore we are buried with him by Baptism into Death, that like as Jesus Christ was raised up from the Dead, by the Glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of Life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his Death, 20€

we shall be also in the likeness of his Refurrection. Knowing this, that our old Man is crucified with him, that the Body of Sin might be destroyed, that benceforth we should not serve Sin: for he that is dead, is free from Sin. Now if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him. Let not Sin therefore reign in your mortal Body, that ye should obey it in the Lust thereof. You observe here. that the Death to Sin, is joined with the spiritual Resurrection; as a Circumstance indifpenfably requifite to, and implied in it; for no Person is capable of a Resurrection till he is once dead. 'Tis necesfary therefore that we confider this Death here mentioned, that we enquire what the old Life is, and how it is extinguished; before we can understand any thing of the spiritual Resurrection that follows it, and the new Life to be conferr'd. The Life to be lost by this Death, is faid to be that of our old Man, which is a Scriptural Phrase, signifying that nature, temper, or disposition of Mind, with which we are born, as we are the Sons of Adam, and Heirs of original Corruption, whereby, as the Scripture affures, and even our Catechism instructs us, we are the Children of Wrath. It is this innate depravation, which makes us ignorant of God, blind and stupid to all spiritual things, felfish.

felfish, covetous, unjust, deceitful. Hence arise that Pride and Arrogance, that Envy, Malice, and Detraction, which make Men grievous to themselves and one another: From hence also all other Works of the Flesh take their Original; our Sloth, Intemperance, and all other evil Lusts, which make us odious in the fight of God, and utterly incapable of those pure and heavenly Delights of Piety, which conftitute the proper Happiness of our Nature.

BESIDES those groffer Acts of Sin, which fall under common Observation, there is a depth of Subtilty and Wickedness, an endless train of Vanity and Selfdeceit, which cannot be well described, nor rightly understood by any, whose Minds are not enlightned by Grace; for as it would be a hard matter to make a blind Man comprehend what Darkness is, at least, to give him such a Notion of it, as we have, tho' he lives in it continually: fo it is alike difficult to give unconverted Sinners a right Notion of what is here meant by the old Man; because this, as most other things, is best, if not only known by its contrary. But in general we are to know, that whatever tendency there is in our Nature, to the commission of Sin, it is a part or member of the old Man; 'tis the hereditary Dif-

Distemper of our Souls, derived from Adam, the corrupt Source of our Race. While we are yet in our natural State, unreformed by divine Grace; this lives, this reigns in our mortal Bodies. Why is this Man a Drunkard, that malicious, a third unjust in his Dealings? The reason is, because the Resurrection of Christ has not had its due Effect; the Mind is not renewed, and the old Man of Sin is yet unmortified. That corrupt Nature, which we received from Adam, is still active and vigorous: the Nature, I fav. we received from Adam; which therefore is called the old Adam, bearing his Name from whom it is derived: it is also called the old Leaven, because it has infected the whole race of Mankind; as also Flesh, and the Body of Sin, which are different terms for the same thing, even the Principle of Corruption which is in our Nature.

This, as I faid, lives and reigns in the Hearts of unregenerate Men; and would for ever reign there, for ought that we can do to hinder it, if Jesus Christ did not interpose, and by the virtue of his Sufferings and Death, communicates to Believers such Powers of Grace, as are sufficient to destroy this Root of Evil in their Souls: I say, that this corruption of our Nature is such, as we cannot possibly resist by our own Strength. It is too hard for our most serious Purposes; it bears down our feeble Resolutions like a Torrent, and renders all our Opposition fruitless and ineffectual. In vain does the Law encounter it with her impotent Difcipline; in vain does she set before us her rigorous Commands and Prohibitions; in vain does she display her Rewards and Punishments. These all serve only to shew us our Guilt and Danger; but cannot work our Deliverance. The Rod of Mofes cannot so expel Nature, but that she will still recur, she will still return upon us, and take her old Courfes. We are still the fame Men, and all our Struggles after Virtue, are like the motion of a Door upon its Hinges, still fixt to the same Place.

hard

But behold a greater than Moses is come in the Gospel Dispensation, even our Lord Jesus Christ; and what the Law could not do, in that it was weak through the Flesh, i. e. our corrupt Nature, which is too violent to be controlled by the dead Letter of written Precepts: what this Law could not do, that (faith St. Paul) bath God done for us, by sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful Flesh: He has for, and through him, granted us new Powers and Abilities, whereby we are enabled to mortify, i.e. kill and deftroy our corrupt Nature. Our old Man is crucified with bim, (faith the fame Apostle) that the Body of Sin

Sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve Sin. But this is still insufficient to make us either holy, or happy: it is at best but a negative Goodness: there is more required of us than a mere Abstinence from Vice; for example, it is not enough that we do not hate our Neighbour, but we must actually love him with a sincere Affection. We must, in a word, not only cease to do evil, but also learn to do well: and as the old Man of Sin is to be destroyed, so the new Man is to be raised up in us.

Bur this is a natural confequence of the former: If we be dead with Christ, we believe also that we shall be raised up with him. If we have been planted together in the likeness of his Death, we shall also grow up in the likeness of his Resurrection. This is the Language of the Holy Ghost; and the best Interpretation I can give you of it, is to be deduced from the following Principle, viz. " That every Act or Suf-" fering of Christ, as it is meritorious of "Grace, so also is it expressive of it: it " represents that very fort, or kind of " Grace, which it obtains for us." Thus by his Death He put off all that mortal corruptible Nature, which he had received from Adam: He destroyed that Body, which was liable to Pain, Sickness, Death, and all other Infirmities, incident to the fallen

14 . A SERMON upon the fallen State of Mankind; and thereby did He purchase for us those Graces, which are effectual for the destroying in each of us the old Adam, the corrupt Principles of Sin, derived to us from the Guilt of our first Parents. And in like manner, at his Resurrection he resumed a new Nature; his Body was raised incorruptible, impassible, and glorious, such as it now resides at the right Hand of the Father: and thereby has he obtained for us also a new Nature, a new Life, such a Frame and Disposition of Soul, as will effectually produce all kinds of Virtue, and richly abound in good Works.

THIS is the great and unspeakable Advantage which redounds to us from our Lord's Refurrection: But how few are there, that rightly value it? It produces every thing that is truly great and glorious. It confers a Divine Life. It makes us Partakers of the divine Nature, strong, by the Strength, wife, by the Wifdom, holy, by the Holiness of God. But the Men of the World relish none of these things, they have no Eyes to discern the beauty of Holiness: Almost all their imaginations and defires run in direct opposition to it: they fear the thoughts of it should make them melancholy. All their Concern is about the animal Life, all their Care is for the old Man, for his Maintenance and Support, port, and how they may make Provision for the Flesh, to sulfil the Lusts thereof. No wonder then that they feel no Joy arise in their Hearts, at the News of our Lord's Resurrection; or his assuring us, that he is the Resurrection, and that he will raise us, as he did himself. They have no Interest in it: they are not like to be Gainers by it: and therefore they see no Glories in the Gospel that relates it. But St. Paul has taught us, that if the Gospel be hid, it is hid to those that are lost.

OTHERS again, who pretend to have an higher Opinion of Virtue, and own, by their Words at least, that it is the most noble Acquisition our Nature is capable of, yet think that there is no such great Difficulty in attaining it; that there is no need of such heavenly Machinary (as they may lightly term the Mysteries of our Redemption.) Nec Deus intersit nist dignus vindice nodus. Good Morality, they say, will carry us to Heaven: but they cannot see much Ground for believing all the abstruse Revelations of Christianity; nor how we shall be made wiser, or happier by such Belief.

But let these Men endeavour to live up even to their own notions of Morality. Let them try how they can acquit themselves in the Duties of Temperance, Meekness, Universal Benevolence, and a suitable Homage to the Supreme Being: and then,

if

16 A SERMON upon the, &c.

if they do not wilfully deceive themselves, they will learn by their own Experience, that they cannot do these things by their own Strength, and that they need divine Supports and Affistances, in the arduous Task of Virtue. The Gospel will then appear to them (provided they be fincere, and confequently not indisposed for the Illumination of God's Holy Spirit) The Gospel will then appear to them in its proper Beauty, and they will find it, according to its true Interpretation, Glad Tidings, shewing them, that Jesus Christ is ready to do that for them, which they cannot do for themselves: That by the Merits and Power of his Death, he will destroy their old Man, the Principle of Evil, that now tyrannizes in their Souls; and by the Power of his Refurrection, work their fpiritual Refurrection to the new Life of Righteousness. Then shall be brought to pass the Saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in Victory The Sting of Death is Sin; but thanks be to God, which giveth us the Victory through our Lord Jefus Christ. Therefore, my beloved Brethren, be ye stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the Work of the Lord, for a smuch as ye know, that your Labour shall not be in vain in the Lord.

